His Chief Cabinet Officer Receives Unofficial Visit from Wilson's Emissary.

MAY MEET ENVOY HIMSELF

Mexican President Seems Eager to Learn American Proposals—Japan Bars Diaz as Envoy.

MEXICO CITY, Aug. 12.—The first success in the indirect diplomatic negotiations between the United States and Mexico was achieved to-day by John Lind, President Wilson's personal representative, when he contrived to be received unofficially by Federico Gamboa, Provisional President Huerta's Minister of Foreign Relations. Both Mr. Lind and Señor Gamboa insist that no great importance attaches to the visit. The Mexican Government still is insistent in its formal announcements that it will not deal with Mr. Lind officially nor listen to any suggestion from him as to mediation or to any proposal emanating from his Government.

Mr. Lind was presnted to Señor Gamboa by Nelson O'Shaughnessy, Chargé d'Affaires of the American Embassy, in the character of a private citizen. The conversation between the Mexican Cabinet officer and Mr. Lind was entirely informal, both men carefully avoiding the subject of politics or the mission intrusted personally to Mr. Lind by President Wilson.

The visit of Mr. Lind consumed only a few minutes of Señor Gamboa's time, and only a small number of persons knew that it had been made. The time selected for the call was when few visitors were in the Foreign Office, and a disposition was shown in the department to cloak it with secrecy.

No further step was taken by Mr. Lind to-day to advance the object of his mission to Mexico. It is believed there will be little development in the situation before Thursday. Mr. Lind is in communication with Washington, and it is not improbable that his movements will be governed by instructions from there based on the progress he is able to make here.

In view of President Huerta's note of last week, issued through the Acting Foreign Minister, stating that Mr. Lind would not be received officially unless he brought credentials and also official recognition of the Huerta Government, great significance attaches to his reception by Huerta's Cabinet chief, even unofficially.

Think Huerta Wants Message.

By some persons the Minister's reception of ex-Gov. Lind is taken as an indication of a disposition on the part of President Huerta to learn the character of the message Mr. Lind bears. Officials high and low persist in saying that President Huerta never will receive Mr. Lind, especially as President Wilson's emissary, but there is an unconfirmed rumor in circulation that steps already have been taken to bring about a conference between them.

It is the opinion of Mexicans generally that even if President Huerta should receive Mr. Lind, it would be merely to show him personal courtesy and would not alter the stand which the Mexican Executive has taken in regard to foreign interference in the republic. It is pointed out also that even should President Huerto be disposed to listen to suggestions, there remains the rebel element as a bar to the restoration of peace. Rebel sympathizers in the capital, and even pro-government men, say the rebels are no more inclined to permit mediation than is the Administration.

Linds to Move Into Embassy.

Mr. and Mrs. Lind will move to-morrow from the hotel in which they have been stopping to the American Embassy, where newly purchased and rented furniture will be installed in a sufficient number of rooms to provide them with a comfortable apartment. Mrs. Lind, who was slightly ill yesterday, was improved to-day. She inspected the Embassy building, selected the rooms to be furnished, and made suggestions regarding what should be put into them.

Mr Lind interested himself this afternoon by driving about the capital and visiting points of interest much like the ordinary tourist. His figure already has become familiar to the public, and he is the object of mild interest wherever he appears.

WILSON PEACE HOPE GROWS.

Lind's Visit to Mexican Minister Encourages Administration.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 12.—Advices to the State Department from Mexico City to-day served to give great encouragement to the Administration. A telegraphic dispatch from Nelson O'Shaughnessy, the American Chargé d'Affaires there, brought assurances of a change for the better in the feeling that had been aroused toward this Government, while news that John Lind, President Wilson's special representative, had been received by Federico Gamboa, the new Mexican Minister of Foreign Affairs, indicated a willingness on the part of Provisional President Huerta to forget his fiery threat of a few days ago that Mr. Lind would be treated as an undesirable person unless he brought credentials as Ambassador and was prepared to recognize the Mexican Government.

The fact that Señor Gamboa received Mr. Lind was as gratifying as it was surprising. Everything that had come from the Mexican Government prior to Mr. Lind's arrival indicated that he would not be recognized officially and would be treated as a rank outsider and meddler. Señor Gamboa assumed office only yesterday, and his quick agreement to discuss the situation with Mr. Lind shows that President Huerta is in a conciliatory mood and is willing to find out what the United States Government has to propose as a means of bringing peace to Mexico.

Reports to Washington concerning Minister Gamboa have given this Government a good opinion of him, and his first step in his new office is taken to mean that the suggestion for a settlement which Mr. Lind is to set forth will receive respectful attention.

Lind Is to Move Slowly.

In his message to the Secretary of State, which supplied ground for encouragement, Mr. O'Shaughnessy said it had been decided to proceed cautiously and British Post Office Sanctions Decision as to Big Cunard Liners.

By Marconi Transatlantic Wireless Telegraph to The New York Times.

LONDON, Aug. 12.—The Irish representations in favor of the retention of Queenstown as a port of call for transatlantic liners have failed to convince the Post Office.

A Parliamentary White Paper issued to-day gives official sanction to the decision of the Cunard Line that the Lusitania and Mauretania shall no longer touch at the Irish port, owing to the fact that the entry to the harbor is attended with great risks.

GOES CRAZY AT OPERATION.

Surgeon Suddenly Loses Mind and Patient Is Killed.

Special to The New York Times.

CINCINNATI, Aug. 12.—A distressing story was told in Probate Court to-day by the wife of Dr. William R. Dabney, a Marietta physician, before he was committed to Longview Hospital upon the application of his wife.

Mrs. Dabney told the court physician that the first signs of mental trouble were exhibited by her husband while he was performing a surgical operation in a Marietta hospital. He slashed right and left with his operating knife, and employes of the hospital had to take him in charge. The patient, she said, was the unfortunate victim of his sudden madness, and was killed.

The wife said that she took her husband to Canada, hoping that rest would restore his reason. But he did not get much better, and was brought to Cincinnati a short time ago.

SAILORS DROWN ON A DARE.

Two Saved with Difficulty After Four Plunge Overboard.

NEWPORT, Aug. 12.—An argument among four seamen at the naval torpedo station as to which was the best swimmer is believed to have led to the drowning of two of them, Thomas Sharpe and P. J. Finnegan, and the close escape of Joseph Eigo and Patrick Cavanaugh in this harbor to-day. The sailors were returning in a skiff from the Newport lighthouse, when all four plunged overboard. The strong tide quickly exhausted their strength, forcing them to call for help.

Machinist's Mate E. H. Smith, on the destroyer Jennings, moored at the station, heard their shouts and plunged in at once to their assistance, but was almost overpowered by the struggles of Eigo. Quartermaster T. J. Glavin of the destroyer Perkins, who was close behind Smith, swam up, and between them they got Eigo ashore. Cavanaugh reached the sea wall, where he was picked up.

Divers were unable to find the bodies of Sharpe and Finnegan.

A court of inquiry has been ordered.

RUSHES CLERIC TO SENATE.

Deputy Finds One to Open Session with Prayer in Chaplain's Absence.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 12.—Many Senators in times past have been arrested by the Sergeant at Arms and haled to the Capitol to make up a quorum, but never before has a Deputy Sergeant at Arms, been sent out to bring in a clergyman to say the opening prayer as was the case to-day. John J. McGrain was the deputy, and he had sweeping instructions to get a preacher, regardless of denomination.

With two minutes to spare, Mr. McGrain returned in an automobile, hurried to the Vice President's office, and introduced the Rev. Dr. C. Albert Thomas of Cannonsburg, Penn., to Mr. Marshall just in time for the Vice President to lead the way into the Senate chamber and open the session at 11 o'clock.

The earlier meeting of the Senate was the cause of the trouble, as the Rev. Forrest J. Prettyman, the Senate's chaplain, had not been informed that the usual hour of 12 had been changed. Dr. Thomas is a young Episcopalian filling in during the Summer at St. Mark's Church, near the Capitol. At 11 minutes to 11 he was quietly reading when McGrain hammered at the door. With a word of explanation Dr. Thomas was bundled into a taxicab, and the chauffeur was told to violate the speed law.

SOUP AND A SEPARATION.

Both Are Waiting for Rupp, Who Didn't Get Home to Dinner.

Lawrence Rupp, whose wife last week had him arrested for interrupting her suffrage meeting in East New York, gave very specific orders to Mrs. Rupp when he left their home at 1,100 Glenmore Avenue yesterday morning about the dinner he expected to be awaiting his return at 7 o'clock in the evening.

Mrs. Rupp prepared the dinner as per orders, and when Mr. Rupp did not come home at 7 o'clock to eat it she announced that she was tired of making soup for him and was going to sue for a separation. Reporters who called at her house two hours after her husband had said he would be home were invited to view the uneaten meal.

"See here, what's waiting on the stove," Mrs. Rupp said to them. "Nice hot soup, and the last I shall ever make for him. He doesn't like me being a suffragist, and neither do I like his way of staying away after the soup's made. Besides, he hasn't ever kept the oath that he made to love, honor, and protect me. I am sure I can get a separation. I went to the Domestic Relations Court to-day to have him arrested for failing to support me and our five children.

"I don't know if they served him with a warrant. Judge Fitch of the Domestic Relations Court told me he was surprised at the way that man treated me. He said he had provided $12 a week for food and the like. And all the time I was taking in washing or working out at housekeeping to keep food in the children's mouths. I am going to get a separation just as soon as ever I can."

At midnight Mrs. Rupp was still sitting up keeping the soup warm for Mr. Rupp.

FIRE IN GOV. FOSS'S PLANT.

Police Investigating Blaze Which Threatens Entire Blower Works.

BOSTON, Aug. 12.—The extensive plant of the B. F. Sturtevant Blower Works Company, of which Gov. Foss is the principal owner, was threatened seriously by fire late to-night. A warehouse, located between the main factory building and the structure in which the oil supply of the factory is kept, was destroyed at a loss of $25,000.

The Boston police began an investigation to determine whether the fire was incendiary.

DWYER'S MEN THROW HEALY'S DINERS OUT

Electroliers and Dishes Smashed and Place Littered with Wreckage—'Speaks for Itself,' Says Dwyer.

At five minutes before 1 o'clock this morning some seventy or eighty men and women were gathered about the tables in Healy's restaurant, at Sixty-sixth Street and Columbus Avenue, waiting to see what the police proposed to do about the enforcement of the 1 o'clock closing regulations. The experiences of the diners twenty-four hours before had been exciting, and many of them were back at the tables again as 1 o'clock approached, while a crowd of several hundred filled the street outside. Every man and woman there knew that Healy's was open and that Healy proposed to keep his place open. They knew that the bar was barred and padlocked, and that nothing but food was on the table.

Things began to happen at five minutes before the stroke of the hour. Then a policeman in uniform mounted the orchestra platform and told the guests that they would have to get out. The guests responded with shrieks of laughter and much good-natured booing. To a chorus of this the policeman climbed down, satisfied that he had "gone through the motions" and knowing that his part of the programme had been done properly. He was then roundly applauded.

One o'clock came, and on the instant Inspector Dwyer and fifty policemen invaded Healy's. For the last half hour they had been gathering quietly in the crowd outside.

Diners Carried to Street.

From the moment of their entrance they moved swiftly. Before many of the guests knew what had happened a policeman was bending over each table assuring every one that he or she must leave at once. Their was a hubbub of persons getting to their feet, of outspoken protests, of grumbling, of laughter, and of chairs scraping back across the floor. A few men, who had escorted women to the restaurant, made no resistance, but started slowly for the door.

Then came trouble. It took the form of at least a dozen men who sat firmly in their chairs and in response to the police orders flatly declared their intention of staying where they were.

The bluecoats knew what to do then, and they did it as though they had been rehearsed for hours in the part. The recalcitrant guests found themselves enfolded in the uniformed arms, lifted into the air, rushed down the disordered aisles, and literally thrown into Columbus Avenue.

One after another they were thus tossed out of Healy's, and as each person landed in the street he was greeted by shrieks and groans from the crowd outside. By this time the spectators, whose ranks had been augmented by the more submissive guests, was swelled by the arrival of motor parties and of photographers, and the ejections were punctuated by flashlights.

It is guessed that several of the men who were thrown out had gone to Healy's last night for no other purpose, and if any court proceedings grow out of the summary action of the police these men will be able to testify that they resisted to the last inch. They did. Their departure was speeded only at the expense of much of Mr. Healy's furnishings.

In the scramble tables went over, chairs were smashed, electroliers were damaged, glasses and crockery were broken into fragments. There was pandemonium for a time.

But it did not last long. It was quick work and rough. By 1:15 not one of the eighty guests remained in the restaurant, and left to survey the wrecked dining room were only Mr. Healy himself and his waiters.

Inspector Dwyer himself threw out the first man. He seized K. D. Hubbard of 318 West Fifty-seventh Street as he was eating at a table and threw him with great violence through the front door into the vestibule. Two patrolman handled him there and pushed him into the street.

Of the dozen men who were thrown out, one was F. N. Rogers, manager of the Manhattan Square Hotel. Another was Alexander Simpson, a lawyer, of 32 Broadway, whose home is at 62 West Seventieth Street.

Later Mr. Healy said:

"I can't understand why Inspector Dwyer does not arrest me instead of throwing out my patrons. If I am keeping open illegally and am running any sort of disorderly place or public nuisance, I certainly should be arrested. The patrons have done nothing. I am the offender if there is any offense.

"The police also have caused me to lose about $200 in unpaid checks. My patrons had no time to pay their checks, as they went out propelled by a fifty police power engine, and I do not expect them to pay me to-morrow, because their food was not half eaten when they were thrown out. I estimate that sixty persons were thrown out to-night."

Summons Police to Court.

Promise of a showdown on the situation was had through a move made late yesterday by Mr. Healy, who sent his assistant manager, Luke Clancy, to the West Side Court shortly before closing time to ask for summonses for Acting Capt. Hart of the West Sixty-eighth Street Station and Lieut. Hayes of Police Inspector Dwyer's staff. They are the men who led the descent of the police forces on Healy's shortly after 1 A. M. yesterday, when repeated orders to close up were scorned and patrons continued their liquorless suppers, although warned that they would be locked in the place until 6 A. M. Clancy related the events of the early morning to Magistrate Deuel, alleging that Hart and Hayes were guilty of official oppression in imprisoning patrons and employes in the restaurant. The court issued the summonses and made them returnable to-day.

That the courts are not in harmony with the Mayor and the police in their views on the situation was indicated in opinions expressed yesterday by Justice Zeller of the Court of Special Sessions, who, with his colleagues, Justices Herrman and Russell, dismissed the case brought by the police against Mr. Healy a week ago.

"The condition of New York is disgraceful," said Justice Zeller. "Police who don't obey the mandate of the court are inciting the people to riot and anarchy. The Inspector and Captain are guilty of oppression. I know that Mayor Gaynor will not sanction any such action—he is too liberal minded a man. He should see to it that the ruling of this court allowing people to eat in peace after 1 o'clock is properly respected."

MORGENTHAU TO GO AS ENVOY TO TURKEY

President Selects Him as Ambassador and Soon Will Send Name to Senate.

It was learned yesterday that President Wilson had decided to nominate Henry Morgenthau of New York for the post of Ambassador to Turkey. The nomination will be sent to the Senate in a day or two.

In June last a tender of the Ambassadorship at Constantinople was made to Mr. Morgenthau, and at that time he paid a visit to the President. Mr. Morgenthau indicated, it was said then, that he wanted no diplomatic post, although it was believed that the President hoped that he might change his mind. The President's decision to send in Mr. Morgenthau's name is therefore taken as indicating that in later communications Mr. Morgenthau has been induced to agree to take the post. He is now in Europe.

Ever since President Wilson's election mention has been made from time to time of a possible choice of Mr. Morgenthau for some high office under the Government. He has long been a close friend and warm supporter of Mr Wilson, and his services as Chairman of the Finance Committee of the Democratic National Committee were invaluable. He was talked of as a possible Secretary of the Treasury, and soon after the inauguration word came from Washington that he would be appointed to an Ambassadorship. At that time Mr. Morgenthau modestly disclaimed any desire for a diplomatic place.

Before he demonstrated that he could be a big force in politics, Mr. Morgenthau's name was chiefly associated aong his fellow citizens in New York with big real estate developments, and there have been few important movements of the kind in New York during the last dozen years in which he has not played a prominent part.

Born at Mannheim, Germany, in 1856, Mr. Morgenthau came to New York with his parents when he was still young enough to enter Public School 14. Graduated from this institution in 1870, he attended the City College for one year, and then entering Columbia Law School received his diploma in 1878. A year later he became a member of the firm of Lachman, Morgenthau & Goldsmith, and parcticed successfully until 1899, when he left the law to go into business.

In that year he organized the Central Realty, Bond and Trust Company, and became its President. That corporation immediately went in for operations that involved large sums of money. One of its first big transactions was the purchase of the properties which are to-day the site of the Broad Exchange Building. He purchased the old Real Estate Exchange on Liberty Street, and resold it to the Chamber of Commerce. One of his other big operations at this time was paying more than $2,000,000 for the old Burell Building, at 115 Broadway, and acquiring the adjoining property, which sites now support the present Trinity and United States Realty buildings.

By transactions of such magnitude, Mr. Morgenthau made his company the leading figure in real estate transactions of the time, and had much to do with starting the great building revival down town. When his company was merged with the Lawyers Title Insurance Company the latter handled in turn some of the best-known pieces of property in the city, among them being the Flatiron block, the old Altman store, the sites of the Belmont and Plaza Hotels, and others equally as famous. Mr. Morgenthau's purchase from the late Charles T. Barney in 1904 of the three blocks between Broadway and Amsterdam Avenue and 133d and 136th Streets for about $1,000,000 started the buying campaign on Washington Heights. He organized and was President of the Hunt's Point Estates and Construction Company, which developed 900 lots in the Bronx and constructed many dwellings. He was one of the original purchasers of Long Beach.

Besides his real estate projects, Mr. Morgenthau has identified himself with various other commercial enterprises. He is one of the principal owners of the Underwood Typewriter Company. He is now President of the Henry Morgenthau Company, which devotes itself to real estate development in the Boroughs of Manhattan and the Bronx, and is the head of the Herald Square Realty Company.

Although Mr. Morgenthau takes a very active interest in public affairs, he has never held political office. His interest in politics, however, has been pronounced since the Tilden campaign, when he stumped the east side for the Democratic candidate for the Presidency. In music and the drama he has taken an active interest, and was organizer and Vice President of the Conried Metropolitan Opera Company.

Mr. Morgenthau is President of the Free Synagogue and is President of Bronx House, a musical school and settlement house at 1,637 Washington Avenue. He is a Director of the Mount Sinai Hospital and a Trustee of the United Charities Building and the Loeb Convalescent House. He is a member of the Economic Club of New York, a Director in the Merchants' Association, and a member of the Chamber of Commerce, the Lotos, City Lunch, Harmonie and City Athletic Clubs, the Century Country Club, and the Automobile Club of America.

Mrs. Morgenthau was Miss Josephine Sykes. She was married to Mr. Morgenthau in 1883, and there are four children, Mrs. Mortimer J. Fox, Mrs. Maurice Wertheim, Henry, Jr., and Miss Ruth Morgenthau. The home of Mr. Morgenthau is at 30 West Seventy-second Street. He has a Summer home at Eagle's Nest, Blue Mountain, Adirondacks.

MRS. SPENCER TRASK ILL.

Seized with Heart Attack at Her Lake George Summer Home.

LAKE GEORGE, N. Y., Aug. 12.—Mrs. Spencer Trask is seriously ill at Triune, her Summer home on Three Brother Island, Lake George.

Last week she suffered an acute attack of heart disease, which necessitated the calling of Dr. Glentworth Butler of Brooklyn from his vacation in the Catskills. He reports alarming symptoms, showing the result of overwork, and considers her condition very grave. She has long been an invalid. With her entire household she has been spending the Summer at Lake George.

The Hudson Navigation Company has planned a moonlight excursion up the Hudson for this evening (August 13) on the steamer Adirondack, leaving Pier 32, North River, at 7:30 P. M. The trip costs 50 cents. Facilities will be provided for dining, followed by dancing.—Adv.

DECOYED TO A FLAT, BOUND AND KILLED

The body of W. G. Martin, who ran a millinery establishment at 75½ Carlton Street, Toronto, Canada, was found at 10 o'clock last night in a room on the first floor of the apartment house at 453 West Fifty-seventh Street by Theodore Jones, the proprietor. Martin's hands were tied behind his back and a heavy gag had been put in his mouth. He had been beaten over the head with a blackjack, and there were finger marks on his throat, indicating that he had been choked to death.

The police of the West Forty-seventh Street Station, who were summoned, believed that Martin was decoyed to the room by a man and woman whom he met by chance. His pockets had been searched, and a diamond ring said to be worth $200 and a valuable gold watch were missing. It was said by a friend, Mrs. Annie Barrett of 355 West Fifty-eighth Street, that Martin had had much money with him.

Capt. Kerr and the entire detective squad of the West Forty-seventh Street Station were put on the trail of the man and woman believed to have committed the murder They had left no trace behind them as to their identity, and Jones was able to give little information. He said that the room in which the body was found had been occupied for the last week by a man and his wife, but he believed that they had gone on Monday afternoon. He had seen the woman for the last time at 4 o'clock of that day, he said. They had given their names as Mr. and Mrs. Johnson. The man appeared to be 19 years old and the woman a few years his senior. Both were well dressed. That was all he could tell.

Mrs. Barrett identified Martin's body. She had been at the police station earlier in the day, as Martin had failed to keep an appointment with her on the day before, and she feared he had met with harm. When the body was found the police summoned her. According to Mrs. Barrett she had known Martin for twelve years, and he had a prosperous business in Toronto.

Martin came here on Monday morning, she said, and visited her at her store in West Fifty-eighth Street at 10 o'clock. They went shopping together, as Martin said he had several lines of goods to buy for his business. She left him at a department store at Sixth Avenue and Thirty-fourth Street at 4 o'clock Monday afternoon, and he then told her he would call for her early in the evening and take her to the theatre.

At 6 o'clock on Monday evening Mrs. Barrett said Martin came to her store and told her he would have to break the theatre engagement. He had met a man and a woman, he said, and was going out with them. He promised to pay another visit to Mrs. Barrett before departing for Canada.

Mrs. Barrett said that Martin told her he had several hundred dollars with him, and that he was wearing a diamond ring which he had purchased for $200. She asked him who his friends were, but he gave her no information on that point. For some reason, she said, she felt apprehensive for him.

Patrolman Donnelly of the West Forty-seventh Street Station was summoned by Jones after he discovered the murder. He found a woman's corset and a man's hat in the room but nothing else which might help to identify those who had killed Martin.

Jones said he had gone to the apartment early in the evening and had found the door locked. As he did not have his pass key with him he went away, and his next trip to the apartment was at 10 o'clock last night, when he discovered the murder.

Dr. Depassie of the Polyclinic Hospital who was called, said that Martin had been dead for some hours. It was probable, he thought that Martin was murdered early yesterday morning.

After a search of two hours for the man and woman with whom Martin had an appointment, the detectives questioned Mrs. Barrett again. She said she thought Martin had asserted that the man he met had a sister. She was sure he had told her no names. She was satisfied that the persons Martin met had decoyed him to the apartment to get his diamond ring. Martin, she said, had probably spent his money freely.

Coroner Winterbottom examined the body and then had it sent to the Morgue. Aside from cuts on the head caused apparently by a blunt instrument, there were no serious wounds. A slight cut over the right eye, indicated that one of the assailants had been armed with a knife. The house where Martin was killed is on the north side of Fifty-seventh Street, near Tenth Avenue.

16 HOURS IN QUICKSAND.

Special to The New York Times.

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 12.—Imbedded waist-deep in the quicksands along the west bank of the Schuylkill River, Peter Francis, 20 years old, was rescued today by Edward Allison, the steward of the Sedgeley Boat Club, after he had been held in the mire from 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon until 7:30 this morning.

How the youth managed to keep alive is more than the surgeons at the German Hospital can explain. He is partly paralyzed and can speak only in monosyllables. He has not been able to tell how he came to be in the river. He was within sight of thousands of pedestrians, all the afternoon, crossing the bridge above him, but nobody saw him.

While rowing down the river this morning Allison saw what he thought was the body of a man, rowed over to it and then called for assistance to enable him to recover it. Two men came to his help, and when they saw that the supposed dead body was a living human being one rushed to call the ambulance, while Allison and the other dragged Francis from the quicksand.

The theory of the police is that he was walking along the river banks and slipped from a slippery stone and fell into the mire.

Mrs. William Sulzer.

Governor's Wife Who Said It Was She Who Forged His Indorsement on Checks to Pay for Stock Deals.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, Wednesday, Aug. 13.—At 3:30 o'clock this morning the New York Assembly is still debating the Levy resolution calling for the impeachment of Gov. William Sulzer for "wilful and corrupt conduct in office and for high crimes and misdemeanors."

The chief figures in the debate are the Minority Leader, Mr. Hinman, who pleads for delayed action, and the Majority Leader, Mr. Levy, who urges that the offenses alleged to have been committed by Gov. Sulzer required immediate and drastic action.

At 3 o'clock the majority leader began his final appeal on behalf of the impeachment resolution. Mr. Levy spoke to a sleeping House. In every conceivable attitude of fatigue his fellow Assemblymen lay back in their chairs, most of them with their eyes closed, or their heads sunk forward on their bosoms. Those not assuredly asleep were not discernibly awake, save for the party leaders and their active lieutenants.

The floor of the Assembly Chamber was littered with papers. Back of the railing, where a crowd of hundreds had braved the long vigil and were still wide awake and waiting, newsboys did a thriving business in the morning papers featuring the deliberations under spread heads. Some of the Assemblymen bought papers and read at their desks accounts of what had been said and done by themselves a few hours before.

The galleries, peopled early in the night with a standing throng of spectators, were deserted, except for the strong detail of uniformed police on guard at the door of the Chamber, and within it was not diminished.

Sensation from Mrs. Sulzer.

The sensational feature of the debate was the introduction of a declaration attributed to Mrs. William Sulzer, wife of the Governor, that it was she who had used some of her husband's campaign contributions without his knowledge to invest in stocks because she felt the household needed money, and that she alone was responsible for his impeachment. This declaration was made the subject of a motion for delay on which came the first test of the strength of the Democratic organization, which is urging the Governor's impeachment.

The test indicated that the organization lack three votes of the seventy-six required to impeach. Two of the men who voted against the organization, however, were said to be ready to vote for impeachment.

The motion, made by Assemblyman Hinman, leader of the minority, recited that Mrs. Sulzer's declaration should be classed under the head of newly-discovered evidence, and warranted postponement of further consideration of the impeachment resolution. The motion was defeated by a vote of 73 to 49.

Mr. Hinman said he had been in telephonic communication with the Executive Mansion.

"It seems extraordinary to me," Mr. Levy retorted, "that of the 149 members of this House, the minority leader should be selected as the recipient of this confidence from the Executive Mansion at nearly 2 o'clock in the morning, when the matter over which we have spent so much time is on the point of coming to a determining issue."

The reports of Mrs. Sulzer's desire to sacrifice herself in the crisis confronting her husband had been in circulation all day yesterday, but they took a very sensational turn early in the afternoon. The story first became current after the venerable Senator, Abraham J. Palmer of Kingston, an ordained minister of the Gospel, had returned from a visit to Gov. Sulzer.

Senator Palmer had gone to the Executive Chamber to confer with Gov. Sulzer regarding some business of the Andersonville Monument Commission, of which he is a member. While waiting for the Governor to see him, Senator Palmer met Mrs. Sulzer. The Senator and his wife are friends of Mr. and Mrs. Sulzer.

According to the story told by several legislators, some of whom say they got their information directly from Senator Palmer, Mrs. Sulzer asked the Senator if he felt hostile toward her husband. The Senator replied that he expected to sit as a juror in the impeachment proceedings, and that he would consider it a grave offense should he permit any prejudice to enter his mind.

According to the story, Mrs. Sulzer then, betraying the greatest agitation, told the Senator that she had signed her husband's name to certain checks which the Frawley Committee had shown to have been used in some of the Sulzer stock transactions. Mrs. Sulzer, according to the story, said she had been swayed by a desire to provide for their old age by making money in the stock market.

Senator Palmer is said to have told his story to Senator Harry Walters of Syracuse and to Assemblyman Yale of Putnam, Sweet of Oswego, and Norton of Washington. These lawmakers would neither confirm nor deny the report. Senator Palmer, himself, while admitting that he had had a long talk with Mrs. Sulzer, said he would not discuss their conversation.

"It was a purely personal talk," said the Senator. "I am bound to regard it as confidental."

When the story, as told, was repeated to Senator Palmer, he said he would neither confirm nor deny it.

"I cannot understand how this got out," he said. "I certainly have not told the story to any body. Why don't you ask Mrs. Sulzer?"

At the Executive Mansion it was said that Mrs. Sulzer had retired and could not be disturbed. It was given out that she had suffered a slight injury to one of her arms. She had spent practically the entire day in the little inside room with her husband and lawyers.

Samuel Bell Thomas, a New York lawyer, who is spending much of his time at the Executive Mansion in these days of stress, was asked to get the Governor's version. He brought back word that the Governor declined to discuss the story and that he referred the interrogators to Senator Palmer.

In the Assembly the story spread quickly and was an absorbing topic of conversation before the session got under way.

Early in the afternoon a report became current that Mrs. Sulzer had implored her husband to permit her to shoulder the responsibility for the stock deals. This defense was incorporated in a 3,000-word statement the Governor had prepared and intended to make public last Sunday night; instead, his brief denial was issued after midnight. The Governor, after consulting his lawyers, refused to permit Mrs. Sulzer to carry her plan into effect. The long statement the Governor had prepared one of his advisers tore up before his eyes. Mrs. Sulzer begged and pleaded, but the Governor said he was not to be moved.

Boyer Payment Laid to Her.

One version of the story which was in general circulation among the Governor's friends was that during the campaign Mr. Sulzer gave Mrs. Sulzer $900 for personal expenses, and that she told her confidants that this sum was invested, with others, in the stock market. The Governor's friends asserted that this would account for the $900 payment to Boyer, Griswold & Co., mention of which was made in the testimony before the Frawley Committee.

Since his occupancy of the executive office, the Governor's friends went on to say, Gov. Sulzer had known and had declared that he has been subjected to continual espionage. These spies also invaded his household in New York before his inauguration, the friends asserted, and followed him to Albany. Many private documents, belonging both to the Governor and Mrs. Sulzer, had disappeared, among them many which, if they could be found, could be used in substantiation of Mrs. Sulzer's story concerning her alleged use of the Governor's campaign funds. Love letters written to Mrs. Sulzer by the Governor during their courtship also disappeared recently.

From still another source last night, comes a story that the Governor's defence may bring out that certain of the speculative accounts disclosed by the Frawley Committee were handled, but not on his behalf by Louis A. Sarecky, Mr. Sulzer's former confidential Secretary, who, when summoned before the Frawley Committee, declined to answer any questions bearing on the administration of the Sulzer campaign fund.

Mr. Sarecky was counselled by the Governor's legal advisers that, to save himself from jail for contempt, and at the same time avoid the necessity of answering the questions he should plead that his answers would tend to incriminate or degrade him. Friends of the young man, however, urged him to stand pat and take his medicine.

Assembly Called to Order.

Speaker Smith called the Assembly to order at 10:11 o'clock. A call of the House was ordered to ascertain the absentees.

The first rollcall indicated that the organization had the votes to carry out its programme to impeach the Governor before adjournment. One hundred and twenty-two members answered to their names, as follows: Democrats, 85; Republicans, 35; Progressives, 2.

Of the 85 Democrats present, Majority Leader Levy was confident that 78—two more than a majority—would vote for the impeachment resolution.

The rollcall was slow, and was succeeded by a call of the absentees, which added to the delay. At 11 o'clock the Assembly was still waiting, marking time in silence. Nobody would hazard a guess then as to when a vote would be taken.

Independent Democrats mustered only a handful. Majority Leader Levy let it be known that he would personally reply to some of the anticipated speeches opposing impeachment. Half a dozen lieutenants expected to aid him. Assemblymen Hinman, Schaap, and Gibbs were prepared to lead the attack on the resolution.

Absentees on the first rollcall were:

Democrats—Brewster, Evans, Hearn, Ingram, Kornobis, and Willmott.

Progressives—Jude and Volk.

The Democratic representation was increased to eighty-six with the arrival of Assemblyman Evans after the rollcall.

Speaker Smith announced that several of the absentees were known to be in the city, and the Sergeant at Arms was instructed to look for them. Two of the three absent Democrats from Kings were reported to be on the way, and it was said that the one other from Kings was too ill to attend the session.

Hinman Opens Debate.

Upon Mr. Levy's call for the order of business, Assemblyman Hinman opened the debate with an arraignment of the absentees and a repetition of his declaration of last night that he believed the Assembly was without the pale of the Constitution in considering impeachment at an extraordinary session not called for that purpose.

Every act of Mr. Sulzer's with relation to campaign funds brought out by the Frawley Committee, Mr. Hinman asserted in his opening speech, dated back to a period before the Governor took his oath of office. Reference was made to a resolution adopted by the Assembly in 1853, in which it was declared that no official could be impeached for any offense committed before taking office.

"It may be," said Mr. Hinman, "that the Governor would not raise any technicalities, but the members of the Assembly owe it to themselves not to violate the Constitution. In view of the chaos now prevailing in our State we have an opportunity of bringing those responsible to their senses by treating the matter in a dignified and lofty manner. A clerk in a police court could draw a better indictment than that which is presented for our consideration."

"If we are to consider ourselves as in any sense a Grand Jury to bring the articles of impeachment," continued Mr. Hinman, "at least this body should have its own committee make an investigation. What would you think of a Grand Jury that would bring an indictment with newspaper reports as its foundation?"

Mr. Hinman cited a precedent in the case of William W. Van Ness, a Supreme Court Justice, who was impeached in 1828. The Legislature in that case gave the accused benefit of counsel.

Denied the Governor Counsel.

"It is assumed," he continued, "that the Governor would have been refused benefit of counsel by the Frawley Committee had he made such a request. We are not giving the Governor the benefit that we accord to the criminal in our lowest criminal court."

Respecting the Governor's silence under criticism, Mr. Hinman said that it seemed to him to be "a case when silence is golden—probably the first time that he has acted with dignity.

"Probably this momentous action has chastened and sobered him. It seems to me that we can do nothing that would reflect upon the dignity of this House, if it have any dignity left, so much as by the adoption of this resolution."

Assemblyman Birnkrank, Progressive, raised the point that the proceedings were out of order under section 4 of the Constitution. The point was overruled by Assemblyman Jackson, who had relieved Speaker Smith in the chair.

"Nobody is crucifying William Sulzer," shouted Assemblyman Cuvillier, the next speaker. "He has crucified himself. If he were impeached he would not dare go on the witness stand. We don't want to impeach William Sulzer. We should much prefer that he came before the bar of this House and explain these charges away—but he can't."

At this juncture the majority leader, Mr. Levy, arose, and, pointing his finger at the spectators who crowded the rear of the chamber, stated that any applause or other disorder by them would be followed by the clearing of the House of all but members and official attendants.

Gibbs Attacks Sulzer's Foes.

"Let not these men who have prepared to sacrifice William Sulzer for their own advantage put on a cloak of hypocrisy and shed crocodile tears," said Assemblyman Gibbs. "Everybody knows that the reason why Sulzer is being demanded as a victim is that he had the manhood to refuse to be tied to the wheels of a certain political chariot."

At 1:30 o'clock Mr. Levy, the majority leader, asserted that he would have 83 votes for the impeachment resolution.

One more vote, Ingram, of Brooklyn, was expected to arrive at 2 o'clock, and Levy insisted that the impeachment of the Governor was a certainty.

Speaker Smith and Mr. Levy had practically ceased work on their vote clinching business soon after midnight. They said then they would be satisfied to go to a vote as soon as they could count on eighty.

The margin over the necessary seventy-six was small, but Levy and Smith were satisfied that their strength would stand the test of the vote. It was stated just before the roll call that they had brought over several Republican members to their side by a display of the original exhibits in the case which arrived with Mr. Richards, the Frawley Committee counsel.

The minority leader, Mr. Hinman, threw the Assembly into a turmoil at 1:35 o'clock by urging an adjournment on the ground of "newly discovered evidence."

This had reference to the report that Mrs. Sulzer had admitted to Senator Palmer that she had signed her husband's name to some of the checks figuring in the impeachment charges.

"Information has come to me tonight," said Mr. Hinman, "that Mrs. Sulzer has issued a statement bearing directly on the charges on which this resolution is based. I believe that this House would stultify itself if it failed to give proper heed to this fact. I believe this may be regarded as 'newly-discovered evidence.' In view of this statement, I move that further consideration of this resolution be deferred until to-morrow."

Majority Leader Objects.

Mr. Levy, the majority leader, was on his feet in an instant.

"I have full knowledge of the statement referred to," he said. "I intend to make use of it later in the debate. Without commenting on the statement itself or the motive that impelled it, I want to express the hope that the motion to defer be defeated."

The question was put, and the Hinman motion was defeated overwhelmingly on a viva voce vote. Mr. Hinman moved to reconsider and demanded a rollcall.

Mr. Levy said the statement by Mrs. Sulzer was brief, merely asserting that she had signed her name to some of the checks.

"What is the information that concerns Mrs. Sulzer?" asked one up-State Assemblyman.

"It is, I understand," said Mr. Levy, "that Mrs. Sulzer has confessed that she forged Mr. Sulzer's name to certain checks."

The motion to reconsider was lost, 49 to 73.

Mr. Gibbs asserted that in the history of America no public official had been impeached for offenses committed prior to his taking office.

"Why impeach the Governor if he has committed a crime?" he asked. "Are not our courts sufficient to deal with such a matter? I make the bold assertion that if the Governor had been guilty of murder, prior to his taking office, he could not be impeached therefor.

"You may control the Legislature for a few years. Legislators come and go, but the people are always with us. It will all come out why the Democratic organization in New York has put itself back of this affair. The men who are trying to drive the Governor out of office are promoters of a vicious political system. If they impeach the Governor they will at the same time impeach the Democratic Party. Maybe they have done so already."

How Sulzer's Foes Gathered.

Telegraphic commands to absentees, kept flowing over the wires in a steady stream all day, bore fruit in the afternoon and evening in the arrival of a squad of Assemblymen from New York City.

While Deputy Sergeants at Arms hurried through Albany with summonses to compel every Assemblyman in the city to take his desk on the Assembly floor, and self-appointed committees met incoming trains, a throng eclipsing any that had stormed the Capitol in the memory of the oldest attendant poured through its stone doorways. Two hours before the time set for calling the Assembly to order in night session the first-comers had taken their stand outside the railing in the Assembly chamber. Hundreds were standing at 7:30 o'clock. At 8 o'clock the great doors to the Assembly chamber closed in the face of a grumbling crowd in the corridor. The galleries were packed. Hundreds of women were among the crowd.

Eight Deep in Corridor.

The scheduled opening hour, 8:30, found men and women standing eight deep in the corridor leading to the Assembly Chamber. The Capitol orderlies, unable to handle the crowd, were hastily reinforced by a detachment of uniformed men from Police Headquarters. Admission to the chamber was by card, and hundreds of persons bearing cards were turned away. Newspaper men, unable to obtain ingress or egress, secured access to the chamber by a roundabout way through the burned portion of the building.

Long before the hour for meeting indications were that the session would be stormy and prolonged. Minority Leader Hinman, Assemblyman Schaap, Progressive leader, and Louis Gibbs, Independent Democrat from the Bronx, and others planned to fight the programme of the majority on every technicality and with every parliamentary weapon in their possession. Every barrier that could be interposed in the pathway of the resolution, these leaders planned, should be interposed.

In vivid contrast to the brilliant lights and activity within the Assembly Chamber were the quiet and darkness within the private office of Gov. Sulzer. After a day spent in consultation with his counsel and friends, the Governor left the executive chamber for dinner to return to it no more to-night. He was in constant touch, however, with proceedings over the telephone.

The possibility of the majority becoming wearied by the announced dilatory tactics of Gov. Sulzer's friends was one that Mr. Levy was inclind to laugh at. "There will be no limit placed on debate," he said. "This is a matter concerning which every man has a right to be heard."

The Assembly met at 3:15 P. M. and adjourned until 8:30 P. M. Majority Leader Levy announced that, inasmuch as a number of the members were expected on late afternoon trains, and as the leaders desired a full attendance in view of the important business before the House, the adjournment had been decided upon.

Impeachment Requirements.

Under the provisions, constitutional and statutory, governing impeachment proceedings the Assembly is called upon to appoint a committee of three to draft articles of impeachment to be presented to the Court of Impeachment, composed of the Senate, or the major part thereof and the elected members of the Court of Appeals or a majority of the Court of Appeals Judges, with the Chief Judge presiding.

The articles of impeachment must define succinctly the charges on which the Governor is to be tried, and must be adopted by a majority vote of the Assembly. This done, the Assembly must appoint nine "managers" to prosecute the case before the Court of Impeachment.

The Governor is entitled to be represented by counsel and to the cross-examination of all witnesses. Thirty days, at least, must elapse from the time articles of impeachment are filed with the President of the Senate and the Clerk of the Court of Appeals before the trial can be held.

According to the opinion expressed here by lawyers in the Legislature, Gov. Sulzer will cease automatically to exercise the constitutional functions of his office the moment the articles of impeachment are filed with the Senate and the Court of Appeals. Lieut. Gov. Martin Glynn will then assume the duties of the Chief Executive. Already the little office Mr. Glynn occupies as President of the Senate is becoming the mecca of office-seekers.

It was stated to-day by a member of the Frawley Committee that a mass of evidence, which had not been brought out at the hearings was being put into shape for presentation to the court of impeachment.

Senator Frawley, according to report, was summoned to the Governor's private office to-day and spent some time with Mr. Sulzer. Senator Frawley to-night would neither confirm nor deny the report.

SULZER'S DAY OF SUSPENSE.

Governor Appeals to Opponents Not to Vote to Impeach Him.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, Aug. 12.—All day the air was tense with excitement and suspense. Rumor followed rumor. Through it all Gov. Sulzer was invisible to the multitude that surged through the corridors and flocked in and out of the Executive Chamber.

The Governor sat all day in the little inner room behind the Executive Chamber, screened from curious eyes. Not once during the day did he appear at the big desk in the chamber. He did not, as is his wont, meet the newspaper correspondents.

"The battle in which the Governor is engaged is a battle of life or death," said Chester C. Platt, the Governor's secretary. "It is not an occasion for talking."

It was learned that the Governor had retained counsel and that counsel had sealed his lips. Ex-Judge D Cady Herrick, once Democratic candidate for Governor, will have charge of Mr. Sulzer's defense. Henry A. Wise, formerly United States Attorney for the Southern District of New York, a Republican, was called in last night. He has been with the Governor almost constantly since. It was learned also that ex-Judge Lynn J. Arnold, author of the pro-Sulzer editorials in The Albany Knickerbocker Press, had been called in conference with the other lawyers.

The Governor himself reached his office to-day with his eyes red and his face haggard. Until long after midnight he had sat on one of the ample porches of the Executive Mansion with Mr. Wise, conferring with him over his defense, and every little while receiving bulletins from the battle in the Assembly Chamber over the adoption of the preliminary report of the Frawley Committee.

Some of the tidings came by messenger, others over the telephone from the Executive Chamber, where Secretary Platt was in charge behind drawn blinds. The Governor himself directed the various obstructive moves made by Assemblymen Bovie of Westchester, Schaap of New York, leader of the Progressives, and Gibbs of the Bronx, a McGuire Democrat. It was not until 1 o'clock in the morning that the Governor learned that his little band of followers had suffered defeat.

Mrs. Sulzer collapsed when the word reached the Executive Mansion over the telephone that the last strategic move of her husband's supporters in the lower house had been blocked, and that the adoption of the impeachment resolution seemed inevitable.

Gov. Sulzer himself spent a restless night. He tossed on his bed until 4 in the morning, when he summoned a friend who is staying at the mansion to keep him company. The friend talked to him and tried to quiet him and finally got the Governor to calm down. Mr. Sulzer got two hours of fitful sleep. He rose at 8, and at 10 was on his way to the Capitol, which already was filled with surging crowds.

The Governor made his way to the second floor and went to his inner office—not through the Executive Chamber, with its crowds, but through a private door opening on the corridor. John A. Hennessy, his chief lieutenant, and his lawyers were waiting for him, and they went into conference at once with the Chief Executive.

The Senate Marks Time.

It was an hour later that the fight over the impeachment resolution was scheduled to begin in the Assembly. Members, however, were late in arriving. The Senate had a quorum at 11. But there was nothing to do except to mark time A perfunctory session was held, at which the journal of last night was approved, and then an adjournment was taken until to-morrow morning.

Less than 70 of the 150 members of the Assembly were in their seats at noon. The Speaker's rostrum was unoccupied. In the Speaker's room the majority leaders were conferring behind doors closed and guarded.

Amazing rumors were heard. One had it that the Governor's friends planned to barricade the entrance to the Speaker's room from the outside, steal a march on the cooped-up leaders, take possession of the rostrum, hold a snap session, and declare the Assembly adjourned sine die. Assemblyman Bovie of Westchester, an exceedingly gentle and sweet-tempered young man, was credited with the leadership in this alleged plot. Mr. Bovie, however, entered a modest disclaimer when questioned.

The Governor's opponents last night on roll call succeeded in mustering 66 votes, ten less than the majority necessary to put the impeachment resolution through. Telegraph and telephone messages were sent over-night to the 30 Democrats absent from last night's session. Only a few could be reached immediately. Some were in the Adirondacks, some in the Catskills, others at the seaside. Sergeant at Arms Betts and his assistants were sent post haste in various directions throughout the State to round up missing members. Majority leader Levy declared that he would not "go to bat" with the impeachment resolution until enough votes were in sight to pass it.

Can't Count on Republicans.

Speaker Smith had counted on the support of a large number of Republicans. With few exceptions these failed him, following the leadership of Harold J. Hinman, the Republican leader, who at last night's session was counseling delay, and to-day was the outspoken advocate of a new examination of all the witnesses interrogated by the Frawley Committee, either before the full Assembly or before a select committee of that body. Mr. Hinman happens to be the law partner of ex-Judge Arnold, who is one of the Governor's counselers and guides. Speaker Smith this afternoon had the assurance of only three Republicans that they would stand with the organization Democrats—Yale of Putnam, Sweet of Oswego, and Myron Smith of Dutchess, the latter a member of the Frawley Committee. Speaker Smith had a promise from Assemblyman Macdonald of Franklin County, but Mr. Macdonald was in the North Woods, and sent word that it would take him at least twenty-four hours to reach Albany.

The leaders at 1 o'clock had only 68 votes they could depend upon. At 2 the number had swelled to 72. At 4, one more vote had been gained, and there the tally stood when the opening gavel fell at the night session of the Assembly.

In the meantime Gov. Sulzer and his friends were busy in a proselyting propaganda. Shortly after the Governor arrived at the Capitol he sent a messenger to the Assembly chamber asking Assemblyman Caughlan, a stanch Tammany man, who is Chairman of the Cities Committee, to come to the Executive Chamber. Mr. Caughlan said he would not go. Assemblyman McCue, another Tammany man, was sent for, but with the same result. Assemblymen McElligott, Burr and Gillen, organization Democrats, sent similar replies. Assemblyman Walker, representing the Greenwich Village section, decided to heed the summons. When he reached the Executive Chamber the Governor had changed his mind and would not see him.

Assemblyman Schifferdecker of Brooklyn was another organization man who was summoned and went. He was ushered into the Governor's presence, and, in response to questions from the Chief Executive, said he would vote on the merits of the case. He would go into no further explanation of his prospective vote, and the Governor dismised him curtly.

Assemblyman Schaap of New York, the Progressive leader, was asked to see the Governor; it was to receive thanks for the fight he made against the organization last night. Assemblyman Hinman, the Republican leader, also went in to be commended. When the Governor expressed his thanks, Mr. Hinman said: "You needn't thank me, Governor, nor need you think I made my fight last night on your account. What I did, I did for the dignity of the State and the legislative body of which I have the honor to be a member. I fought in the interest of orderly procedure and for no other purpose.

"If You Have a Heart."

Assemblyman James C. Campbell of the Thirteenth New York District was one of the last summoned into the gubernatorial presence. He returned with a story of threats and cajolery practiced by the Chief Executive in an effort to get him to abandon the opposition.

"How did you vote yesterday?" asked the Governor, according to Campbell.

"I voted to adopt the resolution of the Frawley Committee and to take up the other [impeachment] resolution to-day," said the Assemblyman.

"How do you intend to vote on that resolution?"

"I will try to do my duty to the people and to my party. I will vote according to the dictates of my conscience," said Campbell.

"Don't you know that if you vote for that resolution you are likely to get into trouble?" the Governor asked, so Campbell says. "Don't you know that it is unconstitutional for the extraordinary session to impeach the Governor?"

"I have been advised that it would be constitutional," Campbell replied. Then, according to the Assemblyman, the Governor began to plead.

"I have tried to do what is right," the Governor is quoted as saying. "If you have a heart, if you have red blood in your veins, you ought to stand with me."

The rumor was heard early in the day that the Governor might call out the militia if the Assembly proceeded to impeach him and attempt to keep possession of his office through use of the State's armed force, of which he is Commander in Chief. This rumor had been heard before, but had been dismissed as absurd. This forenoon, however, the Governor sent for Adjt. Gen. Henry De Witt Hamilton and spent some time in secret conference with him. It would be through the Adjutant General that the Governor's orders to the State troops would be transmitted.

The conference with Gen. Hamilton was held after the Governor had been urged by friends to go into the Assembly Chamber, make a statement before that body, and face the music. His friends told him that his persuasive eloquence might prove potent.

Advised to Use Force.

Mr. Sulzer turned a deaf ear to these pleas. He reminded his friends that he himself was a lawyer of long standing and that other lawyers as experienced as he had advised him that the course pursued by the Legislature in its attempt to depose the Governor was illegal and that he would be within his rights if he should try to hold Capitol Hill against usurpers by force of arms.

All through the day it was evident that Gov. Sulzer's friends were taking desperate steps to stave off defeat. A system of espionage with wide ramifications was in evidence throughout the city. The footsteps of leaders hostile to the Governor were dogged by sleuths. Even the newspaper correspondents at the Capitol were shadowed.

The Assembly leaders early in the day received a report that an attempt might be made to break up the impeachment session by a demonstration of force. To frustrate any such attempt a rule was established—for the first time in a generation—that admission to the Assembly Chamber should be only by card bearing the signature of the Speaker and countersigned by another Assemblyman.

"We took this precaution," said one of the officials, "because of the large number of strange faces seen about the Capitol since the Legislature reconvened. We have received word that a large squad of strong-arm men are housed in a roomnig house in State Street which for the last few months has been frequented by persons identified with the present Government. We are taking no chances."

MURPHY AT THE WIRE ALL DAY

Directs Fight Against Sulzer by Telephone from His City Home.

Charles F. Murphy came to the city from Good Ground, L. I., yesterday. Instead of going to Tammany Hall, he went direct to his home, 317 East Seventeenth Street, and was in telephonic communication with Albany all day. Every few minutes Mr. Murphy would receive a bulletin regarding the progress of the proposed impeachment proceedings against Gov. Sulzer, and he frequently talked over the wire with the Tammany legislative leaders. The Tammany boss chose to do his telephoning from his home, rather than from the organization headquarters in Fourteenth Street, because the house afforded more privacy.

Mr. Murphy made no effort to conceal his deep interest in what was going on at the Capitol. He was greatly stirred up, according to reports from leaders who called at his home, over the announcement that the Governor was pleading with Tammany legislators not to vote to impeach him. Mr. Murphy, it is understood, told the Tammany Senate and Assembly leaders that they must exert every effort to keep the legislators in line against the Governor, and not allow any of them to go over to the Governor's side. The boss, it was reported, was concerned over the fact that the Assembly adjourned until night without taking any action.

Until late at night Mr. Murphy did not move more than a few feet from the telephone. Several leaders called upon him to get his views on the Mayoralty situation, but the Tammany boss brushed everything but the Sulzer matter aside.

Mr. Murphy was asked last night if he cared to make any comment upon the Albany situation. He said he wasn't doing any talking. He seemed worried, and his habitual smile was missing. He remained in town overnight, and will confer with a number of local leaders at Tammany Hall to-day.

URGES PEOPLE TO AID SULZER.

Knickerbocker Press Calls Assembly's Action Brutal.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, Aug. 12.—The Knickerbocker Press will say to-morrow in an editorial addressed to the people of the State of New York:

William Barnes and Charles F. Murphy have contended for years that you, the people, are not capable of self-Government. They have contended that you must be governed by them. Mr. Barnes and Mr. Murphy have both fallen down on the job.

The people must govern themselves. If there is present lack of knowledge on their part, they must educate themselves; they must become qualified for self-government. The Knickerbocker Press has been very indulgent with Mr. Barnes for more than three years. It has hoped that adversity might temper his arbitrary and autocratic ways. It has hoped that he might become a real leader of the people.

Mr. Barnes should have heard Mr. Levy, the Murphy leader of the majority in the Assembly, read the editorial composed by Mr. Barnes for the comfort, consolation, and support of Mr. Murphy and his followers in their present desperate undertaking.

Mr. Barnes used to visit the Senate of the State of New York for the purpose of bringing about the defeat of Gov. Hughes's policies. He should have witnessed the scene in the Assembly Chamber on Monday night. He should have witnessed the carrying out of his advice by Mr. Cuvillier and Mr. Levy and by the sixty odd dummies placed around the circle.

In the past, the Knickerbocker Press has doubted the wisdom of those Republicans who were attempting to depose Mr. Barnes as Chairman of the Republican State Committee. The Knickerbocker Press no longer doubts, but it knows that there is no future for the Republican Party in the State of New York so long as William Barnes heads its permanent organization.

There is no future hope for the Democratic Party in this State so long as Charles F. Murphy controls its destinies in the slightest degree. There is no future hope for good government in this State as long as the people remain in their present party organizations. At the present time the cards are stacked by the bosses. There must be a cut for dealer, and a new deal. New cards must be used. Both packs used at the present time are dirty, greasy, and unfit for use in a clean game.

Baron Jeffreys, in the times of James II., made himself notorious by the flagrant injustice and brutality which he displayed on the bench. The people in those days finally dragged Jeffreys from the bench and imprisoned him in the Tower of London, where he died. The despicable Jeffreys never exhibited in his career upon the bench a parallel to the trickery and brutality displayed in the Assembly Chamber Monday night and last night. The people of the State of New York must uphold Gov. Sulzer in this crisis. They must uphold him in his efforts to wrench the reins of government from the hands of Charles F. Murphy.

Loudoun to Probe Highway Dept.

ALBANY, Aug. 12.—Commissioner John H. Delaney of the Department of Efficiency and Economy has detailed Wood D. Loudoun, chief accountant of the department, as a special investigator to probe the State Highway Department and its contracts for road improvement. The appointment followed a conference between Commissioner Delaney and Highway Commissioner John N. Carlisle, after which it was announced that the head of the department was not only in sympathy with the investigation but would aid the investigator to the extent of his power.

Not to Annul Cuban Concessions.

HAVANA, Aug. 12.—President Menocal issued a statement to-night saying that on account of rumors that the Cuban Government intended to follow the action against the Ports Improvement Company by similar attacks on American companies, especially the telephone company, he desired to explain that the Government has no such intention. On the contrary, the President added, the Cuban Government intended to continue to extend to such companies all the protection to which they were rightfully entitled, but reserved the right to exact a strict fulfilment of all obligations to which companies were committed under the terms of their concessions.

GET 2 IN TRAP SET WITH DICTOGRAPH

Insurance Adjuster Charges Filing of False Claim for Burglary Loss.

DETECTIVES OVERHEAR TALK

Rush Into Hotel Room When the Money Is Paid Over—Bribery Is Charged Also.

Detectives Kerr and Giery of the Lenox Avenue Police Station and a Police Department stenographer settled down yesterday afternoon in Room 8 on the second floor of the Hotel Seville in East Twenty-ninth Street, where the receiving instrument of a dictograph was adjusted with its wires leading into the adjoining room, where an elaborate trap was set.

In the next room Gerard Luisi, adjuster for the Ocean Insurance Company of 69 John Street, was seated in apparently amicable conversation with Nathan Maier, a milliner who had complained to the police of a robbery in his flat at 71 West 116th Street, and Harry Baltimore, an insurance broker.

Luisi had told Second Deputy Commissioner Dougherty that there really had been no robbery in Maier's home, and that Maier in Baltimore's presence had followed a confession that the robbery was a bit of his own imagination by an appeal to the adjuster to "fix it up," and the promise to the adjuster that he would be rewarded properly for his trouble.

So Mr. Dougherty instructed Luisi to continue negotiations, and Kerr and Giery were assigned to help, and that is how it happened that the dictograph was set up and the wires strung.

Luisi was instructed to take the handing over of the money in the room at the Seville as the occasion for a discussion of the whole transaction, so that Baltimore's and Maier's admissions with regard to it could be recorded before any arrest. For that reason the dictograph was installed.

It was late in the afternoon when the trap was sprung and from it the detectives took two prisoners, Maier and Baltimore, who says he lives at 440 Riverside Drive. Both men were locked up in the East Thirty-fifth Street Station, charged with bribery and with having made a false statement of a burglary loss.

According to Detective Giery, Luisi led the men into the Hotel Seville room which had been engaged for them and opened the conversation by announcing with feigned regret that he was unable to get more than $300 from the company to cover the supposed loss. Then, the police say, marked money was passed—$300 to Maier and $30 to Baltimore. When Luisi signaled that this step had been reached, there was a sudden scramble from Room 8 and in rushed the detectives.

It was early in July that Maier reported his loss at the Lenox Avenue Station. Burglars, he said, had made off with some $700 worth of his personal effects, including clothing and jewelry. In the ordinary course of his business Luisi was sent out to investigate the case, and he had to see both Maier, who held a policy with his company, and Baltimore, who had filed the claim of burglary loss.

As the police tell the story, money was twice passed to Luisi in the course of the following negotiations, $30 when the idea of his reporting favorably on the claim was first broached, and $75 yesterday afternoon in the lobby of the Seville.

After the prisoners had been locked up Luisi, the adjuster, said that while they were walking through the corridor of the Hotel Seville to take the elevator Maier suddenly pulled a revolver from Luisi's pocket and put it to his own head as if to kill himself. Luisi said Detective Giery took the revolver away from Maier. According to the adjuster Maier then begged to be allowed to commit suicide.

Luisi has found life as an adjuster of insured burglary losses a lively one. It was in the pursuit of his occupation last November that he picked up the trail of Henry Vogel, the notorious Fagin, who, with his wife, was finally cornered in the Hotel Elsmere, the Bronx. Luisi was side by side with Detective Martin Fay when they went to Vogel's room, and met the murderous fire which the cornered thieves started. Of the seven persons wounded in that hallway battle, only two died, and those were the two thieves. They had been shot by Luisi.

ATTACKED IN LONELY PATH.

Miss Lillian Witzel Loses Purse and Reserves Hunt Assailant.

Miss Lillian Witzel, 21 years old, of 723 Eagle Avenue, the Bronx, accompanied by her brother, Martin, 22 years old, started home yesterday evening at 7 o'clock from a tent where her father had been staying for the summer at 39 F Street, Orchard Beach, Pelham Parkway. When her brother told her that he had to go to City Island to make some purchases, Miss Witzel decided to go alone to Bartow and meet him there on his way back.

The brother and sister separated, and Miss Witzel walked alone along what is known as the "Path" to the station at Bartow. As she approached a clump of trees near the New Rochelle road, only a half a block away from a police booth on the side of the road, she became aware that a man was following her. As she turned the man seized her roughly and warned her that he would kill her if she screamed.

Thinking him a highwayman, Miss Witzel offered him her two rings, one a diamond and the other set with two diamonds and a ruby. The man seemed not to heed her. Then she screamed, and the man disappeared in the darkness.

Her screams were heard by a man, who said he was Sidney Meyer of 2,400 Seventh Avenue, Manhattan, and he called Mounted Policeman Joseph Kennedy, stationed in the police booth on the Parkway. Miss Witzel told the policemen in what direction the man had fled, and Kennedy followed, after having sent in a call for the reserves. Soon the mounted policeman caught a glimpse of a fleeing man and fired three shots at him, but none took effect. When the reserves arrived from City Island, scores of people came with them, and soon the wood was surrounded, and a thorough hunt for the fugitive was made. He was not found.

After the attack Miss Witzel found that she had lost her watch and a purse in which there was $45 in bills. She was inclined to believe that she had lost them in the struggle with her assailant, because she thought that otherwise he would have also possessed himself of her rings.

SUICIDE TO END SUFFERING.

Man with Injured Spine Drinks Poison in East Orange.

On going to the dining room of her home at 80 Rutledge Avenue yesterday morning Mrs. William A. Schwarzkopf of East Orange, N. J., found her husband dead on a couch with an empty bottle beside him from which he had drunk cyanide of potassium.

Mr. Schwarzkopf, who was 47 years old, did not go to bed Monday night, telling his wife that he did not wish to disturb one of his sons, who was sleeping in his room. In June, 1912, Mr. Schwarzkopf was in an automobile accident, in which his spine was injured. Since that time he has had to wear a plaster cast, and it was thought that this affected his mind.

Brady Will Offered for Probate.

ALBANY, Aug. 12.—The will of Anthony N. Brady was offered for probate before Surrogate Van Derzee this afternoon by Judge Morgan J. O'Brien, Samuel H. Beardsley of New York, and Beile F. Towner of Albany. All of the heirs and next of kin save Marcia Ann Gavit, daughter of E. Palmer Gavit, and the favored, motherless grand daughter waive citation. Miss Gavit being under age was represented by Assemblyman Harold J. Hinman, who was appointed her special guardian.

HALE BLAMED FOR MEXICAN IRRITATION

Attitude of the Administration's Confidential Investigator Has Not Helped Peace.

WAS WILSON'S MOUTHPIECE

In the Mexican Estimation—Repc t on a Conversation He Had with an Aid of Gen. Diaz.

MEXICO CITY, Aug. 5.—Americans in Mexico, as well as Mexicans, are severely criticising the activities here of Dr. William Bayard Hale, the unofficial investigator for President Wilson, as pernicious and mischief-making in their effect. Dr. Hale's presence here, in the opinion of many, is responsible for some of the irritation which has complicated the relations between Mexico and the United States, and has made the way by no means easy for Mr. Wilson's second emissary, Mr. Lind.

As illustrative of the attitude of President Wilson's confidential investigator to Mexican affairs, the following report from an aid of Gen. Felix Diaz of a conversation with Dr. Hale has come to light here:

Mexico, June 30, 1913.

Gen. Felix Diaz:

My Dear General—In order not to overtax your attention, I will refer only to a few important data concerning the conversation I had during several hours of yesterday afternoon with Dr. W. Bayard Hale.

As I told you before, this gentleman is a personal friend of President Wilson and Secretary of State Bryan, to whom he will no doubt submit an unofficial report concerning the political and economical situation of Mexico; but he says that the purpose of his visit is to gather data for a series of articles which he intends to publish in American magazines.

Dr. Hale is a distinguished person, of easy speech and vast learning; but I regret to inform you that I consider his influence near the American Government as very detrimental to Mexico, as he is laboring under strong prejudices, and he appears to have come to Mexico solely for the purpose of ratifying an opinion adverse to this Administration, an opinion he had formed before he started.

He speaks with horror of the "assassination" of Messrs. Madero and Pino Suarez, which he classifies with the bitterest terms, and this topic, which he says "will bring about terrible consequences," excites him more than any other questions of interest, to the extent that it appears to be his only obsession. He says that he is convinced that all the reports of Ambassador Wilson are biased, and that therefore they do not deserve any consideration, and on the other hand he admits that he has received information from the Maderos relative to the "assassination" of their relatives. He is a friend of all the enemies of Ambassador Wilson and of the slanderers of this Administration.

I asked Dr. Hale what was the reason why the American Government did not recognize the Government of this country, notwithstanding that England, France, and others powers had recognized it, but he was unable to give me a definite reply. Nevertheless, he gave me to understand that the death of the Maderos and Pino Suarez had greatly influenced President Wilson and his advisers against having anything to do with Gen. Huerta. He believes that the resignations of Madero and Pino Suarez were obtained by means of violence or threats against their persons, and that this is proven by their "assassination," with reference to which incident he says that he has data which has not been published to this day.

He thinks the military situation is very gloomy, and states that in his opinion the Government has only made mistakes since the removal of Gen. Mondragon, while the rebel movements are increasing both north and south of the republic.

He believes that the Government will receive only 2,000,000 pesos from the loan recently made, after having paid its most exigent debts, such as that of Speyer & Co., &c., because financiers who have options on the bonds will not decide to take them on account of the non-recognition of this Government by the United States. Commenting on the railway situation, he is very pessimistic.

It seems that all the dislike which Dr. Hale feels for this Government is concentrated on Gen. Huerta, as he speaks well about you. He says that the information he has obtained regarding you is generally favorable. He is of the opinion that "you do not have the face of a murderer"; that he believes you to be a person of calm judgment, clear understanding, and a clear conscience, and that you are inspired by true patriotism.

He asked me whether you were continuing your election work, and, having answered him in the affirmative, he asked whether I believed the elections would take place in October. He inquired as to whether you and Gen. Huerta were really friends, (though he said this was very doubtful,) and whether Gen. Huerta would be willing to leave the Presidency when the term for the legal holding of it expires. He is of the opinion that on account of the disturbances of the country it will be impossible to hold really general elections in October.

I infer from what Dr. Hale has told me that, in his opinion, the United States will not recognize this administration so long as Gen. Huerta is at the head of it, but that there will be no delay in recognizing it after the elections, pursuant to free suffrage, and when the new President, whoever he may be, has taken his seat.

I believe I have convinced Dr. Hale that the rebels are receiving in the north all kinds of assistance from their friends in the Southwest of the United States, and that the millions of dollars that are being spent by the United States to enforce the neutrality laws are not invested as efficiently as could be expected.

Dr. Hale is of the opinion that the greatest danger for the Government during the present disturbed conditions of the country lies in the possibility of the rebels isolating the capital, by cutting railway and telegraphic communication with Vera Cruz. In this case he believes the United States would send a number of war vessels to Vera Cruz, and if the interruption would continue with the interior of the country, and the lack of news from the centre should cause some concern about the fate of foreigners, marines might be landed in Vera Cruz in order to proceed to the City of Mexico and afford them protection. He is of the opinion that it is very essential that the Government should keep in communication with Vera Cruz by means of wireless telegraphy, as this might avoid an international conflict in case the above interruption should exist. He assured me that the Government of the United States is adverse to an armed intervention in this country, and that if the marines have to come to Mexico they will not come for the purpose of intervention, but to protect the residents from foreign countries. This, however, would be a dangerous venture, as it might give room for international complications, which should be avoided, if possible.

Yours very sincerely,

gradually in the efforts to adjust the Mexican situation in accordance with the wishes of this Government. It is understood that Mr. O'Shaughnessy spoke for Mr. Lind as well as for himself, and that the decision not to urge any action on the Mexican Government at once, represented the best judgment of ex-Gov. Lind and Mr. O'Shaughnessy when they had considered diplomatic and political conditions.

Time May Calm Huerta.

When Mr. Lind feels that the time is opportune to make suggestions to the Mexican Government, he may find that President Huerta and his advisers are in a more favorable humor to receive them. At least, that appears to be the theory on which Mr. Lind is proceeding, judged by Mr. O'Shaughnessy's dispatch.

Reports from Mexico City that a message from the State Department which Mr. Lind bears has been translated into Spanish and is ready for presentation to President Huerta are not confirmed by Secretary Bryan. The impression given by the State Department is that no such message is to be communicated to President Huerta or the Mexican Government at this time.

Another thing cited to-day as indicating a favorable outlook for what President Wilson sought to accomplish was the statement of the British Foreign Office that President Huerta had been recognized by Great Britain "pending an election" on the advice of the British Minister to Mexico "as being likely to assist in the restoration of order."

In the Senate to-day, the only incident relating to Mexico was the introduction by Senator William Alden Smith of Michigan of a bill intended to provide for the expulsion of all revolutionary agents from the United States.

Mr. Smith's bill, which is almost identical with a Senate amendment to the Immigration bill offered last year by Senator Root of New York, authorizes the Department of Justice to proceed against aliens in the United States conspiring against a Government in North or South America with which the United States is at peace. The bill reads:

Bill to Deport Conspirators.

> Any alien who shall take advantage of his temporary or permanent residence in the United States to conspire with others for the violent overthrow of a foreign Government in North or South America with which the United States is at peace shall be arrested, and upon conviction in any court of competent jurisdiction be deported. The Department of Justice, through any officer legally qualified to act for said bureau, shall have the lawful right to enforce the provisions hereof.

Mr. Smith's measure was referred without debate to the Committee on Foreign Relations, where it will remain until the President's wishes are understood more definitely. It is suggested that as the United States so far has refused to recognize Provisional President Huerta's Administration as a Government, the bill, even if passed, might not have any bearing on existing conditions.

HUERTA GIVES ASSURANCES.

Cables the Paris Matin There Is No Ground for Anxiety.

PARIS, Aug. 13.—The Matin, having cabled to Provisional President Huerta of Mexico that some anxiety had been caused by dispatches received here concerning the relations between the United States and Mexico, has received the following message from Mexico City:

"Anxiety over the relations of Mexico with the United States are without foundation. V. HUERTA."

REBELS KILL A NEW YORKER.

Special to The New York Times.

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 12.—News of the assassination of Harry Burton of New York, chief chemist of the Poquilla Dam Company of Poquilla, Chihuahua, by Constitutionalist revolutionists on July 6 at Santa Rosalia, seventeen miles from Poquilla, was brought to San Francisco to-day by Dr. E. B. Fisher. Dr. Fisher is surgeon for the Porral & Durango Railroad Company and was at the young man's side a few minutes after he was shot.

According to the statement of Dr. Fisher, Burton was shot while passing a group of Constitutionalist soldiers who were listening to a public band concert.

Subsequent investigation, said Dr. Fisher, could discover no motive for the assassination other than the probable desire of the Constitutionalists to keep Americans from venturing too freely beyond the zone of their employment.

Burton was only 22 years of age and had held the office of chief chemist of the Poquilla Dam Company for four months. He had been in Mexico about two years.

JAPAN BARS DIAZ MISSION.

General Instructed by Huerta Not to Sail for Tokio.

TOKIO, Japan, Aug. 12.—The Japanese Government intimated to-day to the Mexican Government that it would not receive Gen. Felix Diaz as special envoy to Japan to express the thanks of Mexico for Japanese participation in the Mexican Centennial.

At the same time it announced that it would receive Gen. Diaz only as a private individual.

Diaz Cancels His Sailing.

Special to The New York Times.

VANCOUVER, B. C., Aug. 12.—After waiting until almost midnight and keeping the wires to Mexico City hot with code messages, Gen. Felix Diaz of Mexico finally announced to-night that he had decided to "defer" his trip to Japan as special envoy of the Huerta Government, in view of the fact that the Japanese Government had announced to-day it would not receive him in an official capacity.

The Diaz party canceled its bookings for the steamship Empress of Russia, which is to sail to-morrow, and the Mexicans will remain in this city several days until new plans are decided upon.

Gen. Diaz is unable to understand the action of the Japanese Government, after its official recognition of the Huerta Government, in declining to receive him as envoy on a peace mission of courtesy. He thought that it might be taking this step to court favor with the American Government, in view of President Huerta's attitude toward ex-Gov. Lind. He explained, however, that those were his private views. He said that the Huerta Government had been seeking some explanation from Japan, but had been unable to obtain any as yet.

"We do not wish to force ourselves upon the Mikado's Government if it does not wish to receive us officially," said Gen. Diaz. "So I have decided to defer my departure for Japan for a few days, anyway, until some further explanation is forthcoming on the subject. Unless Japan receives me officially there is not much use in going. There has evidently been some serious misunderstanding somewhere, as both of us, President Huerta and myself, understood that my mission was considered favorably by Japan."

Continuing, Gen. Diaz hinted that some forces were at work seeking to undermine both the standing of the Huerta Government and his own chances as a candidate for the Presidency of Mexico in the elections next October. He declined to give any further explanation of this point.

Gen. Diaz intends to remain in Vancouver for several days, and will probably visit Victoria or take a short trip up the coast.

Huerta Fails to Answer Rebuff.

MEXICO CITY, Aug. 12.—The Huerta Government was silent to-day with regard to the notice issued by the Japanese Government that Gen. Felix Diaz would not be received as Mexico's special envoy to thank Japan for having participated in the Mexican centennial, except that it was said a statement concerning the incident might be issued to-morrow.

TELL OF SWEEPING VICTORY.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

MEXICO CITY, Aug. 12.—Official reports of the fighting at Torreon made public to-day set the total of the rebel dead for the ten days of battle at 3,200, including officers. The Federal death list also is long. Eighteen Huerta officers were killed, including a Lieutenant Colonel.

The number of rebels engaged, exclusive of between two and three thousand who were busy cutting the railway and thus preventing the arrival of Federal reinforcements and provisions, numbered ten thousand. Two thousand five hundred Federals were in the battle. The fighting was begun July 12 and continued for ten days. Only the third uprising was frustrated in Torreon. Some insurgents were put to death.

On the last day the rebels turned loose a wild railway engine loaded with dynamite, but it failed to reach the place intended. It was derailed and exploded.

The rebels fled to Durango after their defeat.

The Huerta Government admits that the movement in the North was a secession. In its first official statement on the subject it says:

"The rebels suffered just punishment for their secessionist ideas, interventionist tendencies, and lack of patriotism."

Artillery played a great part in the fighting. So did the former rebels under Col. Arqumedo. The victory is considered by the Federal Government to be the most important of the campaign, as it is recognized that the fall or Torreon leaves the way clear to the capital.

The fighting was stopped on July 24, so both sides might burn the dead. On the 25th the rebels attempted to dynamite the floodgates of the dams above the town, to flood the streets, but failed in their plans.

ENVOY FAILS TO SAIL.

Ambassador de la Barra Delays His Departure for France.

Francisco Leon de la Barra, former Provisional President of Mexico, recently appointed as the Mexican Ambassador to France, will not sail for Havre on the French liner Savoie this morning. Señor de la Barra arrived in New York on the Ward liner Morro Castle last week and it was expected that he would sail to-day on the Savoie. It is not known when the Ambassador will sail nor has the reason of the delay been explained.

Señor de la Barra was the guest of honor at a luncheon at the Lawyers' Club given by Henry Clews, President of the American Peace and Arbitration League, yesterday.

Speaking at the luncheon Senor de la Barra said: "I am an optimist and heartily endorse Mr. Clews's prediction that up from our present difficulties will spring a greater and a mightier Mexico. We shall take our place as usual in the family of nations and co-operate with you always for international peace, not only between the United States and Mexico, but with all the world.

"We have shown our wonderful economic vitality during the past three years. We have our difficulties, but we shall emerge from them in a manner that will justify the faith of so many high-minded Americans who believe in our ability to bring about complete peace. From my intimate knowledge of the American people I believe that the inaternational questions will be adjusted along the lines of high ideals that will guide the American Government in solving the difficulties in accord with the vital interests of the two countries. I believe that your high-minded President will help us all find a satisfactory solution.

"I invite you all to arise to a toast to the moral, intellectual and material progress and happiness of the American people, and for the health and happiness of the distinguished citizen who has the honor of occupying the first place in your nation."

CROP FUND TO BANKS THAT AVOID STOCKS

Treasury to Deny Share of the $50,000,000 to Those Taking Risks in Loan Deals.

ALL TO REPORT CONDITION

Then Currency Head Will Know Which Really Try to Meet the Money Needs of Their Sections.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 12.—An important innovation was inaugurated to-day by the Treasury Department to enlarge its control of the national banks of the country.

The immediate effect of the change will be that institutions which borrow or loan money for speculative purposes will be denied any portion of the $50,000,000 of Government funds about to be deposited in the national banks to assist in moving the crops, and the entire amount will go to institutions that earnestly strive to meet the currency demands of the agricultural sections.

This policy of the Treasury Department was announced to-day when Acting Controller of the Currency Kane, in connection with a call for the condition of national banks at the close of business on Aug. 9, asked every national bank in the country to report detailed information of all money loaned or borrowed. Upon the basis of this data, expected to be available in time for the distribution of the $50,000,000, the Treasury Department will aim to differentiate between the banks which borrow or loan in connection with speculative operations or are chronic borrowers, and those which endeavor to relieve financial strain wherever it exists.

Information of this character, it was announced, will now regularly be obtained by the Controller of the Currency in order that the Treasury Department may know what sections of the country are in need of additional circulation at various periods of the year. This innovation is to be the forerunner of other material changes in the character of information the banks will be required in future to furnish the Government.

Acting Controller Kane's statement reads in part:

> All banks have been requested to send in on special forms furnished for that purpose detailed statements of all money loaned to other banks as well as all money borrowed from other banks in the form of rediscounts, bills payable, or in any other manner. The new form will enable the Controller more easily to determine what sections of the country are in need of additional circulation at stated periods of the year; what banks accommodate their correspondents in such sections, and, in addition, should also enable the Controller more easily to ascertain what banks borrow in order to meet legitimate discounts and varying conditions, and what banks should be listed as chronic borrowers; that is, those which borrow to reloan in normal times.

The Treasury Department, it was said, wants to single out the institutions that are not using their resources to help the crop moving period, so that it will be in a position to decline them special deposits of the Government to relieve stringency and place the money with banks which are sending currency to districts where it is needed. In addition, it was added, there are a few cases here and there where banks are badly overloaned, and the Government wants to unearth that condition in the interest of good banking.

The information collected probably will be available to Congress for use in connection with the question of amending the pending Currency Bill, so that banks may be permitted to keep a substantial proportion of their reserves with correspondents, as is done under the present system.

ASK McADOO TO EXPLAIN.

Republican Demand for Proof of Plot Against Bonds Fails.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 12.—William G. McAdoo, Secretary of the Treasury, was assailed by the Republicans on the floor of the House this afternoon for his charge that certain national bankers in New York City had conspired to depress the market price of 2 per cent. Government bonds for the purpose of causing apprehension concerning such bonds and to defeat the proposed currency legislation.

Challenging the accuracy of the Secretary's accusation, the Republican leaders demanded that Mr. McAdoo justify it or resign from the Cabinet. Representatives James R. Mann of Illinois and Frank W. Mondell of Wyoming led the attack, the latter as author of a pending resolution calling on Secretary McAdoo to transmit to the House all the facts in his possession on which he based his charge. Mr. McAdoo had asserted that the recent decline in the price of United States 2 per cent. bonds was due "almost wholly to what appears to be a campaign waged with every indication of concerted action on the part of a number of influential New York City banks to cause apprehension and uneasiness about these bonds in order to help them in their efforts to defeat the Currency bill."

The Mondell resolution demanded information from Secretary McAdoo as to the facts on which he based his statement "that nothing has occurred to impair the value of the two per cent. bonds, but the amendment already adopted by the Banking and Currency Committee of the House enhances their intrinsic value."

The Mondell resolution was introduced in the House on Aug. 1. Since then it has been pending before the Ways and Means Committee, of which Representative Underwood is Chairman.

A similar resolution introduced on the same day by Representative Neeley, a Democratic member from Kansas, who is "insurging" against the Administration Currency bill, was referred to the House Rules Committee, of which Representative Henry of Texas is Chairman. Neither of these committees has decided to report either resolution.

Mr. Mann charged that the Neeley resolution had not been reported because Secretary McAdoo had sent for members of the Rules Committee and indicated to them a desire to have the resolution pigeon-holed. This was denied by Representative Pou of North Carolina, who is a member of the Rules Committee, but Mr. Mann insisted that his information was correct. Mr. Pou however, admitted that he had talked with Secretary McAdoo concerning the Neeley resolution.

Contending that his resolution was privileged, Mr. Mondell moved that the House discharge the Ways and Means Committee from its consideration and pass it at once. Mr. Underwood opposed the motion, and challenged the statement that it was privileged. But Speaker Clark was forced to rule that it was, commenting that the resolution had been skillfully drawn. The Speaker held that it was in order for the House to vote on the motion to take it from the committee.

After a lively contest the House decided by a vote of 213 to 55 not to do so, leaving it in the hands of the Ways and Means Committee, where Republican leaders said it would be smothered. On the roll call there were 160 members absent and not voting.

Representative Underwood, for the Democrats, asserted that the resolution was based on a newspaper article published by Secretary McAdoo.

"It does not purport to be an official action of the Secretary of the Treasury," he said. The Republicans laughed and hooted this statement. He continued:

"It does not relate to facts in the control of the Treasury Department. The basis of this investigation is the statement of an individual. It is true that that individual happens to be the Secretary of the Treasury, but he has not made the statement as Secretary of the Treasury, and he has not made the statement that he has the facts as Secretary of the Treasury.

"It was entirely outside of his official duties that the statement was made by the Secretary. This resolution practically calls for his opinion as an individual and not for a statement of facts contained in the records of the Treasury Department."

Mr. Mondell insisted that his resolution did call for "facts" and not for any "opinion."

"A charge has been made," said Mr. Mondell, "that a crime has been committed. Certain people are charged with a crime that is punishable by imprisonment, and yet we cannot get the facts."

Mr. Mann ridiculed the contention of the Democrats that the Secretary of the Treasury could not be held officially responsible for the formal statement which he had issued from the office of the Secretary of the Treasury to the Washington newspaper correspondents, and in which he made the statements that the Republican leaders challenged.

"The Secretary of the Treasury," said Mr. Mann, "is an official and can make no statement relating to the conduct of his official department of the finances of the country that is not official. He cannot separate himself from his office, and, if he has information, it makes no difference how it came to him. Congress is entitled to the information, and the House is entitled to ask for the facts.

"The Secretary of the Treasury charges a conspiracy on the part of banks who owe their foundation and existence to the laws of the country. If the charge be true we ought to have the information before we pass a currency bill, and if the Secretary of the Treasury did not have the facts on which he based his charge, then he ought to retire from office."

CURRENCY FIGHT IN CAUCUS.

Insurgents Extend Scope of Agricultural Credits.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 12.—The fight of so-called insurgent Democrats to broaden the power of farmers and cotton raisers to use warehouse receipts as security for credit with the proposed Federal reserve banks, dominated to-day's caucus of the Democratic members of the House over the Glass Currency bill.

Representatives Neeley of Kansas, Wingo of Arkansas, and Eagle of Texas, all advocates of the proposed extension of agricultural credits, held the floor throughout the day.

Chairman Glass again defended the bill on the ground that it gave the farmer ample power to use his warehouse receipts as security for rediscountable notes, provided he wanted money for bona fide agricultural operations. The amendments demanded by the insurgents would make warehouse receipts specifically legal as security for rediscountable loans. The Administration forces insisted that such amendments would lead to wide-spread speculation, and that the warehouse receipts would pass into the hands of a few big speculators who would dominate the wheat, corn, and cotton markets and manipulate prices.

A vote on the bill is not expected before the end of the week. Echoes of the House "money trust" investigation were heard throughout the day, Representatives Neeley and Wingo using the lessons of that inquiry to support their demand for amendments to prevent interlocking boardso f directors and interlocking stockholding interests in national banks.

Representative Mann, Republican leader, has notified all absent Republican Representatives to return to Washington by Aug. 15 to prepare for the introduction of the currency bill in the House and to attend a joint Republican caucus. Mr. Underwood informed him he thought it probable that the House would take up the bill upon Monday or Tuesday next.

GLASS BILL HITS NEW YORK.

Savings Clause Bars Bonds of This City, Bankers Say.

Bankers in this city were much interested yesterday in one of the new provisions of the Owen-Glass currency bill, which they said would have the effect of barring New York City bonds as investments for the funds of the savings departments of national banks.

The bill, as presented to the Democratic caucus, authorizes national banks to receive savings accounts, but requires that these funds be segregated from those of depositors in the commercial department and invested under restrictions that do not apply to other funds.

Among the securities in which savings departments are authorized to invest are the bonds of any city, county or town of 25,000 population, provided that "the total bonded indebtedness of such city, county or town shall not, at time of such investment, exceed 5 per centum of the assessed valuation therein."

The constitutional limitation on the issue of New York City bonds is 10 per cent. of the assessed valuation, and in this calculation self-supporting bonds, such as those issued for docks, subways, &c., are not included. The city is usually pretty close to the debt limit most of the time, and always far in excess of the 5 per cent. limit imposed by the Owen-Glass bill. New York City bonds, however, are highly favored as investments for the savings banks of this State, which has one of the most stringent of any of the State laws affecting the investment of savings.

"This provision looks to me," said one banker yesterday, "like part of a deliberate plan to discriminate against the monetary centres, of which there have been plenty of signs before. Apparently those in authority at Washington would like to make a market for bonds of the smaller cities of the South and West to the exclusion of cities like New York."

CAN'T INVEST IN CITY BONDS.

Bank Savings Departments Restricted by New Currency Provisions.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 12.—Members of Congress from city districts found to-day what they regarded as a big flaw in a clause in the new savings department section of the Administration Currency bill. This clause provides that the bonds of cities whose indebtedness exceeds 5 per cent. of the assessed valuation of city property shall be unavailable for investment by the proposed new savings departments of the national banks. The full text of the new section was printed in THE NEW YORK TIMES to-day.

Unless this clause is amended the proposed savings departments of national banks will not be allowed to purchase, invest in, or hold the bonds of the City of New York, because the total bonded indebtedness of New York City is greater than 5 per cent. of the assessed valuation of the city's property.

Representative Glass, Chairman of the Banking and Currency Committee, asked to-night as to the purpose of this limitation, explained that it was to protect depositors by throwing safeguards around the municipal bonds in which investments may be made by the savings departments.

When he was informed that the 5 per cent. prohibition would shut out New York City bonds completely, Mr. Glass said he thought the 5 per cent. limitation was too low. He added that the bonds of most large cities and of some smaller municipalities would also be shut out from investment by the national bank savings departments if the 5 per cent. limitation were retained.

Representative Eagle of Texas, another member of the House Banking and Currency Committee, thinks the limit should be 10 per cent.

The theory of the limitation is that the bonds of a city which has a smaller debt in proportion to its assessed property valuation, and which city has not defaulted in its interest payments, are, of course, better investments than those of a city which has a disproportionate public debt.

Sentiment in the Democratic caucus has not been developed toward the proposed 5 per cent. limitation for the reason that the measure has not yet been considered for amendment, while bankers and others interested were only made acquainted with the details of the proposal this morning through their publication in THE TIMES. In all probability the limitation will be raised to the neighborhood of 10 per cent. by the caucus. The Aldrich-Vreeland act contains a provision making the bonds of cities acceptable by the Secretary of the Treasury as security for additional circulating notes.

Representative Bulkley of Ohio, of the House Banking and Currency Committee, who drafted the savings department section of the bill, said to-night to THE NEW YORK TIMES:

"The limitation was inserted along the general line of safety. There was no purpose to exclude the bonds of New York City. I had not looked the matter up to ascertain just how it would affect those bonds. I have thought that New York City was somewhat overbonded. If we have fixed the limit of prohibition too low it can be raised."

FUSION WRANGLE ON COUNTY TICKETS

Progressives and Hearst Men Fear Republicans Will Get All the Nominations.

WHITMAN REPLACES KOENIG

Takes Control of City Republican Organization—Final Action Put Off Until Thursday.

After discussing nominations for the various county tickets at a meeting in the Fifth Avenue Building for several hours last night the Executive Committee of the Fusion Committee of 107 adjourned without arriving at any decision beyond appointing committees to deal with the situation in Manhattan, the Bronx, and Brooklyn. Joseph M. Price, Chairman of the Executive Committee, said that his committee expected to be able to name the five county tickets as well as the judiciary tickets by Thursday, when the next meeting will be held.

It was evident last night that the Republicans have the whip hand and that the choicest offices will go to that organization. District Attorney Charles S. Whitman, whom the Fusionists selected for renomination, has taken full charge of the Republican organization in the city, so far as dealing with the Fusion Committee is concerned, supplanting County Chairman Samuel S. Koenig and the other leaders, and from now on the Fusion leaders will deal directly with him. Mr. Whitman, it was learned last night, informed Norman Hapgood, Chairman of the Fusion Committee, that he would do the talking for the Republicans hereafter.

The Republicans already have told the Fusionists just what they want in the way of nominations. They served notice that they expect at least one of the Supreme Court Justiceships and have selected former Justice William H. Wadhams as their candidate. They also want the Sheriff, and have put forward Dr. Frederick L. Marshall for the place. Mr. Marshall is Collector of Internal Revenue. He was appointed by President Taft and has held over under President Wilson. He is a Republican leader of the Tenth Assembly District and at one time was an Alderman.

If Mr. Marshall is not acceptable to the Fusionists the Republicans have another candidate for the place in Register Max S. Grifenhagen. William H. Blake and Mr. Koenig, who were candidates for the nomination, have been eliminated. The Republicans also want one of the Judgeships of General Sessions, and their candidate is Assistant District Attorney Isidore Wasservogel. If the Republicans get these offices they will agree to support all the other candidates named by the Fusionists.

Revolt Is Threatened.

The wholesale demand of the Republicans has thrown the Fusion Committee into considerable confusion. The Progressives and the Independence League members threaten to revolt if their demands are not complied with.

The Independence League filed notice that they want James A. Allen nominated for the Supreme Court, John J. Hopper for Sheriff, and P. D. Riordan for Coroner.

The Progressives have several candidates, but they have not agreed among themselves as yet as to what offices they would like. One Progressive member of the committee served notice last night that if any of the organizations submitted only one name for any particular office he would resign. His contention was that each organization should submit a list of names and allow the Fusionists to make the choice themselves.

These are the committees selected last night to smooth out the difficulties in the various counties:

NEW YORK COUNTY—Henry De Forest Baldwin, Chairman; William H. Hotchkiss, Philip J. McCook, Henry Moskowitz, Charles L. Bernheimer, Norman Hapgood, and Joseph M. Price.

BRONX COUNTY.—Joseph M. Price, Norman Hapgood, William H. Hotchkiss, Philip J. McCook, Henry Moskowitz, Richard W. Lawrence, F. A. Wurzbach, and John Davis. The last three are members of the Bronx Committee of Fusionists.

KINGS COUNTY.—All the members of the Executive Committee from that borough and Norman Hapgood and Joseph M. Price.

Price Hopes for Agreement.

"These committees will confer with the members of the whole committee from these counties and try to arrange a settlement," said Chairman Price. "There has been a good deal of difficulty in arranging a slate in these counties, but we expect to be able to reach an agreement by Thursday. The Judiciary Committee will also report on its slate on Thursday, so by that time the whole situation ought to be cleared up."

The Executive Committee has encountered much trouble with the Bronx and the Brooklyn members. Both boroughs practically warned the Executive Committee to keep hands off, as they would select their own tickets. Unless an agreement can be reached by Thursday it is likely that the Executive Committee will take the advice, and stand on its selection of a city and a borough ticket.

It is likely that Judge Warren W. Foster will be renominated by the Fusionists for General Sessions. The Bar Association is behind Mr. Foster's candidacy and may indorse him to-day. If this is done the Republican members will not make any protest, providing they get the other nomination for the office.

District Attorney Whitman was expected to be present at last night's meeting, but he sent word that he was busy talking over the affairs of his office with a number of his assistants at the Bar Association. Mr. Whitman said that pressure was still being exerted upon him to change his mind and refuse the Fusion nomination.

"I made it clear to every one who suggested such a course that I had made up mind, and nothing would change it. I am bending every effort to keep the Republicans in line and to straighten out the tangles. The difficulties are being smoothed out, and the Republicans will be back of the Fusion ticket to a man."

Mr. Whitman said he would do all his campaigning in Manhattan. It had been suggested, he said, that he go into the other boroughs, but he was convinced that the battle would be waged in Manhattan, and he would not go outside.

Fusion Troubles in Kings.

Timonthy L. Woodruff, Chairman of the Kings County Progressive Committee returned to Brooklyn from the Adirondacks yesterday and plunged at once into the political situation. Answering Alfred E. Vass, the Kings County Republican Chairman, who had said that if Tammany was successful the Progressive Party must take the blame, Mr. Woodruff said that the Republican attitude toward the city ticket was going to make it hard for the Kings County Progressives to indorse William H. Pounds for Borough President of Brooklyn.

He added that he thought the Fusionists in Brooklyn should renominate Charles S. Devoy, Republican, for County Clerk; Judges Dike and Fawcett, Republicans, for County Judges, and Herbert T. Ketcham, Democrat, for Surrogate. Mr. Woodruff said he gladly took full credit for telegraphing the two absent members of the Fusion Committee and thus making certain of their presence at the meeting which nominated John Purroy Mitchel for Mayor.

It became known yesterday that overtures were made to Deputy Tammany Leader John H. McCooey of Kings by a representative of the Bull Moose faction in that borough, who are in open revolt against any attempt to have the organization join with the Republicans in Kings County.

The Barrow League, a philanthropic and sociological organization that concerns itself with the welfare of discharged convicts, passed resolutions yesterday asking the various parties to renominate Judge Warren W. Foster of General Sessions. His term expires this year.

GAYNOR HEARS ALL SLATES.

Jerome Talked of as Tammany's Candidate for District Attorney.

Mayor Gaynor, it is believed, is still the favorite with a large number of Tammany district leaders for renomination. One thing that is making Tammany cast longing eyes at the Gaynor candidacy is the opinion which has been expressed pretty generally of late that the Mayor will have plenty of money to back his candidacy. One report was that certain business men who want to see him renominated had pledged themselves for large sums of money. It was estimated that the Gaynor supporters would have $1,000,000 to draw upon if necessary.

Several tentative slates have been arranged by the Tammany under-bosses, and it is expected that Chief Murphy will look them over to-day. All the slates have the name of Mayor Gaynor at the top. For other offices this slate was exhibited yesterday as the latest: For President of the Board of Aldermen, Frank L. Dowling; for President of the Borough of Manhattan, Speaker Alfred E. Smith of the Assembly; for Sheriff, Senator Christopher D. Sullivan; for District Attorney of New York County, William Travers Jerome.

J. Sergeant Cram, Public Service Commissioner, said yesterday that he favors the renomination of Mayor Gaynor. He said:

"I think that Mayor Gaynor is the best Mayor that the City of New York has had in my lifetime; certainly he is the best Mayor we've had since Mayor Hewitt. Gaynor would beyond question make the strongest candidate that the Democrats could put in the field. The public knows that he is steady and reliable, and the public is not wanting any experiments in government just now. Taxes are just as high as we can stand them, and the kind of man that the voters want is one who will give them a quiet administration."

Mr. Cram said he was not speaking for the Democratic organization, but he was sure it would make a mistake if any other candidate than the Mayor was put up against Mr. Mitchel.

Mayor Gaynor was put in nomination for the Mayoralty last night by the Citizens' League of Brooklyn, a nonpartisan organization. The meeting was held at Arion Hall, Brooklyn, and was attended by about 700 persons. William J. Haviland, Jr., was Chairman. Henry Weisman presented the names of Mr. Gaynor for Mayor and Frank Mann, Deputy Tenement House Commissioner in charge of Brooklyn, for Borough President of Brooklyn. The nominations were made unanimous. A committee of twelve citizens was appointed to call upon the Mayor and notify him. In nominating the Mayor, Mr. Weisman said:

"Are you going to retire the master and put an immature youth in his place? The Fusion conference pretended to be organized to nominate a ticket to provide for capable city government, but the present ticket was formed because of an aliance between William R. Hearst and Timothy L. Woodruff. The people of the city at the last election elected a man of proved worth and tried honesty, and now the time has come for them to show they appreciate the administration he has given."

WOULD BAN MITCHEL NAME.

Hendrick Asks Injunction to Keep It Off Republican Ballot.

Frank Hendrick, who announced on Saturday last that he was a candidate for the Mayoralty nomination on the Republican ticket, went before Justice Benedict in Special Term of the Supreme Court in Brooklyn yesterday and obtained an order directing John S. McKune, Chairman of the Republican City Committee of Manhattan, to show cause why an injunction should not be issued restraining the committee from placing the name of John Purroy Mitchel at the head of the Republican column on the ballots.

Mr. Hendrick alleged that the Republican primary was for Republican voters only, and that only Republicans should be nominated. He set forth that Mr. Mitchel was a Democrat in that he was appointed Assistant Corporation Counsel by a Democratic Mayor, and later Collector of the Port of New York by a Democratic President, and that as Collector he has made Tammany appointments.

The order is returnable before Justice Crane in the Special Term of the Supreme Court in Brooklyn, on Friday.

BIND GUARD, ROB STABLE.

Five Horses Stolen from a Factory in Williamsburg.

A man on his way to work early yesterday morning heard groans in the stable attached to the moulding mill of R. Ratskin & Son, at 366-380 Jefferson Street, Williamsburg. The workman ran to the Hamburg Avenue Police Station, and Policeman Clancy was sent to the stable. He found Herman Slotchwich of 219 Varet Street, the watchman, bound and gagged.

The watchman is a Russian and unable to talk English. He told the police through an interpreter that at midnight three men attacked him as he entered the office of the mill and after binding and gagging him carried him out to the stable. Then they stole five horses and several wagons. Slotchwich's wrists were cut badly by the rope used to bind them.

CRANK ATTACKS A MINISTER.

Carries Stage Diamonds, 42 Keys, and a Roll of Stage Money.

Glen Lambert, 24 years old, whose idea of his home address appears to be vague, was locked up in the Tremont Police Station early this morning on complaint of the Rev. A. C. Kildegaard of the Swedish Reformed Church at 1,179 Hoe Avenue, the Bronx. According to Mr. Kildegaard he was about to enter his parsonage next to the church at 1 o'clock this morning when Lambert ran up to him, and started to wrestle him all over the sidewalk.

The minister held his ground until Bicycle Policeman Stephens rode up. The two managed to subdue the man and take hi mto the police station. Although Lambert said he was not sure if he had a home or not, a bunch of forty-two keys was found in his possession. He wore three large imitation diamond rings and carried a large roll of "stage money."

Southern Travelers Entertain.

More than 1,000 members of the Southern Travelers' Association and their women guests attended the annual buffet dinner, entertainment, and ball held last night in the grand ballroom of the Hotel Astor. A brief business session preceded the festivities of the evening. Among those present were George F. Daniels, President of the association; First Vice President Ben Feinberg, Second Vice President A. A. Peeler, Third Vice President Herman Schocke, Secretary James E. Bouder, Treasurer Ralph M. Neuburger, and Directors Harry S. Aarons, Emanuel Goodhelp, Karl Marx, Gus Lebolt, Charles F. Young, Frank Wolff, and B. J. Lommerich.

Trifling Fire in the Subway.

Defective insulation on an electric motor in the Subway, between Thirtieth and Thirty-first Streets, under Fourth Avenue, filled the Subway with smoke for a few minutes last night.

Patrolman Dobbins saw the smoke and turned in an alarm, which brought Battalion Chief Skelly.

Seek Aid for Cripples.

The Committee of the Cripples' Welfare Society of 156 Fifth Avenue has issued an appeal for $4,200 with which to furnish fifty legless cripples with artificial legs, thereby making it possible for them to be self-supporting. The Welfare Society was organized to help cripples to help themselves.

Wants Parcel Post for Books.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 12.—Representative Lewis of Maryland to-day introduced a resolution to require Postmaster General Burleson to immediately consider the advisability of extending the classification of parcel post matter so as to include books, which are now subject to the third-class rate of postage and a four-pound limit.

TRIED TO CUT UP SLAIN GIRL'S BODY

MURDERER INTERRUPTED

Before He Severed the Head Completely—Body Not That of the Chopeck Girl.

Dr. Weston, the Coroner's physician, who had been directed to make an autopsy yesterday morning on the body of the young woman found murdered at Inwood on Sunday night, postponed it at the request of the police in the hope that the body might be identified in a day or so. He examined the body, though, and found that the skull had been fractured in two places, over the left ear and at the base. The physician was of the opinion that the woman's throat was cut after she was dead by the murderer, who intended to sever the head from the body and dispose of it to prevent identification.

This conclusion on the part of Dr. Weston led the police to reconstruct their original theory that the woman belonged to the Spuyten Duyvil colony of Slavs. Dr. Shaw of the Washington Heights Hospital, who viewed the body immediately after its discovery, was of the opinion that the murderer was interrupted while he was attempting to dismember the body. He asserted that the woman had been dead for not more than two hours when he arrived. This would fix the time of death at approximately 11:30 o'clock or fifteen minutes before Frank C. Allen, a boatman, stumbled across the body.

"From a superficial examination of the body I should say that an effort was made to sever the head from the body," Dr. Weston said. "A dull instrument was used apparently, and the person or persons responsible for the woman's death abandoned work along that line as hopeless. There is evidence that another effort was made to sever the head with another instrument. I believe that the woman was first struck over the head several times, and that her throat was cut as an afterthought. The stab wounds were inflicted probably with a knife. Whatever weapon was used was in poor condition and had a dull edge."

Not the Chopeck Girl's Body.

The partial identification of the body made on Monday night by Mary Lakas, a young Slav, who lived in the Spuyten Duyvel colony, as that of Anna Chopeck, was set aside yesterday when she insisted after a second view of the body that there was no doubt in her mind that it was not that of the Chopeck girl. Her rambling story to the effect that the Chopeck girl worked as a servant in the home of a Hungarian corset marker in the neighborhood of 181st Street helped to discredit the identification. Detectives searched yesterday every lingerie establishment between 181st Street and Spuyten Duyvel for some clue to substantiate the identification without avail.

Detective Hawkins made a careful search yesterday afternoon in the Red Hook part of the Brooklyn waterfront for persons who knew Anna Chopeck. He was unable to find any Slav or Hungarian in the district who had ever heard of such a woman.

Late yesterday afternoon torn letters, written apparently in some foreign tongue, were found in a hollow log some fifty feet away from where the body of the murdered girl was found. The tattered paper was discovered by Detectives McGrath and O'Connor and were delivered later to Detective Sergeant Lagerenne, a linguist in the Detective Bureau, for translation. Up to midnight he had been unable to piece together the torn segments of the letters.

May Have Come from Jersey.

Acting Capt. Herlihy of the West 125th Street Detective Bureau, who is in charge of the case, was of the opinion last night that the murdered woman did not come from Spuyten Duyvil.

"We have had all kinds of theories," he said, "but the fact remains that two days' search has failed to reveal any missing woman in Upper Manhattan. Either this woman was brought from downtown to the place where she was killed, or she came to Inwood in a motor boat from New Jersey. That is my opinion."

Capt. Herlihy said that if the murdered girl had been a servant, as was at first assumed by the police, her employers would have reported her absence or have made inquiries about her. The finding of a woman's much-battered hat, of black straw trimmed with white and pink roses, four hundred feet from where the murder was discovered, was regarded last night as a possible clue. The hat bore a trade mark which was undecipherable.

"It may have been the hat of the murdered woman, and it may have been tossed away by some woman tramp," said Capt. Herlihy. "I do not think it has any connection with the case. We are keeping it, however, as a possible clue."

MULHALL ILL FROM ORDEAL.

House Lobby Committee Adjourns to Thursday, So He May Rest.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 12.—With its principal witness, Martin M. Mulhall, ill, the House Lobby Committee to-day was forced to adjourn until Thursday. In the meantime Mulhall, who says he has been literally worn out by the strain of continual examination, will rest under the care of a physician in an attempt to fit himself to resume his testimony.

James A. Emery, chief representative of the National Association of Manufacturers here, testifying before the Senate Lobby Committee to-day, denied that Henry Neal and Harry Parker, negro employes at the Capitol, were in the pay of the manufacturers. Mulhall had sworn that for almost a year Emery had given him each month a $100 check, of which $50 was to go to I. H. McMichael, one-time chief page of the House, and $50 to Parker and Neal.

Emery denied he ever drew such a check. He admitted, however, that he drew a check for $50, sent it to Mulhall and told him to divide it between Neal and Parker, "merely to pay for the many courtesies they performed for our members."

"Did you ever make any payments to Mulhall for McMichael?" asked Attorney McCarter, for the Manufacturers.

"Yes," said the witness. "It never exceeded $20 a month, and it terminated when I left for Europe in 1910."

CHARLTON SAILS TO-DAY.

Prisoner Hopeful That an Italian Jury Will Acquit Him.

Porter Charlton, who in June, 1910, murdered his wife, Mary Scott Castle Charlton, at Lake Como in Italy and who since the middle of that month has been confined in the Hudson County Jail in Jersey City, while lawyers fought to prevent his extradition, will start back to Italy this morning. He will be in the custody of two Italian Government detectives and will sail on the steamship Re d'Italia for Naples.

Charlton's quarters on the liner will be isolated, and he will not be permitted to mingle with the other passengers. He will return third class, as the Italian Government does not provide first-class accommodations for prisoners.

At the Hudson County Jail it was said yesterday that the prisoner was in good spirits and hopeful of an acquittal by an Italian jury. His father is Judge Paul Charlton of Washington.

Sullivan's Appointment Confirmed.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 12.—The Senate to-day confirmed the appointment of James M. Sullivan of New York, as Minister to the Dominican Republic.

JOHN A. CONNOLLY ARRESTED

Perjury Charge Sequel to His Charges Against Justice Cohalan.

John A. Connolly, whose charges against Supreme Court Justice Cohalan were the basis of a legislative investigation, was arrested yesterday on a warrant charging perjury on complaint of Mrs. Minnie C. Sayward of 425 West 114th Street. Connolly pleaded not guilty before Magistrate Barlow in the Tombs Court and waived examination. He was held in $1,000 bail for the Grand Jury.

In an affidavit Mrs. Sayward asserted that in March, 1912, she brought suit against Connolly in the Ninth District Municipal Court to recover $197 which she had loaned Connolly on a bond and for which he gave her notes. Mrs. Sayward alleged that in that suit Connolly asserted that he had received no consideration for these notes. The affidavit says that in making that statement Connolly committed perjury.

In her affidavit Mrs. Sayward said that before the Murtaugh investigating committee on July 10 Connolly admitted that his declaration that he had received no consideration for the notes was false. Norman Fitzsimmons, a private detective, who heard the testimony before the investigating committee, submitted with the affidavit a statement that he had heard Connolly admit that his testimony was false.

The warrant upon which Connolly was arrested was issued by Magistrate Levy in the Tombs Court on July 22, but was not served until yesterday, when Connolly was leaving his home at 251 West Ninety-first Street. Connolly said in court that he had been on a vacation in Pennsylvania for several weeks. He asserted that the charges against him had been instigated by persons interested in the Cohalan case.

HARBURGER FOR PLUTARCH.

Joins Ranks of Letter Writers, but Ignores Epictetus Quotations.

Not to be outdone by any city official in any department of activity Sheriff Harburger joined the ranks of the letter writers yesterday in replying to the epistle of a scribe who requested the Sheriff's aid in subduing neighborhood noises. In his letter he acknowledged the pre-eminence of Mayor Gaynor in this field by referring graciously to his letters in the same sentence in which he casually mentioned the works of Aristophanes and Plutarch and various classical writers.

The letter to the Sheriff was written by F. A. Mathews of 419 West 118th Street, who is said to have termed himself a writer by profession. Mr. Mathews asked that as the police seemed unable to cope with the situation, the Sheriff take sufficient time from his problem of the delicatessen stores to stop the annoying cries of street venders and ball players in the neighborhood. The writer pointed out that the boys who were so naughty as to play ball on his street did not really live there. In reply Sheriff Harburger said:

"As a literary man you like others look to me to stop all offenses. I have tried to assist Mrs. Rice in her antinoise crusade. I could appoint you as a special deputy for the street, and you could patrol it and stop all noises, or some other gentleman whom you might suggest. I can understand that when you are poring over the books of Aristophanes or "Plutarch's Lives," or the philosophical and scientific works of Darwin, or perusing the operas of Meyerbeer, Verdi, and Wagner, and reading the letters of Mayor Gaynor you cannot be disturbed in your musings. I can understand, especially on Sunday, when you read the Old and New Testaments and are living in a spirit of prayer, you don't want Sunday ball players shouting 'foul' and 'strike,' and the umpire's stentorian voice ascending to your peaceable home.

"If I can find time I will meander in your aristocratic neighborhood, and will see to it that the section will be immune, and the echo of the sounds of the trumpet will not be discordant, and your house will be undisturbed."

CLOSES MONTAYNGE ESTATE

Trustee Has $166,084 to Distribute to Heirs.

The estate of William H. Montaynge is again before the courts for settlement. This time it has been referred to ex-Judge Augustus Van Wyck, as referee, on motion made before the Supreme Court by Francis S. McAvoy, substitute trustee. According to the statement made by Mr. McAvoy he has a balance of $166,084, consisting of personal property left by Mr. Montaynge and moneys from the sale of real estate, including the spice mill, known as the Liscomb mill, at Barclay and Greenwich Streets. The mill brought $141,000 at a recent sale, and this amount was increased to $181,000 by the sale of other property, including a house in Eighty-eighth Street.

Mr. Montaynge, who was a member of the Seventh Regiment, died on Dec. 23, 1895, leaving personal property worth $74,000. The spice mill was then paying dividends, and his entire estate was estimated at more than $300,000. He named as trustees his wife, Mary Elizabeth, and his sons, Charles Harold and George Edward Mantaynge. They were removed as trustees in 1908 by the Surrogate, and on Feb. 8, 1909, Mr. McAvoy was appointed. The mill, it was then said, had ceased to pay any substantial dividend, because of poor management, and the estate had shrunk in value.

It is alleged that George Edward Montaynge, who gave up his interests in the spice mill in 1902, and is now employed by the Union Railway Company, is indebted to the estate to the sum of $29,000. This he denies, through his attorney, Cornelius E. Waterbury of 52 Wall Street, asserting that by an agreement entered into in 1901 his indebtedness was to be paid from the profits of the mill by his brother, Charles Harold Montaynge, who was then left in charge of the affairs.

CRUSHED BY CITY AUTO.

Miller's Motor Car Runs Wild Into Workmen in the Bronx.

Borough President Cyrus C. Miller of the Bronx and Thomas Higgins, the borough's Park Commissioner, departed from Mr. Miller's office in the Borough Hall, at Third and Tremont Avenues, early yesterday afternoon intending to go on an inspection trip in one of the city's automobiles. The auto was standing on a terrace in the rear of the building and was backed up against a high board fence, which separates the Borough Hall grounds from Crotona Park. President Miller got into the auto and Commissioner Higgins was about to follow him when the chauffeur, Joseph Romaine, attempted to crank the engine.

He had neglected to throw off the reverse clutch, and when he gave the crank a sudden turn the auto dashed back against the fence, smashed it, and ran down the bank to a baseball grandstand which is at the bottom of the hill. Mr. Higgins pulled Mr. Miller from the auto as it struck the fence, and neither was injured, but on one of the top rows of seats in the stand were a dozen or more city employes watching some boys at play on the ball field at noon.

As the auto came upon them all but one escaped. Joseph Moore of 221 Halsey Street, Brooklyn, was caught beneath it. His ribs were crushed and he suffered internal injuries. Policeman Gilbert of the Tremont Avenue Police Station succeeded, with the aid of several men, in lifting the auto sufficiently to release Moore, and then called an ambulance from Fordham Hospital. At the hospital it was said that Moore would die.

CASTRO REVOLUTION HAS FIZZLED OUT

News Reaches Curacao and Is Confirmed by Our Consul at Caracas.

HIS RELATIVES IN FLIGHT

His Own Whereabouts Unknown—Cruiser Des Moines on a Scouting Expedition.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

WILLEMSTAD, Curacao, Aug. 12.—The Venezuelan revolution has apparently failed in the Western States. Ex-President Castro's whereabouts is still unknown. He is supposed to have left Coro, where the revolution is making no progress. His male relatives have also left Coro, and are expected soon to join his brother Carmelo here.

Gen. Olivares arrived here yesterday from Colombia.

The Government of Curacao is observing neutrality.

There are rumors that a force of guerrillas under the command of Gen. Ramos is surrounding Caracas.

WILLEMSTAD, Aug. 12.—The revolutionists have landed a force of 1,400 men at La Vela in the State of Falcon, whence they have dispatched troops to the interior, according to news brought here to-day by the Dutch schooner Virginia, which had been detained at Coro.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 12.—The Castro uprising is officially reported by Consul Voetter, at Caracas, as a failure. He confirms earlier reports that Gen. Torres and his officers, who headed the revolution in the eastern part of the country, have been captured.

Conditions along the west coast of Venezuela, the principal theatre of the Castro revolutionary activities, are to be investigated by Commander Long of the cruiser Des Moines. After landing, Secretary Tennant yesterday, the Des Moines, according to to-day's dispatches, proceeded westward along the coast on a scouting cruise.

W. J. Leitner, Vice Consul at Maracaibo, Venezuela's principal seaport, reported to-day that telegraphic communication had been re-established with all the rest of the country except Coro, where Castro was said to have landed and started operations.

SUES HER FAMILY DOCTOR.

Mrs. Sutton Seeks to Have Assignment of Trust Fund Set Aside.

Mrs. Ada Frances Sutton began suit yesterday in the Supreme Court against Dr. Alfred Camille Depont to set aside an assignment made on July 27, 1907, of her interest and that of her son, Charles M. Sutton 3d, in a trust fund worth more than $25,000 created by the will of Daniel C. Kingsland, who died Jan. 11, 1873. Mrs. Sutton and her son are descendants of a sister of Mr. Kingsland.

The complaint in the suit not only asks that the purported assignment be construed as a mere mortgage against the trust fund for moneys loaned to Mrs. Sutton by Dr. Dupont, but also that Dr. pont account for all moneys received under the assignment of the trust and of amounts he may claim as due because of loans.

Mrs. Sutton avers in her complaint that Dr. Dupont was her family physician and that in the Summer of 1907, when her son was ill in bed and under Dr. Dupont's attendance, the doctor advanced moneys to her for the purchase of living necessities. Mrs. Sutton asserts that by reason of her son's illness and of medicines administered to him he was in no fit condition to assign his interest, and that he was also under the physician's influence, while she herself did not understand the nature of the paper which she signed. She believed it to be merely a mortgage and power of attorney limited to a payment of $500 to the physician's attorney, she said.

As an additional complaint, Mrs. Sutton recited that an assignment would have been an usurious exaction on the loans advanced to her by the physician. Her repeated requests for a statement from Dr. Dupont as to the amount she received from him as loans, she complained, had been evaded.

Dr. Dupont, who has an office at 310 West Twenty-third Street, said last night:

"There is no foundation whatever for the charge that there was any deceit or bad faith about the transaction with Mrs. Sutton and her son. The truth will appear when the action comes to trial."

GIVES GEMS UP AS LOST.

Mrs. Rumsey Does Not Expect to Solve Narragansett Pier Robbery.

Mrs. Charles C. Rumsey, daughter of the late E. H. Harriman, announced yesterday that she had given up all hope of ever recovering any part of the jewelry which was stolen from her Summer residence at Narragansett Pier, R. I., several weeks ago. She will return next week to her home in Westbury, L. I.

"We have abandoned the theory that the robbery was committed by anybody connected with the household," said Mrs. Rumsey. "The most searching scrutiny has been made of every incident in and about the house at the time of the robbery, and by the process of elimination the servants and all other persons known to have been about the premises have been absolutely cleared. The idea that the robbery might have been done from the inside was simply a theory and a perfectly natural one in view of the mysterious absence of any clues and the absolute certainty with which the burglars went after and obtained exactly what they wanted."

KILLS WIFE, WOUNDS CHILD.

Jealous Italian Then Fires at Detectives Who Pursue Him.

Embittered by his suspicion that she was looking with too favorable an eye upon one of their neighbors, Vincenza Cantenelli spoke roughly to his wife Concitta as they sat down to dinner together last evening in their flat at 517 East Eighty-sixth Street. She retorted sharply, and then announced that if her husband did not mend his manners she would go out for the evening. Cantenelli's anger grew at that, and their eleven-year-old daughter Mary came into the room just in time to see him draw a rusty pistol from his pocket and turn it on her mother.

He fired twice. One bullet went through her chest and she slipped to the floor—dead.

With the pistol gripped in his hand, Cantenelli felt his way to the door of the flat. The child ran after him, putting out her arms and beseeching him to come back and help her mother. The infuriated Italian whirled about and fired a third shot. It struck his daughter in the face and she fell unconscious to the floor beside her mother's body. The father, pistol in hand, was still standing, staring down stupidly at his night's work, when neighbors entered. He jumped for the hall, then, sweeping them out of his path by a gesture with his weapon, and racing down the stairs to the back yard of the tenement.

The janitor of a neighboring tenement tried to stop him, but Cantenelli fired a fourth shot and scrambled over the fence. He got through to Avenue A, when Detectives Ticho and Cousins of the East Eighty-eighth Street Station took up the chase. They had been passing on a street car and had jumped off, seeing the commotion caused by Cantenelli's flight.

The fugitive fired a fifth shot at Ticho, but it missed him. Cantenelli was pointing his revolver at Cousins, when Detective Ryan, who had been attracted by the firing, reached him just in time to pinion him from behind and hold him while Ticho disarmed him.

In the station Cantenelli did not deny having shot his wife. But he protested again and again that he had not known what he was about when he turned his pistol on his little girl. She is not hurt badly. The Italian bought his pistol in a Harlem saloon for $1.

Assistant District Attorney Theron Strong, of the homicide bureau, arrived at the station an hour after Cantenelli's arrest. He said that a letter had been found which showed that the shooting was premeditated. Tony, 6 years old, and Ignatius, 10 years old, sons of the Italian, were found under a bed in the sleeping room of the apartment by the police an hour after the shooting. They were taken to the Children's Society.

WON'T CLOSE SEA HOSPITAL.

St. John's Guild Will Keep New Dorp Home Open All Winter.

The Board of Trustees of St. John's Guild voted yesterday to keep the Sea Side Hospital at New Dorp, S. I., open the year round. Heretofore the work of relieving the sick children of the poor there has been confined to the Summer months. The new buildings and equipment has now made it possible to provide also for the care and treatment of convalescent mothers who have been discharged from the city hospitals. It is also the purpose of the Guild to continue through the Winter the treatment of orthopedic cases.

The new Sea Side Hospital, which was opened last Summer, is the largest children's hospital in the country. It was erected as the result of the efforts of men who realized the serious situation in the city. Seymour L. Cromwell is President, and on the Board of Trustees are Dr. Abraham Jacobi, Isaac N. Seligman, John D. Crimmins, Arthur Iselin, George Cromwell, Dr. Alvah H. Doty, Clinton H. Crane, and others. Even with the poorer equipment of former years, the hospital was the means of saving the lives of thousands of sick children. Its service is unusual in that it not only restores to health sick babies, but cares for the mother and other children of the family in the meantime.

The hospital equipment consists to-day of 20 buildings, including eight large wards and four solariums for children and their mothers, an annex, the Lewis Memorial Cottage, an isolating building, nurses' quarters, and servants' quarters. This season 1,624 patients have been admitted to the Sea Side Hospital, with an average stay for patients of 9.7 days.

MAGISTRATE FLAYS FRIEND.

Reproves Sutphin for Abusing a Policeman in Court.

Harry Sutphin of Jamaica, L. I., Deputy Public Works Commissioner of Queens, a prominent politician and editor of the Queens Borough Bulletin, was reprimanded severely by Magistrate Harry Miller, his friend, in the Jamaica Police Court yesterday, for language he addressed to Motor Cycle Patrolman Harry Shelley after the Deputy Commissioner's chauffeur had been fined $50 for speeding as a second offense.

Six weeks ago Sutphin was being driven through Long Island City by his chauffeur, William Birch, at an alleged speed of forty miles an hour, when Policeman Shelley stopped the auto and summoned Birch to court. Sutphin protested, saying he was on official business. In the Long Island City Police Court the next day Birch was convicted, but sentence upon him was suspended.

Nothing more was heard of the incident until the next issue of Sutphin's paper. It contained an attack upon Patrolman Shelley. Sutphin was being driven by Birch from the Queens Borough Hall along the Queens Boulevard on Monday when Shelley stopped him again, saying he was running at the rate of thirty-four miles an hour. According to the policeman's testimony in court yesterday, the Deputy Commissioner used improper language toward him after the chauffeur was served with a summons. Magistrate Miller found Birch guilty as a second offender and fined him $50. Sutphin, red with anger, started to leave the court room. As he passed Patrolman Shelley he made a remark to him in an undertone. Shelley appealed to Magistrate Miller.

"Your Honor, this man insulted me," said Shelley, repeating the epithet that he said had been used.

"Yes," said Magistrate Miller, "I heard what he said."

"This policeman is persecuting me," Sutphin said.

"Even if that was true you had no right to use such language. It was absolutely uncalled for," the Magistrate retorted.

A GERMAN TREASON CASE.

Officer of Artillery Arrested While Endeavoring to Escape.

STETTIN, Aug. 12.—The arrest last evening of Capt. Stein of the Third Regiment of Field Artillery on a charge of espionage is considered in military circles likely to turn out as disastrous for Germany as was the case of Col. Alfred Redl for Austria.

While the Third Field Artillery was exercising on the manoeuvring ground at Hammerstein yesterday the Colonel sent an apparently harmless summons to Capt. Stein. The Captain suspected a trap, and immediately fled to the railroad station, whence he departed on the first train. A telegram sent to the next station brought about his arrest.

The case of Col. Redl caused a great sensation. He was chief of the General Staff of the Ninth Austrian Army Corps, and was accused of treachery while exercising his functions. The information he was alleged to have sold to foreign governments was of such an important character that the German Government, as well as the Austrian Government, was forced to make a complete change in its mobilization plans.

Col. Redl committed suicide on May 26 while under arrest.

BURNS'S TRIBUTE TO DOCTORS' WORK

VOTE FOR VIVISECTION

Only One Woman of All the Delegates Is Against It—Russian 'Ritual Murder' Reports Denounced

By Marconi Transatlantic Wireless Telegraph to The New York Times.

LONDON, Aug. 12.—The International Medical Congress was closed to-day by an address by the Right Hon. John Burns, President of the Local Government Board, who paid a tribute to the profession for its part in the marvelous reduction of the death rate in England and Wales in recent years.

Mr. Burns said hundreds of thousands of lives had been saved during a single generation by improved methods of dealing with such diseases as smallpox and tuberculosis, and the economic gain to the nation was gigantic.

Mr. Burns was interrupted at intervals by six suffragettes, five women and a man, who were ejected. "Keep as young as me," was the advice given by Mr. Burns when his cosmopolitan audience turned curious eyes on the militant women. "Thanks to God, my mother, and a sensible doctor, my voice is good enough to overcome such a noise as they make."

The next congress is to be held at Munich in 1917.

Awards of Congress Prizes.

LONDON, Aug. 12.—The International Medical Congress, which closed to-day, is regarded by the delegates from all parts of the world who attended it as the most successful and the most comprehensive ever held in the history of medicine.

The three great prizes of the congress have been awarded as follows:

The Moscow Prize, Prof. Charles Richet of Paris, for work on anaphylaxis.

The Paris Prize, Prof. A. von Wassermann, Superintendent of the Kaiser Wilhelm Society for Experimental Therapy, for work on experimental therapy and on immunity.

The Hungary Prize, Prof. D. E. Wright of London, for work on anaphylaxis.

At the closing meeting this afternoon, the Right Hon. John Burns, in his address on "The Relationship of Medicine to the Public Health," said he thought the ideal of the future work of physicians lay in advising the world as to the best means of preventing disease, dissuading people from habits inimical to their health, and discovering early symptoms which, if neglected, would produce serious disease. He considered the prospect of gaining complete control over tuberculosis quite promising, and intimated that general medical research was about to receive assistance from the State on a scale not heretofore contemplated.

The chief impediment in the way of the Governmental expenditure to this end, said Mr. Burns, had been wastefulness, and one source of waste expenditure—armaments—"stood head and shoulders above all others." If that waste could be prevented gigantic sums would be released for reforms which were waiting to be financed.

The permament commission of the congress to-day put on record that the congress, with the exception of one woman, had resolved:

> It is our conviction that experiments on living animals have proved of the utmost service to medicine in the past, and are indispensable to its future progress.

The closing day of the congress saw all the sections in session. The subject of leprosy gave rise to an interesting discussion in the Bacteriology Section. Major E. R. Rost of the Indian Medical Service said that after years of experience he had reached the belief that the disease in the great majority of cases was contracted through infected clothing. He emphasized the importance of segregation and of the sterilizing of all clothing worn by lepers.

Major Rost declared that the word "incurable" might be erased from the text-books dealing with leprosy. Since he had adopted the vaccine treatment in 1909 he had, he said, discharged four cases as cured. At the present moment he had thirty cases under treatment by the vaccine method. Three cases which he had treated by the old lepuolin method showed no sign of the original disease, and he had received reports from other patients treated in that way who were now in perfect health.

"Climatic and Occupational Influence in Diseases of the Ear" was the subject of a paper by Dr. Clarence Blake of Boston, Mass., in the Otology section. He mentioned that miners were especially prone to ear diseases because of the dust and detonations in a circumscribed space without the possibility of diffusion. In the same way persons engaged in trades productive of dust and grime were inclined to be affected. He thought noise was the most important and injurious by-product of industry, yet it was the last to receive attention.

Arthur H. Cheatle, Lecturer on Aural Surgery at Kings College Hospital, called attention to the deafness associated with aeroplaning, and said much would be heard on this subject in the future. Three factors, he said, were conducive to this form of occupational deafness—height, speed, and the noise of the motor.

The "Blood Murder" Story.

The accusation of "blood murder" for ritualistic purposes brought against Russian Jews in connection with the assassination of a boy in Kieff in 1911 was discussed at a joint meeting of the sections devoted to Forensic Medicine and Psychiatry or Mental Diseases. Prof. George Puppe of the University of Königsberg and Prof. Henri Colin of Paris produced evidence against the theory of ritual murder.

A joint report signed by Prof. Augustus J. Pepper of the University of London and Dr. William Henry Willcox and Dr. Charles A. Mercier, both of London, was presented, expressing the opinion that the evidence proved the crime to have been a coarse and brutal murder committed by a lunatic. The report said:

"We hold the strongest opinion that there was nothing in the details of the murder to suggest the race or nationality of the murder, and we are entirely and emphatically opposed to the opinion that the crime was a ritual murder."

Sir James Crichton-Browne, who presided, said the congress was not a judicial tribunal, but was entitled to say that it did not agree with the opinion that the crime was a ritual murder. In his own opinion, he said, it was a case of racial antipathy amounting to a criminal conspiracy, which seized upon an independent criminal act and distorted and perverted it for its own purposes.

All the delegates present cheered as a mark of agreement with Sir James Crichton-Browne's views.

The meetings in the orthopedic section led to the formation of a committee for the establishment of an international association to further the progress of orthopedic surgery and to arrange for international meetings. Dr. Robert W. Lovett of Boston and Dr. Clarence Leslie Starr of Toronto were chosen as members of the committee.

Prof. Friedrich von Muller of Munich, was to-day elected President of the Permanent Committee of the Congress and President of the Eighteenth Congress, which is to be held in Munich in 1917.

In bidding the delegates a formal farewell in the Albert Hall, the President of the Congress, Sir Thomas Barlow, earnestly appealed to the medical profession to make its great influence felt in all the countries of the world in an effort to prevent war.

CHINA'S OUTLOOK BRIGHT, HE SAYS

American Agent Asserts Wonderful Development Will Follow Present Revolution.

SAW THE TROUBLE START

Fanaticism of the Cantonese Aroused by the Murder of Two Manchu Generals.

W. H. Reich, who represents an American firm in Hongkong, and who has lived there or in the Far East for twenty years, believes that business in China will be upset by the present revolution for a long time to come.

"It is my opinion," said Mr. Reich at the Wolcott yesterday, "that until something like real peace is established things in a commercial way will be in a state of paralysis. I have lived among the Cantonese for many years. They have been a timid race in their dealings with another nation, but when they start to fight one another they don't know when to stop.

"It was a student who had come back from the United States who started the trouble. He stationed himself on the roof of a house on one of the narrow streets of Canton before a Manchu General passed to witness a balloon ascension. He let fall a bomb, and it got not only the General, but a dozen of his retinue. Three months afterward a new Manchu General was appointed, and it was three months after that before he arrived in Hongkong on the way to his post. He went up the Pearl River on a gunboat, landed at Canton, and got into a sedan chair, and though as a precaution all his suite wore the same sort of clothes he did the bomb thrower picked him out on his way to the palace. These two happenings seemed to work a change in the whole character of the Cantonese. They were always fanatical, but these killings seemed to give them courage.

"I was in Hongkong when news came of the fall of Peking. Within less than five minutes after the telegram arrived the streets swarmed with Chinamen, who were buying packages of firecrackers, and for hours they ran through the streets yelling like mad and shooting off the crackers in their hands. They rode in the street cars without paying fares, and the English authorities had to call out the militia to quiet them.

"When things once quiet down there will be a wonderful development in China. The Chinese are great for taking up Western ways. Not long ago my office man, who has been with me twelve years, made his appearance in the office one morning with a smile on his face.

"'Mr. Reich,' he said, 'I bought myself yesterday one of your American spring beds. I tried it last night, and it's fine. I didn't know what I was missing.'

"Early in the last revolution I was held up in Canton. As our train approached that city it stopped at every little station, and at each place a squad of half a dozen men stood with fixed bayonets. At Canton we heard the crack of rifles, and there was a great commotion. When we alighted at the station, I asked the station master about getting a rickisha to take me to the European settlement.

"'You can't take a rickisha anywhere,' he informed me. 'Five thousand dscharged troops have refused to give up their arms, and are now fighting. There are 300 dead in the streeets.'

"'I guess I had better take a train straight back to Hongkong,' I suggested.

"'There is no certainty of your getting there,' he returned. 'The rails may have been torn up.'

"Finally, upon his suggestion, I managed to get a sampan, which was driven by a motor. I had Wing, my office man, with me, and we started out. We could hear fighting on the shore, and the bullets came shrieking over the water.

"'You'd better bend down,' cautioned Wing. 'Those bullets have no eyes, and they can't tell that you are not a Chinaman.'

"We got to the foreign concession safely, passing boatloads of troops going up the river. I heard later that the Federal troops had taken between 3,000 and 4,000 of the rebels in the fighting, and then, because it was too much trouble and expense to feed them, they tied their hands and feet, took them out in boats, and dumped them overboard.

Estimate of Number of Dangerous Agitators, as Distinct from "Criminal Lunatics" Who Set Fires.

By Marconi Transatlantic Wireless Telegraph to The New York Times.

LONDON, Aug. 12.—What effect the "Cat-and-Mouse" act has had in coping with the militant suffragettes' campaign still remains a matter of dispute. The militants, as readers of THE NEW YORK TIMES are aware, assert that their organization is stronger than ever, and that its funds are greater.

It is true enough that militancy brings in contributions, but an impartial investigation seems to show that the organization for the perpetration of outrages has been seriously checked by the operation of the act. The militants are apparently claiming the commission of more outrages than they actually have credit (or discredit) for. The suffragettes' organ includes the destruction of the late Sir George Newnes's country house in the record of the militants' doings, whereas the fact is that the burning of the mansion was entirely due to accident.

The Government in any case expresses perfect satisfaction with the results achieved by the "Cat-and-Mouse" act, and proclaims that the militants' crusade is no longer an organized conspiracy. The official attitude is described as follows:

"Suffrage lawbreakers are divided into two classes, women who commit arson and are really criminal lunatics, and, secondly, women identified as leaders of the movement, whose chief crime is violent speech.

"The former will be rearrested again and again, however quiet they may be while out on license, because it is felt that the community needs protection against them. They may in some cases be treated more leniently and not rearrested after a certain period, provided they do not actually break the law or incite others to break it.

"The authorities believe that the number of militant leaders, as distinguished from fire raisers, is about ten, that the Women's Social and Political Union is short of funds, that the few militants remaining, angered at the reception given to the non-militants on the success of their recent pilgrimage, are making a final display of fireworks before the close of Parliament, and, finally, that the 'Cat-and-Mouse' act is a success, because the militants have ceased to agitate for the vote, and are agitating soberly for the repeal of this act."

MUSIC OF POWERS HARMONY, SAYS GREY

But Their Patience Is Not Inexhaustible, and One of Them May Coerce Turkey.

SELF-DENIAL IN THE AEGEAN

By Marconi Transatlantic Wireless Telegraph to The New York Times.

LONDON, Wednesday, Aug. 13.—Sir Edward Grey, the Foreign Secretary, spoke reassuringly in regard to the European situation in the House of Commons yesterday.

The concert of Europe, he said, was a reality, and, though the powers were not unanimous in their views, they were not ranged in different camps and discord was unlikely.

In this connection, it may be added, late news last night points to the likelihood that Austria and Russia will abandon their demand for a revision of the Bucharest Peace Treaty. This is regarded as a diplomatic triumph for Emperor William.

Sir Edward Grey deprecated interference with the Bucharest treaty. Regarding Turkey and the possession of Adrianople, he declared that no coercion would be employed at present by the great powers, but the Ottoman Government would be very ill-advised not to listen to the voice of Europe and retire from there.

Undoubtedly the weapon which Sir Edward had in mind to compel respect for the Treaty of London was financial pressure.

Sir Edward Grey was not optimistic enough to overlook the possibilities of future trouble. For the present, however, the conflagration seems to have burned itself out, and the Ambassadors who have been meeting in London can take a much-needed holiday with easy minds.

VIENNA, Aug. 12.—It is said that, finding no support from the other Powers, both Russia and Austria have abandoned their intention to demand a revision of the Bucharest Treaty.

It is rumored that this change of policy, which is attributed to the German Emperor's influence and to the refusal of France to support Russia, will involve the fall of Count Berchtold, the Austro-Hungarian Foreign Minister.

LONDON, Wednesday, Aug. 13.—While the Concert of Europe is in splendid tune, according to Sir Edward Grey, he hinted in the House of Commons yesterday that it was possible that one of the great powers might intervene in Turkey if it were provoked. The Foreign Secretary said:

"We have reached a stage at which the Concert of Europe is so firmly established that the adjournment of the Ambassadorial Conference can raise no doubt regarding the health and well-being of the Concert. We have reached an agreement on the subjects of Albania and the islands in the Aegean Sea."

An international commission of control, Sir Edward explained, would set up an autonomous State of Albania under a prince to be selected by the European powers, while, regarding the Aegean Islands, the powers, including Italy, had adopted the self-denying ordinance that none of the islands should be retained by them. Their ultimate destiny, he said, was to be settled by the Concert of Europe when Turkey carried out her treaty with Italy, and the islands now in the hands of Italy were all available for distribution.

Dealing with the situation in Macedonia and Thrace, Sir Edward averred that every State connected with the Balkan war had during the last few weeks disregarded treaties and agreements and tried to take advantage of the situation. The only really satisfactory features, he said, were the cessation of hostilities and the fact that demobilization had commenced.

With regard to Thrace and the Fortress of Adrianople, Sir Edward bluntly stated that if Turkey did not accept the advice of the powers her action would, sooner or later, either by financial distress or armed intervention, bring her to disaster, but he took some of the sting out of this declaration by saying that the powers would require some time to examine the situation before deciding on final steps. The Secretary concluded:

"I do think that both Turkey and the Balkan allies must not count on the belief that the abstinence of the powers from forcible intervention during the last few months means that under all circumstances any one of the great powers will not intervene if sufficient provocation be given."

PARIS, Aug. 12.—Published reports of serious differences of opinion between France and Russia in regard to the clause of the Balkan treaty giving the port of Kavala to Greece led the French Foreign Office to-day to publish a note on the subject.

It says that while it is true that France believed the port should be given to the Greeks and Russia thought it should be handed over to the Bulgarians, neither Government attached such importance to its own view as to ask the other to sacrifice its opinion.

The relations between the two allied Governments, says the note, were never before so close as they are now.

SHOWS HIGHER LIVING COST

British Report Says Wages Have Not Risen Proportionately.

By Marconi Transatlantic Wireless Telegraph to The New York Times.

LONDON, Aug. 12.—A Board of Trade report dealing with the working classes, issued to-day, shows a general rise in the cost of living without a corresponding increase in wages.

The report covers the seven years ended with 1912.

A comparison of the statistics of 1905 and 1912 shows that generally rents have changed little. A prefatory note computes the average increase in workmen's rent, food, fuel, and clothing, taken together, at about 10 per cent.

The detailed report concludes that the rise in the general level of prices and the cost of living in recent years is recognized to be a phenomenon the effects of which are being experienced in all parts of the world.

MAD MULLAH ON WARPATH.

Disaster to British Troops in Somaliland Caused by His Followers.

ADEN, Aug. 12.—Succor was brought on Sunday to the small remnant of the camel corps of British native troops, which had lost many officers and men killed or wounded in a battle in British Somaliland with followers of the "Mad Mullah."

The British Commissioner and Commander in Chief, Horace A. Byatt, on hearing the report sent a flying column to the aid of the camel corps.

The reinforcements found all that was left of the camel corps entrenched eighteen miles to the southwest of the town of Burao, in the middle of the Protectorate. The camelmen had been ambushed by over 2,000 dervishes, who had killed one white British officer and wounded another, and killed or wounded 50 or 60 of the native troops. Heavy losses had been inflicted on the dervishes.

The Commissioner has advised the Colonial office in London that many thousands of tribesmen are on the warpath, and that Burao is likely to be attacked.

RIOTING IN ROME; ITALIAN STRIKE OFF

SAVAGE SCENES AT GENOA

Attempt to Raid Government Dock Yards—Conflicts Between Strikers and Police at Pisa.

MILAN, Aug. 12.—At a meeting of strikers to-day a resolution calling for the cessation of the general strike to-morrow was passed. Ten thousand workmen attended the meeting.

The decision to cease the movement was reached as a result of promises made by the employers that they would resume the discussions with the strikers, which were broken off some time ago, and endeavor to reach an agreement regarding the demands of the men. Only the street car and railroad employes will continue on strike.

Some persons are of the opinion that to-day's action means an end of the general strike, arguing that the funds of the workmen are exhausted and that they will be forced to return to work. Others, however, express the belief that the employers will be unable to grant all the concessions demanded by the men and that therefore the strike will be resumed shortly on a larger and fiercer scale.

The leaders of the strike agitation had believed that all the workingmen of Italy would rise, but reports from the provinces indicate that the majority of the workers have not struck, especially in Turin, Venice, Naples, and Bologna.

Even the leading Socialist newspaper, Avanti, admits that the national agitation has been only sporadic, owing to the strong repressive action of the police, who have arrested or put to flight every one bearing the appearance of a striker.

The Liberal organ Secolo protests against the arbitrary measure of declaring martial law in this city, and declares it legally indefensible.

ROME, Aug. 12.—There were serious disorders here this afternoon when strikers smashed lampposts, broke shop windows, and attacked street cars in outlying districts. Several persons were hurt in the fighting and 500 were arrested.

Most of the workmen in the Italian capital have struck, but only a few thousand of them gathered at a meeting to-day in the Coliseum. Revolutionary speeches were delivered by the leaders and sympathy was expressed with the strikers of Milan. The railway men, who have refused to join the movement, were denounced.

The troops were so disposed throughout the city as to prevent the strikers from marching from the Coliseum to the middle of Rome.

Among those arrested to-day was a Neapolitan anarchist named Cacozza, who was disguised as a priest and was about to enter the Chamber of Deputies to make a demonstration against Premier Giolitti.

No serious trouble occurred in any of the other towns affected by the strike, except Pisa and Genoa. In the latter city the disturbances necessitated the landing of sailors to maintain order.

GENOA, Aug. 12.—Savage scenes were enacted here to-day in the course of an attack on the headquarters of the non-strikers by the strikers, who compose the majority of the laborers in this city. The strikers also attacked taxicab chauffeurs and street car employes who had continued at work.

An attempt was made to raid the Government dockyards, where several Italian war vessels are under construction.

PISA, Aug. 12.—This is the only city in Italy where the strike has become almost general.

Several conflicts occurred to-day between strikers and police, and both sides suffered many casualties. Many men were arrested.

Prof. Guglielmo Romiti, the famous anatomist of the University of Pisa, when he returned to-day from the International Medical Congress in London, was unable to find porters to carry his baggage, so he placed it on a handcart, which he himself pushed through the streets to his hotel.

FIERCE LONDONDERRY RIOT.

Mayor of the City Badly Hurt by a Stone—A Policeman Shot.

LONDONDERRY, Aug. 12.—Rioting, participated in by Nationalists and Orangemen, occurred here to-day during a political celebration.

The Mayor of the city was badly hurt by a stone.

In the fighting one policeman was shot and severaly wounded and many persons were injured.

King Visiting Lord Ripon.

By Marconi Transatlantic Wireless Telegraph to The New York Times.

LONDON, Aug. 12.—King George has left London for a week's visit to the Marquis of Ripon at Studley Royal, Lord Ripon's famous mansion in Yorkshire, where the grouse shooting is now in full swing. Other guests are Lord and Lady Derby, Lord Herbert Vane-Tempest, Robert Duff and Lady Juliet Duff, the Marquis de Soveral, and the Hon. John Ward and Mrs. Ward, the latter the daughter of the late Ambassador Whitelaw Reid.

CALLS DR. SUN A COWARD.

Governor of Kiang-Si Still Trying to Oust Yuan Shih-Kai.

PEKING, Aug. 12.—While the restoration of order by the Government troops is reported from most of the centres of the recent rebellion, the Governor of the Province of Kiang-Si is striving to organize fresh opposition to the Government of Yuan Shih-kai. He declines scornfully to follow the example of Huang-Sing and Dr. Sun Yat-sen, now in Japan, who are described by the Governor as "pitiful cowards."

Only a small number of the members of Parliament have departed from Peking. The remainder are proceeding with the regular business in a satisfactory manner, while a special committee is engaged in drafting a constitution, which, it is understood, will be presented to Parliament when the regulations referring to the Presidential authority and other important matters have been completed, thereby enabling the two houses of the Assembly to elect a President. Afterward the other details are to be settled.

There appears to be no longer any doubt as to Yuan Shih-kai's election, his only remaining opponent being virtually powerless.

Enter Rockefeller Estate House.

TARRYTOWN, N. Y., Aug. 12.—The home of Vorhees Conover on John D. Rockefeller's estate, and within a few hundred feet of Mr. Rockefeller's mansion was entered by burglars last night, but they were frightened off before they stole anything. They were heard at work by Mr. Conover's daughter and she screamed. The thieves escaped through the bathroom window.

THREE ROYAL ENGAGEMENTS

To Cement Balkan Alliance—Two of Czar's Daughters to Wed.

LONDON, Wednesday, Aug. 13.—A dispatch to The Daily Mail from Bucharest asserts that the future alliance in the Balkan States will be cemented by the following marriages:

Prince Charles, son of Crown Prince Ferdinand of Rumania, to the Grand Duchess Tatiana, second daughter of Emperor Nicholas of Russia.

SEVEN SHOT IN RIOT.

Flag Waved Before I. W. W. Orator in Salt Lake Starts Fight.

SALT LAKE CITY, Utah, Aug. 12.—Four bystanders were shot and seriously wounded and three others less seriously hurt in a riot on East Second South Street to-night when a special policeman waved an American flag in the face of an I. W. W. orator.

Thousands of persons gathered at the scene of the shooting and it was necessary to call out the Fire Department to disperse the crowd. None of the injured will die.

The Frenzied Period

Of Automobile Construction Is Past

Why Not Look Back and Say

"Let Me Think!"

EDITORS of encyclopedias: Please insert the following facts under "Automobiles."

A million families wanted motor vehicles before the inventors and factories were ready.

Result—for eight years automobile factories were brilliant centers of frenzy. They were filled with geniuses, frenzied with unsolved mechanical problems. Pioneer inventors in each factory had to solve, every year, 236 problems. That is the number of mechanical features in an automobile.

THE SANE GENIUSES

Outside of these factories was another group of geniuses—sane. They were specialists. Each one had a single purpose—to solve the problem of a particular automobile part. His part, at most, had only ten or a dozen features. He concentrated; he solved his problem.

One by one the outside geniuses were victorious in the battle against geniuses inside the frenzied factories. The victory was granted to a specialist only when some $4500 or $5000 car builder threw up the sponge and used the part made by the specialist. This specialist won with a motor; that with a radiator; another with a valve; an axle; a carburetor; electric system; a wheel; a universal joint; a tire rim, etc.

At last the whole group of outside geniuses won on every mechanical part of an automobile; and—

In 1913 the contest was over.

In that year the Cole Car was built entirely of the great "specialist" parts, which had previously been adopted by one or another of the high-priced cars—$4000 and $5000 cars—America is proudest of.

Furthermore, the finish, upholstery and body lines make owners of the New Cole the proudest car owners in America. You'll agree if you get a demonstration in the New Cole "four" or the New Cole "six." Why not come in to-day?

In the great Northway Motor, engineers have used the same Standardized Principle which is used in the harmonizing of all the other mechanical parts of the Cole Car. They adopted the best features of all power plants—as follows: Unit type (no universal joint between the clutch and transmission). Three point suspension. Enclosed valves. Tungsten valves, (imported). Coventry chains on timing gears (imported). Dual syphon-centrifugal circulation.

TARIFF BILL NEAR VOTE IN THE SENATE

VAIN EFFORT TO TAX CATTLE

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 12.—Though consideration of the tariff in the Senate has been reduced practically to a standstill, talk to-day of finally passing the bill at no distant date was more optimistic than usual. Senator Kenyon, a radical Republican from Iowa, said this afternoon that he believed an agreement would be reached this week by unanimous consent to vote on the bill and all amendments somewhere near Sept. 1. An endeavor will be made to fix Aug. 25 for the vote, and if that fails Sept. 5 will be proposed.

While it does not seem likely that the Senate will consent at this time to make an irrevocable agreement as to a day for voting, the opinion prevails that the Tariff bill will be disposed of somewhere near the dates mentioned by Mr. Kenyon. Republicans, though, gradually becoming convinced that dilatory tactics cannot stave off currency legislation, are still reluctant to give up hope, and this feeling, combined with the numbr of contested items that have been passed over, will probably delay an agreement for a week or two.

The possibility of an early vote on the tariff will probably be discussed by the Democrats in caucus on Thursday, when they will meet ostensibly to ratify the work of the Steering Committee today in appointing Senator Chamberlain of Oregon to the Chairmanship of the Committee on Military Affairs in succession to Senator Johnston. The leaders are considering several concessions to the radical Republicans in exchange for their support of the bill as a whole, and the judgment of the caucus may be asked as to the items to be amended.

To-day, with the vacancy caused by the death of Senator Johnston of Alabama still unfilled, the Democratic leaders were glad to take the temporary illness of Senator Ransdell of Louisiana as an excuse for passing over the sugar schedule. Mr. Ransdell and his colleague, Mr. Thornton, have announced their intention to vote against free sugar, and the leaders are hoping that some way will be found to select Mr. Johnston's successor in time for him to add his vote to the slender majority on the sugar schedule.

When the tobacco schedule came up, Senator Hitchcock of Nebraska, in announcing that he intended to press his amendment placing a graduated income tax on tobacco production, charged that the trust retained its monopoly despite the Supreme Court's decree. Senator Hitchcock, who bolted the Democratic Party caucus on the tariff, said he intended also to discuss the propriety of that caucus restraining its members from supporting his amendmnt.

The Senator asserted that the four companies which formed the Tobacco Trust had grown richer since the Supreme Court's decree and that the tobacco monopoly was greater and stronger than ever. The late Anthony N. Brady, who, he said, was probably richer than the late J. P. Morgan, was one of the defendants in the Tobacco trust suit, and since the decree "his fortune had swollen more than $10,000,000 through the enhancement of his tobacco holdings alone."

The tobacco schedule was approved without amendment, the metal schedule was completed with the exception of some paragraphs which the Finance Committee had passed for further consideration, and the debate was begun on the agricultural schedule.

Senator Gronna of North Dakota proposed in lieu of free cattle a rate of $1.50 a head on cattle less than a year old; $3 a head on cattle valued at not more than $14, and 20 per cent. ad valorem on cattle valued at more than $14.

Senator Lane of Oregon said the principal reason for free listing cattle was that there were not sufficient cattle in this country to supply the domestic demand. The committee amendment free-listing cattle was sustained, 38 to 31, Senator Thornton of Louisiana voting with the Republicans against the amendment. This was the first time a Democrat had voted against the party amendments. All the Progressive Republicans voted against free cattle.

MELVILLE'S HEIRS LOSE.

Court Gives Residue of the Admiral's Estate to Executors.

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 12.—The residue of the estate of Rear Admiral George W. Melville, amounting to more than $167,837, was awarded to his executors in opposition to the claims of his two daughters in an opinion handed down to-day in the Orphans' Court. Admiral Melville died less than thirty days after making a codicil revoking a clause in the will in which the executors were named as residuary legatees.

The codicil bequeathing the residue of his estate to charity was inoperative under the laws of this State, but the daughters of the testator, Mrs. Meta Melville Stockwell and Mrs. Maud Melville Neel, contended ahat it shows an intention to revoke the residuary gift to the executors, and that the residue should go to the heirs at law.

DIGGS'S THREATS MADE HER ELOPE

Marsha Warrington Testifies That Fear of Scandal Impelled Her.

SAYS HE PROMISED TO WED

Special to The New York Times.

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 12.—The day in the Diggs white slave trial was made noteworthy by the appearance of Marsha Warrington on the stand. A great crowd jammed the courtroom to hear her testimony, but the forenoon was consumed by minor witnesses. It was only at the opening of the afternoon session that Marsha Warrington appeared. She was neatly dressed in a black and white checked tailored suit, with a simple but becoming hat. She does not look older than her 20 years, and she gave her testimony in a straightforward way that evidently impressed the jury. Diggs listened keenly to every word, and occasionally shifted his eyes to the jury, as if noting the effect of her testimony. Diggs's father and Drew Caminetti's brother were with the two accused men.

The girl showed no strong emotion in telling her story, but she emphasized repeatedly the fact that she would never have left her home and risked the publicity of elopement had not Diggs threatened her with exposure in the Sacramento newspapers and arrest at the instance of Mrs. Diggs. She made it clear that these threats of arrest influenced her more than anything else, unless it was the solemn promises of Diggs that he would marry her just as soon as he could get a divorce from his wife.

In beginning her testimony the girl said that she was 20 years old and lived with her father and stepmother. Her mother had died when she was 5 years old.

"I have known Maury I. Diggs since last September, and we were very close friends," she continued. "Two weeks before we left for Reno, while Drew Caminetti, Miss Norris, and I were riding with Diggs in his machine, he told me that there was a scandal about to be published about the four of us, and that we would have to leave town. I was surprised, but he said we would have to go. Miss Norris was told, and Caminetti joined Diggs in urging that we leave immediately. They told us that we would be arrested and subjected to the third degree."

"Did you know that Diggs and Caminetti were married at that time?"

"Yes, and Miss Norris knew it, too. Diggs told me his relations with his wife were unpleasant; that he was unhappy, and wanted to leave town. He said he had an affection for me—cared for me more than he did for his wife. I believed him. He manifested affection for me; he kissed me, discussed marriage with me, and said he would get a divorce and marry me. Caminetti told Lola the same thing."

"Did you have an affection for him?"

"Yes, I had a strong affection for him. We discussed leaving town together several times, when the four of us were on automobile trips and in Diggs's office. The men told us Diggs's father and Caminetti's father were going to prosecute us two, and that Diggs senior was giving an attorney named Harris large sums of money to keep the story out of the papers. They said there would be warrants for us and that we would be given the third degree.

"On the night of March 9 we met in a café. Caminetti went out to get some money. We went to the railroad station, and while there a train for Reno was pulling out. I told Diggs I would stay in Sacramento. He said he cared too much for me, and I would have to go.

"Caminetti didn't come back with the money, and we missed that train. Later we met Caminetti at the café, and at midnight went to the station again. When we got there Diggs told us to wait where we were, and he went over and bought four tickets.

"We got into a Pullman, and Diggs engaged a drawing room. He paid the Pullman conductor. I saw him give the railroad conductor the tickets for our trip to Reno.

"We arrived at Reno the next day—the 10th—at about noon and went to a café for something to eat."

At this point the court took an adjournment until to-morrow.

In the morning J. D. Hillhouse, Chief of Police at Reno, testified to the arrest of Diggs, Caminetti, and the two girls at the Cheney Street bungalow on the morning of March 14.

The Chief and his posse tried the front door and got no answer. After he had rung the back door bell for some time, Diggs answered it, partly dressed.

"You're Mr. Diggs, aren't you?" the Chief asked.

"No; I'm Mr. Enright," was the answer.

"I think you're Diggs, and you're wanted in Sacramento for elopement."

"All right; there's no use in my attempting to deny it. I'm Diggs."

From the bungalow the party was taken to the Chief's office, and from there to the jail. As the men were led away to their cells, witnesses said, Diggs said to Martha Warrington:

"It's up to you, girls, whether we go to the pen or not."

"We'll stay with you," the girl answered.

PITTSBURGH, Aug. 12.—"You're a fine looking lot to be educating American workmen," declared Magistrate W. D. Mansfield in a McKeesport Police Court this morning, when he sentenced five men and one woman, Industrial Workers of the World organizers, to the Workhouse, because they refused to pay fines imposed upon them after being arrested for addressing street crowds without a permit from the police. The woman said she had broken no law, but was only "educating American workmen."

Ready Instantly

Place a level teaspoonful of Instant Postum in an ordinary cup, pour on hot water, stir until dissolved, add sugar and cream to taste—and you have instantly

a most delicious beverage

This makes Instant Postum right for most people. Some like it stronger and use a heaping teaspoonful and plenty of cream. Experiment until you get it right for your taste and have it always made that way.

INSTANT POSTUM

is regular Postum reduced to powder form and soluble in hot water.

Postum comes in two forms.

Regular Postum must be boiled.

Instant Postum requires no boiling, but is made in the cup—instantly.

Postum is a pure food-drink made from whole wheat and a small per cent. of New Orleans molasses. It is entirely free from the coffee drug, caffeine, and is used by hundreds of thousands who appreciate the comfort and advantage of being well.

If coffee don't agree, try Instant Postum.

FLETCHER'S HOMER DISTRACTS DODGERS

Ties Score in Sixth and Giants Win Out in Eleventh by 6 to 5 Score.

The family reunion of the Giants and the Dodgers at Ebbets Field in Flatbush yesterday resolved itself into a pugnacious baseball quarrel which transpired far into the eleventh inning before it dawned upon the Brooklyns that they were beaten by a score of 6 to 5.

The Giants were trailing along a bad second until the sixth inning, when a spontaneous home run slap was seen to emit from Art Fletcher's bat, and the score was tied at 4 to 4. The second set of pitchers, Fromme and Ragon, then traveled along to the eleventh inning, without slipping, and a combination of loose playing, Ragon's loose pitching and two sacrifice rockets giving New York the win.

More runs were scored on sacrifice flies than by any other means, each team sending three counts over the plate by these sacrificing tactics. For some reason or other yesterday was no holiday in Brooklyn, but nevertheless some 7,000 people congregated and got all worked up over what at first appeared to be a Dodger jollification, but which later proved to be a whirlwind Giant victory.

Many of the fans deserted any happiness they might enjoy this side of the river to get a peek at the Giants just back from the West. They wanted to see if there were any signs of that reported internal family strife within the Giant circle. Manager McGraw carried no noticeable scars, and none of the players used crutches, so it seems as if there wasn't much to the story. Certainly all evidence has been carefully removed.

Al Demaree, the Mobile steamer, wasn't quite up to the day's task, and he allowed seven hits in the five innings he was in the box. The Dodgers got four of their runs off Demaree. After he was asked to leave, Fromme went into the game and pitched good ball, with his old Cincinnati backstop, Larry McLean, doing the catching. Fromme went subtracted from the afternoon's amusement because he couldn't run bases fast enough, and Mathewson pitched the eleventh inning and gave everybody heart failure when Zack Wheat got a three-bagger and later a run after the Giants had won the game in the first half of this verse.

Yesterday was Matty's birthday. He was 33 years old, or, rather, young, as the other teams look at it. He's been pitching for the Giants twelve years and has acquired quite a little reputation through his pitching. At times some people have gone so far as to say that the Giants were composed of Mathewson and several other players. Although Matty did look a bit uncertain in the final inning, he pulled the team through safely, as he usually does.

There's been a lot of talk about trading several of the Giants, but woe to the man who first mentions that Matty is about to be traded for anybody.

Demaree began to wabble in the first inning. With one out, Cutshaw singled to centre, and so did Stengel. Wheat was safe on Merkle's error and Cutshaw scored, Stengel traveling to third. Daubert's sacrifice fly counted Stengel.

The Giants got one of these back in the same round. After Burns fanned, Shafer singled and went to third on Fletcher's single to right, scoring on Doyle's sacrifice fly. In the second and third innings the Giants packed the bases with runners, mostly because Walker was wild and insisted on issuing passes. But he collected his wits before it was too late, and left the runners stranded.

In the third inning Moran opened on Demaree with a steaming triple to the centre field wall and scored on Cutshaw's sacrifice fly. Daubert opened the fourth with a single to short. He stole second and went to third when McLean threw wild to catch him. Snodgrass received the ball in centre field and made another poor throw to third, Daubert romping home. In the same inning, with two gone, Bill Fisher got a triple which went through Burns, but the runner was marooned at third.

Until the sixth, the Giants looked very much like a defeated team. Herzog opened the inning, batting for Demaree. He walked and stole second. Burns also walked, and Herzog went to third when Fisher dropped the fourth ball. Burns and Herzog then tried a double steal. Burns drew the throw and Daubert and Fisher tried to run him down. Fisher hit Burns in the back and the runner got back to first, Herzog taking advantage of the proceeding by scoring.

Shafer then grounded out to Daubert and Fletcher smashed a terrific liner high over Stengel's head for a home run, Burns scoring ahead of him. With the score tied, Walker was cast aside and Pat Ragon began to pitch. Doyle and Merkle were easy outs.

Brilliant fielding by Brooklyn saved Ragon a lot of trouble in the next few innings, one jumping one-handed catch by Red Smith of McLean's liner in the tenth being a dazzling fielding gem.

Fromme, first man up in the eleventh, was safe on Bob Fisher's error. Burns dropped a Texas Leaguer back of second and Shafer walked, filling the bases. Grant had been put in to run for Fromme, and when Fletcher hit a sacrifice fly to Wheat, Grant scored. Doyle walked, filling the bases again. Merkle's sacrifice fly to Wheat scored Burns.

With Matty pitching in the last half of the eleventh inning, Brooklyn's hopes ran high when Wheat hit a triple to right. Daubert fouled to Shafer and Daubert scored on Smith's sacrifice fly. Fisher was an easy third out, Fletcher to Merkle. The score:

Boston Beats Cubs Twice.

BOSTON, Aug. 12.—Heavy hitting in both ends of a double-header with Chicago gave Boston two victories to-day, 7 to 3 and 9 to 3. After the visitors had taken a three run lead in the first game, batting rallies by the locals in the fifth and sixth innings netted seven runs and clinched the game. Boston batsmen continued the slugging in the second game and drove Stack from the box after four innings, in which nine hits were made off his delivery. Manager Evers and Catcher Archer of Chicago were both put off the field in the first game for disputing with the umpires. The scores:

Pirates Beat Reds at Start.

PITTSBURGH, Aug. 12.—Pittsburgh won the last game of the series from Cincinnati this afternoon, 5 to 2, by scoring four runs off Miner Brown in the first inning. The veteran was touched up for clean singles in succession by Carey, Viox, Wagner, Miller and Wilson. These netted the four runs. Packard went in the box with only one out and stopped the scoring, allowing Pittsburgh only one more run in the rest of the game. Mike Mitchell again starred with the bat, having two singles and a double, while Wilson had the same. McQuillan was displaced by Cooper in the fourth and the young left-hander struck out six men and held the visitors runless. Cincinnati got two runs off McQuillan in the first inning on Bescher's walk and singles by Groh, Marsans and Hoblitzell and a sacrifice fly by Dodge. The Reds again filled the bases in this inning, but two force-outs killed their chances. The score:

PITCHER AND UMPIRE CLASH ON FIELD

Roy Mitchell Threatens Silk O'Loughlin, but Is Restrained by Other Players.

Three Yankee pitchers tried in vain to get the ball by the St. Louis bats at the Polo Grounds yesterday, and the Browns walked away with the final game of the series against the Chance men, 7 to 2. It was the Yanks' final effort at the home field until Aug. 28 after a swing around the Western end of the circuit, starting to-morrow with a game at Chicago.

The Browns straightened out about everything that the New York pitchers sent up to the plate. Heinie Schulz, after a fairly good start, was shelled off the mound in the fourth inning, and Ray Fisher was the victim of a similar reception in the sixth. Long George McConnell was unable to check the bombardment until the Browns had nicked him for a pair of hits and as many runs in the sixth inning, putting the game far beyond the Yankees' reach. Then the big fellow settled down and the closing incidents showed a decided falling off in the St. Louis stick work.

A near-session in fisticuffs between Pitcher Roy Mitchell of the Browns and Umpire Silk O'Loughlin was about the only enlivening feature of the battle. Trouble began to brew in the opening inning, when Silk ruled a ball fair after it had hit Cook's foot while he was in the batter's box. More harsh talk followed while Peckinpaugh was at the bat in the same inning, and as Mitchell went to the St. Louis bench he slipped more conversation to Silk. Some of his talk was unprintable and could be heard in the lower section of the stands, but it escaped O'Loughlin, and Mitchell was allowed to remain.

While Maisel was batting in the fifth inning Mitchell renewed his argument that Silk was "missing 'em" and as soon as the last out was made the pair were at it again. Manager Stovall alleges that O'Loughlin said: "I am missing them purposely to get a chance to chase you, you quitter and counterfeit."

Mitchell was ordered out of the game for his remarks, and he made a quick trip from the bench to the plate, where O'Loughlin stood. There was no doubting that he was ready to start something, and as he moved toward the umpire Manager Stovall jumped between the pair. O'Loughlin backed around in a circle, and Mitchell followed, while Stovall kept his place as peacemaker. Mitchell grabbed O'Loughlin's mask and tried to wrench it from the umpire's hand, but Silk's grip was too tight. In the meantime Frank Chance was on the scene trying to quell the threatened disturbance, and other players of both teams joined the gathering at the plate. Mitchell was finally quieted, but before he departed he told O'Loughlin what a pleasure it would be if he had him for about two minutes on a desert island.

Before the inning had been completed Manager Stovall filed a complaint by telegraph to President Ban Johnson, notifying the "big boss" of O'Loughlin's conversation. Stovall called upon Ed Sweeney to substantiate his charge, and casually reminded Big Ed that he was a Vice President of the Players' Fraternity, of which Mitchell is also a member. The Vice President said he had a tin ear on that side and didn't hear a thing, so he couldn't help his brother in distress. More work for Davy Fultz.

Shotton's bunt and Stovall's double gave the Browns a run in the first inning. Stovall's second double, singles by Pratt and Austin, and an infield out added two runs in the fourth, and ended Schulz's labors. A pass to Gus Williams, and successive singles by Austin, Balenti, and Johnston ended Fisher's work in the sixth, and sent two more runs across. Alexander and Compton opened on McConnell for singles that chased two more Brownie runs home.

The Yanks got a run in the first inning on Cook's single, Maisel's sacrifice, and a single by Cree. Singles by Cree and Hartzell, a pass to Knight, and Williams's sacrifice fly sent in another run in the eighth. The score:

Pitcher Scott Wins with Bat.

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 12.—Scott not only pitched fine ball against Philadelphia to-day but his single in the seventh inning, with the bases filled, scored two runners and enabled the visitors to win the game, 4 to 2. It was Scott's second victory in the series of four games here, Chicago winning three times to once for the home team. Bodie was very prominent in the visitors' attack. He made a home run, giving him three four-baggers for the series; scored another run after starting the seventh inning rally with a single, and sent in Berger in the eighth inning with a sacrifice fly. Scott was at his best with men on the bases. Brown, who started the game for Philadelphia, was taken out in the third inning to permit Schang to bat for him. Bender pitched the last six innings, during which only three hits were made off him, but they were mixed with battery and fielding errors and produced runs. Score:

McCOY DEFEATS GRUPP.

Brooklyn Middleweight Earns Victory Over St. Louis Boxer.

Al McCoy, the Brooklyn middleweight, outfought Billy Grupp of St. Louis in the ten-round star bout of last night's show at the Atlantic Garden A. C. In the first four rounds the Westerner clearly outboxed the Brooklynite, but from the fifth round to the finish, McCoy's steady attack to the stomach weakened Grupp, and he was hanging on often during the closing rounds of the bout. Grupp was very tired at the final bell, while McCoy was going better than at any other time. There were no knockdowns, but McCoy staggered Grupp in the sixth round with hard right swings to the head. Grupp found considerable difficulty breaking through McCoy's guard, the latter being a left-handed boxer. In the infighting, McCoy led all the way, and forced Grupp to clinch to save himself from punishment. The ringside weights were 154 pounds for McCoy, and 155 pounds for Grupp.

The ten-round semi-final, which bristled with action all the way, resulted in a victory for Jack Sheppard over Young Fulton. The former weighed 128 pounds and Fulton was three pounds heavier. Sheppard was the aggressor all the way and his punches carried much more force than those handed out by Fulton. Fulton made a rally in the eighth and ninth rounds and had Sheppard backing around the ring under an onslaught of punches, but his work in these two rounds was not sufficient to offset Sheppard's work in the early chapters. Sheppard earned seven of the ten rounds.

PROS AND AMATEURS IN GOLF

Four-Ball Preliminary Competition at Salisbury Links.

Preparatory to the annual open championship tournament of the Metropolitan Golf Association, which begins to-day over the Salisbury links, near Garden City, the professional entrants, each having an amateur as a partner, competed in a four-ball competition there yesterday. William L. Hicks, the Nassau Country Club champion, and James Maiden, the professional of the same organization, became the winners when they returned a best ball of 35—33—68, just two strokes better than the combined efforts of Maurice E. Risely of Atlantic City and John J. McDermott, the national open champion. The scores:

W. L. Hicks and James Maiden, 68; Maurice E. Risely and John J. McDermott, 70; G. W. Woolston and Gilbert Nicholls, 71; Fred Herreshoff and T. L. McNamara, 72; C. A. Brocker and Jack Hagen, 72; E. M. Engineer Golfers at Sleepy Hollow.

The August tournament of the Golf Club of the Engineers' Club of New York was run off yesterday over the links of the Sleepy Hollow Country Club near Scarborough. Foursomes were in order in the morning with an eighteen-hole medal play handicap in three classes in the afternoon. C. E. Parsons and G. O. Draper, with a combined card of 198, 42—156, and John McE. Ames and J. D. Bateman, with 226, 70—156, finished on even terms in the early event. The toss of a coin settled the deadlock in favor of Parsons and Draper, leaving the second prize for the other two. In Class A, of the handicap, C. E. Parsons was the winner, with 84, 8—76, while Eads Johnson with 86, 9—77, won the second award. H. A. Gillis, with 90, 16—74, and R. G. Hughes, with 93, 13—80, won first and second prizes respectively in Class B. J. McE. Ames, with 107, 36—71, finished first in the third division, while Charles M. Wales, with 107, 33—74, was second. Following the day on the links, the engineers had a dinner in the Sleepy Hollow clubhouse. John F. Wallace, a member of both organizations, presided.

Great South Bay Yachts Assemble.

BABYLON, L. I., Aug. 12.—Sixty-eight sailing yachts have gathered here for the second annual cruise of the Great South Bay Yacht Racing Association. The rendezvous was off the Babylon Yacht Club, and one of the first craft to arrive was the flagship Wah-Ne-Ta, the property of George E. Rice, President and Acting Senior Commodore of the association. The programme for to-morrow promises the best of fun. After a luncheon at the yacht club, the sailing divisions will hold the first championship regatta of the season. The boats are divided into ten classes, running from the P Division down to the Class C catboats. The P boats are the star craft on the bay, and among their owners are many well-known Corinthians.

WHITNEY SHOWS GREAT 2-YEAR-OLD

Special to The New York Times.

SARATOGA, N. Y., Aug. 12.—It is probable that the winner of the Futurity was shown at the course of the Saratoga Association when James Rowe sent Harry Payne Whitney's Pennant to the post in the opening race. It was the first time the youngster had been shown under silks, and he was pitted against a lot of seasoned ones that had raced at Belmont Park. In the lot was August Belmont's Stromboli, one of the best that raced at the Westchester Racing Association track in Nassau County. Pennant made them all look cheap, and to race the five and a half furlongs in 1:05 4-5, equaling the track record for the distance, he was never fully extended. The victory was a popular one with the crowd, and when he returned to the scales he could hardly have been given a greater ovation had his victory been in a big stake race instead of an overnight condition race.

Pennant is a son of Peter Pan and Royal Rose, and was bred by the late James R. Keene. He is a handsome big chestnut, and seldom has there been a beter striding colt. Trainer Rowe has given him a long, careful preparation.

There was another sensation of almost equal importance when Frederick Johnson's little galloway Reybourn very easily took the measure of A. L. Aste's three-year-old Ten Point. It was a mile handicap, and Mr. Vosburgh had required the three-year old to take up 122 pounds, six pounds over his scale weight, while Reybourn, who is a six-year old, was only required to shoulder 92 pounds, which was 31 pounds below the scale. It was a wide difference, and then when Loftus, who rode Ten Point, permitted the little fellow to steal away in the back stretch, though the pace was the slowest of any race of the day, it made the weight tell. In many of his races Reybourn has run out at the head of the stretch, but to-day he hugged the rail closely at the corner and in the straight run Ten Point could never get close enough to threaten him, while he won by four lengths.

It was one of the greatest upsets of the meeting, for on all that Ten Point has shown from his first appearance at Havre De Grasse made it look as though the race was made to order for him, despite his heavy impost.

The stake of the afternoon was overshadowed by both the race won by Pennant and the Rybourn performance, for it was a selling affair known as the Catskill. It went to Richard F. Carman's Ella Bryson, and after the finish Albert Simons ran her up from an entered price of $1,000 to $1,500, and she was retained by Mr. Carman when he made the usual $5 advance. The summaries:

FIRST RACE.—For two-year-olds, $400 added; five and one-half furlongs.—Won by H. P. Whitney's ch. c. Pennant, 102 pounds, (Wolfe,) 4 to 1, 8 to 5, and 4 to 5; August Belmont's Stromboli, 107, (T. McTaggart,) 7 to 10, 1 to 3, and out, second; R. F. Carman's Surprising, 110, (Davies,) 4 to 1, even, and 2 to 5, third. Pan American, Trade Mark, Decoy, Rosa, May Dora, and Florin also ran. Won by two lengths; ten lengths between second and third. Time—1:05 4-5.

SECOND RACE.—Selling, for four-year-olds and upward, $500 added; one and one-eighth miles.—Won by H. Meise's br. c. War Horn, 108 pounds, (T. McTaggart,) 4 to 5, 1 to 3, and out; W. Stockton's Fred Mulholland, 105, (Butwell,) 3 to 1, even, and out, second; D. L. McGibbon's Inspector Lestrade, 105, (Rowley,) 40 to 1, 8 to 1, and 2 to 1, third. Creme de Menthe and Breaker Boy also ran. Won by five lengths; three lengths between second and third. Time—1:52 4-5.

THIRD RACE.—The Catskill; selling; for three-year-olds and upward; seven furlongs. Won by R. F. Carman's b. f. Ella Bryson, 106 pounds, (J. McTaggart,) 3 to 1, even, and 2 to 5; R. T. HEALY'S CHILDREN WIN.

Marion and Brothers Score in Pony Class at Empire City Park.

One of the most interesting classes held at the first of the day horse shows which began yesterday at Empire City Park in connection with the Greater New York Fair and Exposition was that in which a group of youngsters mounted on the most diminutive of Shetland ponies made their bids for the ribbons and prizes. The conditions warranted the children's pets first being shown to harness and then under saddle, and all in all there was some clever handling done by the youthful drivers and riders, the eldest of whom was 9 years.

The outcome of the division proved to be a triumph for the sons and daughter of Thomas Healy, when Marion, aged 9, riding astride, carried off the palm with the cream-colored mare Dyfed, which was not much bigger than a good-sized Newfoundland dog. Her brothers, Herbert and Thomas, Jr., were placed second and third, respectively. When the blue was pinned to her pony's head the little miss almost fell from the saddle in amazement, while her kin beamed upon her.

Later in the session, and after the awards had been made in the children's class for the best rider under 15 years of age, which was won by James Dooley, Jr., Joseph M. Casson, Jr., a mite of a boy, who had been awarded second prize, raced his pony up the stretch at its best pace and found himself unable to check his mount near the paddock gate, with the result that he ran into a man who had his back turned to the track, bowling him over in unceremonious fashion. The man was uninjured, and upon finding who his "assailant" was, turned round and shook hands with the lad, who probably scaled about 50 pounds.

Alden S. Blodget of Squadron A gathered in first prize with his charger Justice in the military class, and later won first in the division for the best gentleman rider. W. M. V. Hoffman of Tuxedo accounted for the roadster and appointment class with Teneriffe and Sir John, while Walter H. Hanley again scored with Sir Evelyn among the big saddle horses.

Edward McLean's black gelding Overall proved to be the best of the qualified hunters in the middleweight division, being placed over Glen Riddle's Willow King and Bryce Wing's Benito, which finished in that order.

One of the spectacular classes was the four-in-hands, of which a good field was seen. J. Campbell Thompson's four, admirably handled by their owner, apparently outlooked their opponents, and, on their best behavior, had seemingly little trouble in catching the judge's eye for the blue. In the pace and action class Emil Seelig showed to the fore with Rita and Marion, a pair standing 14.3, which filled the bill in almost every particular.

Dr. Harry Ticehurst's galloway Live Wire beat the flag in the half-mile dash and led his field from end to end, winning easily from Surprise and Play Boy, which finished in that order, with the winner's time 53½ seconds.

The concluding number on the programme was a biplane flight by Ruth Bancroft Law, who made several circuits of the field at a height of 500 feet, volplaning prettily to midfield after being in the air seven and a half minutes. The horse show and other attractions will be continued this afternoon.

Summary of the horse show:

CALIFORNIA TENNIS STAR WINS TWICE

Special to The New York Times.

SOUTHAMPTON, N. Y., Aug. 12.—For the first time since his appearance in the East, William M. Johnston, the California school boy tennis champion, was put to a real test to-day, and, although he won two matches in the Meadow Club invitation men's tennis tournament, he was compelled to extend himself in three of the sets. Leonard Beekman, the young Bronx player, surprised the Western crack by winning the first set of their match and forcing Johnston to 10—8 in the second set, while C. F. Watson, Jr., a veteran at the tennis game, put up a magnificent contest against the young schoolboy and succumbed only when nature asserted itself and youth triumphed. The first set went to 12—10, before Johnston won. The second set was a walkover for the Californian, the score being 6—1.

The contest between Johnston and Beekman was the first in the third round, and the last of the day. The pair played at the far end of the grounds, almost unnoticed, until it was announced that young Beekman had won the first set. The gallery was quickly formed, and as the second set progressed it was seen that Johnston was in danger of losing his laurels. Beekman had several chances to win out, but always failed at the critical stage of the match. He tired quickly from the persistent attack of his opponent, and proved an easy victim in the third set, which was won by Johnston by the score of 6—1. The loss of the first set to Beekman was the second one only Johnston has lost since his first appearance in the East.

The Californian's first real tryout came with his match with Watson, and the contest was the feature of the afternoon competition, and attracted a big gallery. It bristled with clever court work, in which Johnston always held the upper hand.

The contest betwen Robert Leroy and Henry W. Slocum was interesting and marked by steadiness on the part of both contestants. The veteran of thirty years made a good stand against the aggressive attack of Leroy, and, after losing the first set, rallied and captured the second by a 7—5 score. Slocum fell off in the third set, but battled to the end, losing by a score of 6—2.

Wallace F. Johnson of Philadelphia, a member of the American Davis Cup team, was drawn against J. G. K. Lawrence and showed himself to be in excellent form. His chop strokes completely baffled his opponent, and his service was very deadly. Johnson was not required to extend himself to the limit in order to win, as he captured the match in straight sets. Johnson in his second match scored an easy victory over Eric Winston in straight sets.

William A. Larned, the seven-time champion, defaulted his match to A. S. Dabney, and afterward said he would not compete in the national championship at Newport next week. The summary:

Meadow Club Men's Singles.—Preliminary Round—H. Hartshorne defeated C. Schermerhorn, 6—4, 3—6, 10—8; J. G. K. Lawrence defeated J. D. E. Jones, by default; A. S. Dabney defeated D. Kimball, 6—2, 6—1.

First Round—Richard Harte defeated C. J. Wirth, 6—1, 6—1; Wendell P. Kuhn defeated F. W. Paul, 6—1, 11—9; Wallace F. Johnson defeated J. G. K. Lawrence, 6—4, 6—3; Robert Leroy defeated W. N. Chambers, 6—4, 6—3; H. W. Slocum defeated L. G. Bowen, 6—3, 6—0; G. C. Caner defeated Dr. Ewing Taylor, 6—2, 7—9, 6—3; C. F. Watson, Jr., defeated J. P. Lee, 6—2, 6—3; J. Orr defeated S. Johnson, by default; S. Wainwright defeated E. H. Whitney, by default; A. E. Kennedy defeated S. W. Merrihew, 6—0, 6—3; E. Winston defeated H. Hartshorne, 4—6, 7—5, 6—4; H. W. Slocum defeated J. Bowen, 6—3, 6—0; A. S. Dabney defeated D. Kimball, 6—2, 6—1.

Second Round—T. C. Bundy defeated William M. McKim, 6—3, 6—1; W. M. Washburn defeated R. Harte, 6—4, 7—5; George M. Church defeated W. S. Kuhn, 6—3, 6—2; Frederick C. Inman defeated H. Nickerson, 6—3, 6—4; Gustave F. Touchard defeated A. E. Kennedy, 8—2, 6—2; Robert Leroy defeated Henry W. Slocum, 6—2, 5—7, 6—2; William J. Clothier defeated G. C. Caner, 6—2, 6—4; William M. Johnston defeated C. F. Watson, Jr., 12—10, 6—1; Leonard Beekman defeated T. G. Thomas, 6—0, 6—2; H. A. Plummer defeated S. Beardsley, 6—1, 6—2; A. S. Dabney defeated William A. Larned, by default; Wallace F. Johnson defeated Eric Winston, 6—1, 6—3.

Third Round—William M. Johnston defeated Leonard Beekman, 1—6, 10—8, 6—1.

Chinese Boxer at St. Nicholas A. C.

The St. Nicholas A. C. will be the scene of three ten-round bouts to-night, the feature number of the card being a heavyweight contest between Jack Keating, the ex-sailor, and Soldier Bacchus of Fort Hamilton. In the semi-final Baney Williams of Philadelphia and Tim Logan will be the contestants. The opening bout will be somewhat of a novelty to boxing followers, introducing Ah Chung, the only Chinest boxer in the game. Chung, who is under the management of Jimmy Walsh of Boston, has had considerable experience and success in the ring. His opponent will be Paddy McCarthy of the west side.

THE AMENDED BANKING BILL.

The banking bill as it is expected to pass the Democratic caucus is two or three times as long as the Constitution of the United States. Doubtless the subject is intricate and difficult, yet it hardly can be contended that all those words are necessary when the more difficult subject is managed with fewer. The contrast between the two documents reveals the reason. One is a body of principles, leaving the application of them to those charged with the duties, and to the conditions when the problems arise. The Constitution was framed with the idea that it was both necessary and safe to trust administration, under the principles propounded, to the sort of men who would hold high office. The banking bill is framed on the idea that it is safe to trust nobody.

Take the chief example of the contentions remaining, whether initiative and power shall be intrusted to the Federal Reserve Board or to the Bankers' Advisory Board. The answer would seem to be to neither, so far as it is practicable to take discretion from both, by laying down the lines of their duties narrowly. Assume that either is called upon to act in an emergency, like a panic. The amount and the placing of the reserves are both fixed, and the situation could be eased and controlled only by violating the law.

To be sure, that is the usual way of managing a panic. In all countries, and in all times during modern banking, suspension of the law is the ordinary procedure in times of extraordinary conditions. It is possible to go further than this, and to say that it is customary not to observe the laws regarding banking details whenever they are troublesome. There is seldom a week when there are not some banks deficient in their reserves. Cases can be selected of individual banks deficient in reserves for weeks and months together, with nothing done about it. The reason is not the lack of law, but the severity of the law. The punishment for deficiency of reserves is proportioned to the necessity of the maintenance of reserves, and is so severe, amounting to capital punishment, or cancellation of the bank's charter, that it is never inflicted.

These illustrations show the futility of trying to regulate banking too minutely, and in a spirit of suspicion instead of trust. A banker who is not worthy of trust ought to have no powers at all. The attempt to make unworthy bankers either good or wise by law is an attempt at the impossible. There is no British law regarding reserves, the question which most agitates our lawmakers. Nothing but public opinion fixes the reserves, and yet the minimum is more strictly observed than among ourselves, the present time being taken for an example.

This criticism is intended to be helpful, by suggesting that things too difficult to be accomplished should not be attempted. Banking is essentially a matter of much discretion. Business is essentially a matter of shifting conditions, what is right and proper today being wrong to-morrow. Nobody can foresee the time of the next crisis, or the manner suitable for meeting it. As for preventing a panic by legislation—the suggestion is too absurd for consideration. Assuming that the organization of the new banking system is correct, the operation of the system should be left more to the men who are to work it. Some parts of the bill are unsuitable for enactment into permanent law. The difficulty of securing enactment sufficiently attests the difficulty of amending the bill. It would be better to give the system some method of profiting by its own experience, and improving upon its own rules. East and West, North and South, trust each other in politics. They must trust each other in banking. The Eastern bankers mistrust the Western less than they mistrust the politicians of both East and West. There is no line between the East and West in finance, although individuals may differ. The alignment is rather according to schools of thought than sectional. And those who differ about banking are agreed in distrust of their regulators, rather than of regulation.

The experience of the express companies and the railways shows how easily and imperceptibly regulation of the instruments of commerce passes over into regulation of commerce itself. This week there is published a folio of 1,098 pages, weighing several pounds, for the regulation of express rates. The same thing impends for the railways. The regulation of banking in that manner hovers between tragedy and farce. It is difficult to confine public utilities within such narrow bounds, which are constantly extended beyond the last extension until the end cannot be seen. Apparently it must go on until checked by public opinion. In banking, public opinion should stop the process before it begins. Banks should be regulated, but not banking, just as railways should be regulated, but trade should be free. Straitjacketed banking is the death of freedom of trade. There are many sections of the new banking law which will arouse contention, and will settle nothing, whatever form is adopted. So far as banking is matter of fraud or wrong it should be left to a jury. So far as it is matter of discretion it should be left to bankers, since it cannot be taken from them and retain their services in banking.

THE IMPEACHMENT PROCEEDINGS

The Constitution makes it plain that from the moment when the Assembly presents to the Senate its resolution of impeachment Mr. SULZER will cease to act as Governor and his duties will be performed by Lieutenant Governor GLYNN. Because of a misunderstanding of the meaning of the word impeachment there has been some discussion of the matter as though it were a doubtful point. There can be no doubt whatever.

Article 4, Section 6 of the Constitution provides:

> In case of the impeachment of the Governor or his removal from office, death, inability to discharge the powers and duties of the said office, resignation, or absence from the State, the powers and duties of the office shall devolve upon the Lieutenant Governor for the residue of the term, or until the disability shall cease.

Impeachment, as the word is here used, means not final conviction, but arraignment, calling to account, the preferring of charges and accusations. This is made plain enough by the language of the section above quoted, where it provides that the Lieutenant Governor shall perform the duties of the office until the Governor's "disability shall cease." His disability will cease with acquittal. This is further made plain by the language of Section 4 of Article 2 of the Constitution of the United States, providing that the President, Vice President, and all civil officers "shall be removed "from office on impeachment for, "and conviction of, treason, bribery, "or other high crimes and misdemean-"ors." Disability begins with impeachment, that is, with the preferring of the charges, when the powers of the office are automatically transferred to the Lieutenant Governor; it ceases with acquittal; it becomes complete and works removal from the office once for all upon conviction.

PEACE WITH MEXICO.

The theory that the powers of evil are organized in lobbies and conspiracies to baffle the Administration at all points has been worn threadbare by overuse. The conspiracy of protected manufacturers against the tariff bill was nipped in the bud by Administration threats that the closing of a mill or the reduction of wages would bring Federal investigators to the spot to inquire by what authority such action was taken. Then certain unnamed New York banks conspired against the Federal Reserve Banking bill by seeking to impair the value of their own Government bonds. Now there is unearthed a lobby or conspiracy to bring on a war with Mexico by opposing President WILSON's policy toward that disturbed republic. If such a war lobby actually does exist, the punishment of the whipping post would fit the crime of its members. But we incline to the belief that there is no lobby or conspiracy of that nature. There are a few individuals, it may be, who, believing that they would profit by the war, are putting forth foolish stuff about the Mexican situation, but it is so obviously foolish that it is not in any degree dangerous. The motives of these persons, some in and some out of Congress, are perfectly well known, and no intelligent person pays serious attention to them. Their influence may be disregarded.

The American people are united in abhorrence of the very thought of war with Mexico. It is a calamity to be avoided and any Administration policy which has as its aim the continuance of peaceful relations with Mexico and the putting aside of all danger of forcible intervention in Mexican affairs, will have the firm support of a united public opinion in the United States. Wherever the President's policy toward Mexico has been called into question, it was because of some difference of opinion as to whether refusal to recognize the Provisional Government and the sending of Mr. LIND as an adviser to our Embassy were altogether wise procedures in view of the national desire and determination not to have any trouble with Mexico. Once determined upon, and Mr. LIND having arrived in Mexico, criticism in all responsible quarters ceases, and it is everywhere felt that the President should have the support of public opinion in his efforts to bring about more settled conditions in that republic, a change for the better which will remove or very much diminish the chances that intervention may be necessary.

Mr. LIND has been well received in the Mexican capital and thus far President WILSON's plans are working smoothly. The test of their success will come when Mr. LIND has caused whatever message he bears to be communicated to President HUERTA. Even then, there is but slight probability that affairs will take an unpleasant turn. The action of Japan in declining to receive FELIX DIAZ as a special envoy from the Mexican Government, which will put him upon the footing of a private individual, is a gratifying indication of Japan's desire not to be a cause of embarrassment to us in our dealings with Mexico. Furthermore, the statement that the British Government's recognition of HUERTA was merely a recognition of his status of "Provisional President pending an election," is construed as an indication that Great Britain's position is not widely different from our own. It is possible that a recognition by us on these terms might have been justified on the theory said to be held by Great Britain that it would be "likely to assist in the restoration of order." Conditional recognition is not usual, but in this case it would be a mere recognition in terms of a fact that we have recognized and do recognize because we must. By whatever means he may have gained the office, HUERTA is the Provisional President of Mexico.

But our relations with him and with his country will advance to a new stage upon the presentation of Mr. LIND's communication. There will be every disposition to give loyal support to the President in whatever course he may then pursue that will tend to keep us out of the Mexican broil.

A PRISONER OF ITALY.

PORTER CHARLTON will be surrendered to-morrow to the Italian Government, which will provide him passage to Como in Italy, the scene of the murder of his wife. The extradition, so long delayed on appeal to the Federal Supreme Court, accords with two principles of American practice, first, that when an American citizen is murdered in a foreign land the United States shall call on the foreign country to punish the criminal, and, second, that the accused shall be tried by courts having jurisdiction at the scene of the crime.

The local theory of punishment does not prevail in Italy. The legal procedure of that country provides for the trial far from the local jurisdiction of persons accused of crimes abroad, and for this reason Italy has refused to grant extradition of its citizens wanted for trial in the courts of the United States. To the Anglo-Saxon mind, of course, the need of local witnesses and of investigation by officials who can report only to the court having jurisdiction in the district where the crime was committed seems paramount. All the more reason, then, why CHARLTON should be extradited despite Italy's refusal to reciprocate in like cases. He will have able counsel in Italy, and he will be prosecuted by distinguished Government lawyers who have the evidence in his case close at hand.

THE NEW UNIONISM.

Six foreign labor agitators were arraigned yesterday before a Pittsburgh Police Justice, who forthwith sent them to dungeon cells. In their own words they were sent to jail for "educating American workmen, "as the Americans were too slow to "educate themselves." The characteristics of their unionism are its international and revolutionary qualities. The prophets sent to confinement in Pittsburgh are one in thought with those who on the same day confronted cavalry and artillery in sundry Italian cities. Monarchies and republics look alike to these propagandists, and it is a temptation to add that republics may learn something from arbitrary government in the manner of withstanding their educational crusade in a nation of which they know so little and deserve less. A fair day's wage for a fair day's work is not the aim of these crusaders, who change their country but not their thoughts and aims and methods of attainment. This is the account of what the Italian strikers want, using their own words:

> Here the strikers do not claim only economic advantages, but aim at the subversion of the present basis of the capitalistic oligarchy. The strike must therefore become a kind of national earthquake, overthrowing the social organization resting on the exploitation of the workers for private advantage.

It requires only acquaintance with the literature of the new unionism to know that this specific declaration is of general application. "National earthquakes" are what those of this school of progressive thought want. HAYWOOD and the Industrial Workers preach and practice the same ideas regarding freedom of speech and spoliation of property in the name of humanity as do the syndicalists of Italy, the sabotists of France, and the localists of Germany.

Americans have their fair choice whether they will learn of these persons, or will teach them Americanism. The Pittsburgh Police Justice made a fair beginning. And yet there is something to be said for the unofficial citizens who gave short shrift and quick justice to the Industrial Workers who this week spread dissatisfaction among the harvesters of the prairies. The West knows how to rid itself of these nuisances, and that explains why the East is troubled with them.

MEDICAL AMBASSADORS.

An International Medical Congress, such as that being held this week in London, might seem superfluous when it is considered that the medical journals circulate around the world, and that the men who gather there are all specialists. This is not a special, but a general, congress, and it would seem that the voices might be confused. True, the presence in the flesh of men like Dr. PAUL EHRLICH of Frankfurt-am-Main, hailed as the greatest exponent of modern pathology, should be inspiring to the medical ambassadors of all nations who hear, if they do not understand, his living accents.

But it is because they are official ambassadors that they come. As The Lancet says in its current issue, there is a "world health" as truly as there is a national or an individual health. The illness or the healing of an individual here may be of moment to the nation, and its consequences may deeply concern other nations. The London Congress is a field of wide conference and debate, where the cause and treatment of diseases that know no political bounds may be comprehensively surveyed and scrutinized. It is a congress of universal medicine, and the seals of its approval are brought back to the capitals wherein are formulated the principles for the health of civilized societies. Sir JOHN COLLIE's almost negative report on the shamming of sickness by workingmen under the British Insurance act, which affects 13,000,000 people, 4,000,000 of whom are women, will have its effect on the legislation of many countries. The paper read by Dr. CRILE of Cleveland on "Shock" may influence the passage of laws regulating the treatment of surgical shock in factory emergencies and doubtless the rules in hospitals. The work of Dr. EHRLICH is bearing its fruit in restoring health among other armies than that of Germany. The papers read by the leaders of medical science will become official documents. They will form throughout the world the basis of action for quarantine and domestic vigilance against disease.

TOPICS OF THE TIMES.

A Model Children's Court.

Little more than a decade ago organized Children's Courts were unknown. Juvenile delinquents were treated like small grown-ups, they were tried in the same courts and confined in the same prisons with hardened offenders. To-day the most progressive cities in this country and abroad have special courts for the trial of children's cases, and the success attending this practice has been encouraging.

A model Juvenile Court, like that in Cleveland or Chicago, resembles a school room rather than a criminal court of justice, and is intended to reassure, not to frighten, the youthful prisoner. The Judge, who is selected for his sympathy and insight, devotes all his time to the trial of young offenders, and he is assisted in his work by a paid staff of expert probation officers. New York has had a Children's Court for some years, but she has only recently begun to catch up with her Western sisters in the treatment of juvenile delinquents. The present quarters of the Children's Court in this city, which have long been felt to be inadequate and ill-suited for the purpose, will soon be replaced by a new building, the cornerstone of which was laid Monday afternoon on the site of the old City College structure at Twenty-third Street. When this building is finished, said Mr. MCANENY, who was one of the speakers at the ceremony, "we shall have a model Children's Court, housing a model system for the treatment of juvenile delinquency."

We hope this means, among other things, that a bench of permanent Children's Judges will supplant the unsatisfactory system of rotation in office, and that the probation work will be developed by a well-organized staff of experts employed and paid by the city.

Beef Tea as an Intoxicant.

We find it difficult to believe the cable report that Liverpool physicians are very much exercised over the case of the traveling salesman with delirium tremens induced by too much beef tea. Food analysts and nutrition experts have long been aware of the high stimulating power of meat proteins, which, Dr. CHITTENDEN says, are approximated by but one sort of protein from the vegetable kingdom, that of oatmeal. The vegetarians, in fact, base their most effective arguments on the fact that the stimulation from meat is in a way like that from alcohol, effecting tissue change or metabolism rather than affording nutriment. Beef tea is the highest stimulant among the meat juices. Physicians have long since abandoned the notion that it is a food capable of repairing tissue, for laboratory tests have proved that it causes more rapid wasting of the body than no food at all. Indeed, dogs fed entirely on concentrated beef juice are so overstimulated that they die within a few days. Experiments conducted by the United States Department of Agriculture on losses in cooking meat showed that beef which has been used for the preparation of tea or broth had lost practically none of its nutritive value, while most of the "flavoring material"—the toxic and stimulating part of the beef—had gone into the extract.

It is doubtful if the medical men of Liverpool are greatly surprised at the drummer's discovery of the hilarious consequences to be derived from beef juice. Beef tea has never been regarded by those who know as an innocuous beverage; those who don't know and who have been experimenting in their own kitchens for their own convalescents, may well take warning from the sad case of the salesman in Liverpool.

The Need of an American Spa.

At the International Medical Congress now in session in London, Dr. SIMON BARUCH, Professor of Hydrotherapy at Columbia University, called attention to the practically untapped resources in the mineral springs of the United States and the urgent need for proper instruction of balneology in the medical schools. Dr. BARUCH has long lamented the fact that Saratoga Springs could not be transformed into a Carlsbad or a Vichy. As a matter of fact, there are available at Saratoga saline, alkaline, ferruginous, sulphurous, and potable waters—all five of the classifications of mineral waters which have a distinct physiological effect or a peculiar therapeutic value. The old Geyser spring, which has for many years been out of the running, has been repaired by a new and even bore, and the result is a volume of antacid water which in output exceeds a bit that of the famous French Vichy. Our Continental neighbors would probably have still more reason for disgust at the American wastefulness did they learn that for years a private company has been pumping out the carbonic gas and selling it at a tremendous profit, reducing the total C O2 output by nearly 40 per cent.

Fortunately, the State Government interfered in time to check the spoliation, and most of the valuable mineral springs, together with a considerable park area, are now under State control. With the Arkansas Hot Springs in the hands of the Government we can, perhaps, look forward to the day when "the cure" will be popular on this side of the water, when the Saratoga bathing establishments will be combined under a scientific management and pulled up out of their present insignificance of sixty-six baths per hour and few people to take them. Americans will have to take the springs seriously before this can be done. As Dr. BARUCH points out, it will be the chemist and the physician who must become alive to their immense therapeutic values before the public will have faith.

They Keep the Spirit of the Peasants.

Walking along the upturned streets of the city these sultry August days, one sees many suffering people pause to eye the healthy, perspiring Italian methodically at work under a blazing sky. He is hot, too, no doubt, but not so warm but he can sing a snatch of song now and then, or pause for a bantering word with his companions. Draw this to the attention of the pasty-faced, sweltering person on the shaded sidewalk, and ten to one he will sneer with ill-concealed envy, "Just animals—no human beings could stand it."

The animal part of the statement is probably correct. They live close to the earth, these people, until the artificial pleasures of the new country gain a hold upon their good peasant constitutions. They do not belong to the anaemic looking, stiff-collared, hobble-skirted folk who promenade the baking streets of Coney on their Sunday holiday, or seek out the crowded saloons and dance halls, and stuffy, ill-ventilated moving-picture shows. One finds them rather in big, hearty family parties, old men and women, boys and girls, and infants—many infants—picnicking in the woods beyond the city, fishing in the back creeks about Rockaway, or encamped on the breakwater at Manhattan Beach. Bareheaded and scantily clothed, they breathe the fresh air and absorb strength from the contact with good Mother Earth, whose better qualities are easily lost sight of by the denizens of the civilized "flat." They play games, sometimes dance to the rhythmic clapping of hands or the shrill music of some small instrument, and go swimming in attire very evidently not cut to that purpose. They have yet to learn the false shame that makes the second generation afraid to appear unsophisticated and simple, but loaf and invite their souls.

"WHITE FLAG" TAXICABS

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Owing to the long fight to inaugurate a system of cab service at popular rates resulting in a proper ordinance to alleviate this condition and the everlasting obstacles erected in this city by hotels and cab companies, we wish to draw your attention to the fact that there are several hundred cabmen now operating in the city under the lowest tariff for any number of passengers. They have not even taken advantage of using the highest rate established by the new ordinance for three or more passengers, being fully convinced that they can operate profitably at these lower rates.

In view of the fact that these men have successfully passed the rigid examination of the Bureau of Licenses prescribed in the new ordinance (which bureau in the first few days reported 500 cabs inspected and only 17 found perfect, while 100 were forced out of the service,) they comply with the law as thoroughly as any cabs of the competitive companies, and should have the hearty support of the city in their effort to abide by the new law.

Cabs operating under this lowest tariff are designated by the white flag on the meter. Our interest is merely one in behalf of the citizen and, in like manner, any public-spirited association.

Mr. Hewitt's Mayoralty Campaign.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

J. B. Gilder contributes to your columns, under the heading "Folly of a Third Ticket," some personal reminiscences of Col. Theodore Roosevelt's campaign for Mayor in 1886, and says: "The result of his nomination was the defeat of good government, as represented by Mayor Hewitt—a Tammany Mayor running for re-election on an anti-Tammany ticket."

In these four lines there are five misstatements, which is a pretty good average. The facts are that (1) Roosevelt's nomination did not result in the defeat of good government, and good government was not defeated; (2) it did not defeat Hewitt, who was elected; (3) Hewitt was not a Tammany Mayor, nor a Mayor at all; (4) Hewitt was not running for re-election, and (5) he was not running on an anti-Tammany ticket.

Hewitt was running for his first and only term. He was identified with the County Democracy, Tammany's rival, but Tammany and the County Democracy united in that campaign and nominated him, Tammany nominating him first and the County Democracy falling into line. The Republicans nominated Roosevelt and the labor men Henry George. Hewitt was elected. C. W. T.

Streets Torn by Subway Work.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

THE TIMES's picture section of Aug. 3 contained a photograph of Lexington Avenue, with the heading, "Again a Great Subway Is Being Built, but Without Torn Streets." I would suggest that you view the scene at 138th Street, west of Third Avenue. Here the sidewalk, dedicated to public use, has been given over to the contractor, and railroad trains are running on it, and great derricks, with their swinging buckets, occupy the place intended for pedestrians, while in the street is a great open cut.

If there had never been a subway built there might be some excuse for turning this street into a mining camp, but with the experience of what can be done elsewhere, and is being done in 138th Street east of Third Avenue, it is hard to conceive of any reasonable excuse for what is being permitted west of Third Avenue.

Complaints to the Public Service Commission have thus far had no effect.

PROTEIN IN MUSHROOMS.

Very Little to Warrant the Name of "Vegetable Beefsteak."

To the Editor of The New York Times:

In THE TIMES editorial article on "The Mushroom Season" it stated:

> It is a popular fallacy that mushrooms are nutritious. They contain as much protein as beefsteak, but not in an assimilable form.

This statement with reference to the quanity of protein in these fungi is unwarranted. Mushrooms do contain considerable nitrogenous matter; but this is not synonymous with protein, although it has frequently been so interpreted in the past. Some of the nitrogen containing components of mushrooms are probably nitrogenous celluloses or similar products; some are simpler derivatives. The content of real proteins, however, is small.

The editorial article in The Journal of the American Medical Association which occasioned your own timely contribution makes no claim for any richness of mushrooms in protein. The expression "vegetable beefsteak" applied to them in this sense is unjustified.

LAFAYETTE B. MENDEL.
Delhi, N. Y., Aug. 10, 1913.

[Of "Fungi" the Encyclopedia Britannica says in its new edition: "Wisselingh's researches show that chitin, a gluco-proteid common in animals, forms the main constituent in many cases, and is probably deposited directly as such, though, like the other substances, it may be mixed with cellulose." But Prof. Mendel, who is a leading authority on proteins, has doubtless enough evidence to support his contention. The fact that the protein or nitrogen in mushrooms is not like the substance of beef, and not especially nutritious, is the point we wished to emphasize.—Editor.]

SMOKE NUISANCE CHECKED.

Mr. Wheeler Tells How the East Side House Obtained Redress.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Mr. Stetson's letter on the smoke nuisance recalls a bit of experience that may be of interest now.

The East Side House established its settlement on the bank of the East River in 1891. Our work among the men, women, and children steadily increased, and hundreds every day came to our house and grounds. Then a factory was built next door, and became a nuisance with its clouds of smoke and showers of soot. We complained to the Health Department, and the agent was arrested and fined. But he seemed to look upon the fine as a sort of license fee. Accordingly we began a civil suit for an injunction against the owner of the building.

This succeeded. He introduced a smoke consuming apparatus that burned the carbon and we had no more trouble from that source. The owner became one of our best friends.

Curiously enough the engineer told us that he had served in the Confederate Navy, and that the firemen were instructed how to stoke so as to consume the smoke. The point is to have a large combustion chamber and put on coal gradually.

Mr. Stetson speaks of the Edison Company. When R. R. Bowker was manager of that company there was no complaint of smoke. There would be none now if its managers were as much interested in the public welfare as he was. EVERETT P. WHEELER.

The City College Presidency.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

One of your correspondents has suggested the name of Prof. S. P. Duggan as a candidate for the Presidency of the City College. The mention of Dr. Duggan in this connection will be hailed with delight and satisfaction by the alumni, students, and friends of the college. The suggestion deserves to be carefully pondered by the Board of Trustees when it meets to elect Dr. Finley's successor.

Dr. Duggan is a man of active and constructive mind, a rapid, forceful, and methodical worker, and a profound thinker. He is noted for his broad culture, indomitable energy, and intense application. These qualities, coupled with his habitual loftiness of thought, nobility of character, and dignified courtesy to all, easily give him a place in the very front rank of American educators. Besides, he has proved himself to be an able executive and a judicious administrator.

Fusion in the Bronx.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

The Citizens' Municipal Committee, if sincere in its platform pledges, will not permit the new Bronx County to become the prey of the district leaders who are now planning to force themselves and their dummies as candidates on the Fusion ticket. They propose to divide the enormous patronage as prey for their hungry followers and to disregard the wishes of the independent Bronx voters.

Does the Committee of 110 intend to lend its aid to the nominations of these district leaders and their incompetent tools? If so the Fusion ticket will be defeated by the outraged citizens of the Bronx.

Smoking a Meerschaum Pipe.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Will some reader who has had experience be good enough to give me some hints as to the smoking of a meerschaum pipe? I've had so much advice recently on the subject from tobacconists' clerks and kindly disposed friends that I am beginning to suspect that there are ever so many persons in this community who still have one or two things to learn about the smoking of meerschaum pipes. A Widowed Mother's Home.

A widowed mother of seven children would be without resources were it not for the loyalty of the two eldest, who give her their earnings regularly toward keeping a home for the support of the younger ones. She herself suffers from heart disease and must not exert herself beyond attending to her household duties and keeping an oversight of the children. The five growing boys and girls make heavy demands on their step-sisters' earnings. The one makes $7 a week in a factory, and the other, $14 a month living at service. This cannot be made to cover the cost of rent, food, and clothes, especially the shoes that wear out so fast. The home is an excellent one, and the children well brought up and in good health. Others have been interested to assume the payment of the milk bill. The Charity Organization Society asks for $144 to pay the rent for the family during the coming year.

Gifts can be sent to the office of the society, 105 East Twenty-second Street, and will be acknowledged.

The society acknowledges with thanks the following contributions sent in response to previous appeals in THE TIMES:

GRADE CROSSING SIGNS.

Should Compare with Railway Engineers' Danger Signals.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

In their anxiety to escape all blame for the fatal automobile accident of Sunday the officials of the Long Island Railroad Company show that they still fail to recognize the new responsibilities which the automobile has placed upon them at grade crossings, in spite of the steadily increasing death roll. It is not fair to place all the blame on the drivers who are struck by trains. New conditions have arisen which it is "up to" the railroad companies to meet.

In the days of horse-drawn vehicles for suburban or country grade crossings the fixed signs warning people to look out for the engine were generally sufficient, even at night, for the majority of persons driving across tracks were familiar with the locality, and steam whistles and crossing bells could be heard in sufficient time to give warning. Present-day conditions on Long Island and elsewhere are very different. The automobile is here, with its faster speed, requiring more distance in which to stop, and its noise, which often makes it hard to hear an approaching train, especially an electric train with no bell and with the feebler type of air whistle. Again, automobilists do not confine their riding to one limited district, and so they cannot be expected to be familiar with the exact location of every grade crossing they meet, and, in driving at even moderate speed, they may suddenly come upon a railroad, especially at night, before they have time to see the indications, or hear an electric train or crossing bell. While some persons undoubtedly cross railroad tracks knowingly at unsafe speeds, it is unreasonable to expect thousands of drivers to run at a horse's pace on account of the possibility of coming unexpectedly upon a grade crossing.

So long as railroad companies run their trains at full speed across public highways it is only fair that they should give adequate warning to the users of those highways and to change the warning to meet any changed conditions such as now exist. A fixed sign at a crossing and a small electric bell are no longer adequate. What railroad to-day would rely on an electric bell as the sole danger signal for a train ahead or an open switch? Not only are conspicuous semaphores used for day signals and colored lights at night, carefully placed for visibility at a distance, but distant signals are used to repeat the warnings, and even the automatic stop is coming into use.

The railroad companies alone can warn the motor car driver of the approach of a train, and they must adopt a way to do it which will give a car sufficient time and distance in which to stop.

In regard to warnings from the train itself, the air whistle is no effective substitute for the steam whistle; but the whistle is a noise to be given up, especially near cities, as has notably been done in and about Boston. A night warning which should be carefully considered for the Long Island trains is the use of arc searchlights, such as are commonly found on interurban electric cars, and on some Western steam roads. The powerful rays from such lights might prove the most effective and cheapest safeguard for immediate adoption.

If any reliance is to be placed on an electric crossing bell, in a locality where there is no reason for motor cars to run slowly, then additional bells should certainly be placed on each side of the crossing, at a sufficient distance to allow easy stopping before reaching the tracks, and to serve the same use as a distant signal on a railroad.

The matter of a distant highway signal seems very important around cities, where so many automobiles are in use. A flagman is no longer sufficient, especially if he does not know his business; nor are gates sufficient, either, unless they are very conspicuous from a distance by day and night.

Motor cars now run as fast as trains and require the same kind of warnings, or even clearer ones. For the "home" signal at a crossing, a red sign with the word "Stop" would appear a good thing. For the "distant" signal, a yellow sign with the words "Slow down; train coming," might be used, although "slow down" might be enough.

With conspicuous gates, a sign at the crossing itself would not be needed. Gates might be painted with black and white stripes, like German signal posts.

The Long Island Railroad Company would protest, of course, against the universal adoption of gates, or even extra bells or distant signs at all crossings. But the time has surely come when the taking of human life should cease. JOHN P. FOX,
Secretary Transit Committee of the City Club.

Tariff Delay Vexatious.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

It seems to me that all that Congress cares about at the present time, in connection with the tariff, is to delay the act as much as possible instead of getting down to cases and getting through with it. I wonder if any Congressman has taken time to consider what tremendous losses are accruing to this country daily because of the uncertainty of the tariff situation. The losses do not apply to one field alone, but to every field of commerce in the whole country. The present uncertainty compels the banks to conserve all of their resources. They haven't the slightest idea what is going to happen, but whatever it is they are going to be prepared for an emergency. The tariff once settled, and merchants resuming the ordinary course of business, banks will loosen up and the so-called tightness of money will disappear, because the tightness is nothing more nor less than a phantom existing in the minds of people. THE SHORT VACATION GIRL.

Our Lady of Tan hasn't come to town
  yet,
 She'll be along here in the Fall,
   When Summer is done
   And she's long had the sun
 To put a rich brown over all.

  But:
Our Lady of Red is here, good and burned;
 She had a short term out of town;
   Not nearly enough
   To make her skin tough
 And put over all a rich brown.

  rum,
 Her arms and her hands are ablaze,
   Her face is a sight
   Like a proper red light,
 And her neck is a scarlet haze.

  sea—
 A week or a fortnight of sun
   Has painted her red
   From her feet to her head

Our Lady of Red has come back to town,
 In shop and in office—Gee whiz!
   Though her heart may not be Very tender—Ah me—
 You bet that the rest of her is!

WON'T SEAT CLAYTON NAMED AS SENATOR

LEGISLATIVE ACT NEEDED

Seventeenth Amendment Must Be Respected, Says Kern—Worry Now Over Culberson's Absence.

MONTGOMERY, Ala., Aug. 12.—Henry D. Clayton, member of Congress from the Third District of Alabama, was named by Gov. O'Neal late this afternoon as United States Senator to fill the vacancy caused by the death of Senator Joseph F. Johnston. Mr. Clayton's commission was delivered to him later.

Mr. Clayton accepted the appointment and is now on his way to Washington to present his credentials to the Senate. He added that he would not resign his seat in the House until after he is seated in the Senate. He is Chairman of the House Judiciary Committee, and has served sixteen years in Congress.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 12.—While there is some division as to the Constitutional points involved, it is practically certain to-night that Representative Clayton will not be allowed to take his seat in the Senate on appointment from Gov. O'Neal of Alabama.

Lawyers on the Democratic side of the Senate who have discussed the matter have decided unanimously that the Governor needs special authorization from the State Legislature to make his appointment legal. Some Senators would evidently be glad to have Mr. Clayton seated without a struggle, but the opinion to-night was overwhelming that party necessity must be set aside in the face of the serious constitutional objections to the manner of his appointment.

Senator Overman of North Carolina, acting Chairman of the Committee on the Judiciary, said he did not believe Mr. Clayton would be allowed to take his seat.

Senator Kern of Indiana, Chairman of the Committee on Privileges and Elections, said that though his mind was not entirely clear on the points at issue, his opinion was that for the Senate to accept the Governor's appointee without special authorization of the Legislature would be to disregard the spirit, if not the letter, of the Seventeenth Amendment.

Among Republicans the feeling was unanimous that the Seventeenth Amendment was intended to take the election of Senators away from the Legislatures and give it to the people. Even the filling of vacancies should be in the hands of the people, they said, unless through their representatives in the Legislature they empowered the Governor for their convenience to make a temporary appointment pending a popular election.

It is expected that Senator Bankhead of Alabama will present Mr. Clayton's credentials to-morrow. Objection will certainly be made to the immediate seating of Mr. Clayton, and his credentials will then be referred to the Committee on Privileges and Elections, which is expected to report that the credentials are defective.

Before the news of Gov. O'Neal's action reached Washington Senator Kern had sent a second telegram to the Governor urging him to call a special session of the Legislature to grant him authority to name a Senator ad interim. Senator Simmons, Chairman of the Finance Committee, sent another message emphasizing the importance of Senator Kern's request. Both Senators pointed out that it was important that there should be no possibility of a contest in the appointment of a successor to Senator Johnston, owing to the slender Democratic majority on the tariff bill.

Democratic leaders, having lost a vote through the death of Senator Johnston, are now further worried by the continued absence, on account of serious illness, of Senator Culberson of Texas. They have endeavored vainly to get some information as to the probability of Senator Culberson's return in time to vote for the tariff bill. No word, it is said, can be communicated to the Senator, who is undergoing treatment in Connecticut.

WINDING UP TORT CASES.

Counsel for Damage Creditors Criticises Sale of Surface Roads.

Most of the lawyers who for the last six years have been engaged in the surface traction litigation appeared before Judge Lacombe in the Federal District Court yesterday and discussed final motions in the long drawn-out controversy. Benjamin S. Catchings of counsel for the tort or damage creditors of the Metropolitan and New York City Railway Companies asserted that his clients, with judgments aggregating $2,000,000, were entitled to a preference out of the fund now in the hands of the trustee.

In the course of his argument Mr. Catchings said that the traction property, which was valued by the Public Service Commission at $88,000,000, was disposed of by judicial sale for $12,000,000, and that next day "the same old Metropolitan crowd," under the new name of the New York Railways Company, issued bonds and stocks to the amount of $106,000,000. He contended that if there had been no judicial interference and the traction property had been sold at its proper value, there would have been sufficient funds to pay the tort contract and supply creditors in full.

In closing Mr. Catchings called Judge Lacombe's attention to a recent decision of the Federal Supreme Court in the case of the Northern Pacific Railroad against Boyd, in which it was held that a foreclosure sale did not in equity wipe out unsecured claims and they still continued to be liens on the property.

MUST FILE CERTIFICATE.

Commissioner of Deeds Faces a Court Ruling.

Supreme Court Justice Donnelly decided yesterday that a Commissioner of Deeds must file with the County Clerk or Register of the county in which he resides and of the county in which he acts a certificate of his appointment and must also register his signature before he can take an acknowledgment or administer an oath. Justice Donnelly denied the application of Henry Goldey, a Commissioner of Deeds of New York City residing in Kings County, for a peremptory writ of mandamus against compelling Register Max S. Grifenhagen to receive and file a deed of conveyance subscribed before him previous to the time he had filed his signature with the New York County Register's office.

The new regulation under which Mr. Grifenhagen declined to accept the deed subscribed before Goldey went into effect May 31, but according to the Corporation Counsel's office, many of the Commissioners of Deeds apparently had received no notification of it.

FINDS CASH FOR THE CITY.

Controller Unearths $354,890 Carried in Old Accounts.

Controller Prendergast has transmitted to the Board of Estimate and Apportionment reports showing the results of an analysis of old accounts of the city. The Controller recommends the transfer to the general fund for the reduction of taxation unexpended cash balances of eleven old accounts of the old City of New York amounting to $354,890. Some of these accounts have been carried on the books of the city for more than forty years. All of the balances were found to represent cash, and as there were no liabilities against them the Controller decided that they were available for transfer to the general fund of the city for the reduction of taxation.

The Controller has recommended to the Board of Estimate that it should direct the Corporation Counsel to furnish an opinion on the propriety of the proposed transfers.

SPRECKELS ASSAILS DIRECTORS OF FAIR

Sued for $25,000 Panama Exposition Subscription, He Says He Hasn't Confidence in Managers.

CONDITIONS NOT FULFILLED

Italy Makes Appropriation for Exhibit—Question Raised in the English Commons.

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 12.—"The exposition corporation is in control of men in whom I have no confidence."

Rudolph Spreckels, banker, made this declaration in court to-day, and President Charles C. Moore of the Panama-Pacific International Exposition listened to it unmoved.

Spreckels was testifying in the suit which the exposition has brought against him to compel the payment of his subscription of $25,000, on which he defaulted after sending his check for $2,500 as his first payment. Across the face of a statement of alleged indebtedness Spreckels wrote, in returning it: "The conditions of my subscription have not been fulfilled, and I do not owe your corporation anything."

In testifying he explained that his subscription had been given in the understanding that Federal aid for the exposition was to have been sought, and that this had not been fulfilled.

"To what men do you refer when you say you have no confidence in the exposition?" counsel asked.

"To certain men who I believe are in control of the Board of Directors."

"Name them."

"They are Charles C. Moore, Thornwell Mullaly, and M. H. De Young."

Moore is President of the exposition, Mullaly is assistant to President Calhoun of the United Railways, and M. H. De Young is the owner of The San Francisco Chronicle.

ITALY PLANS TO EXHIBIT.

Government Appropriates 2,000,000 Lire for Panama-Pacific Display.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 12.—Doubt as to the disposition of the Italian Government toward the Panama-Pacific Exposition was removed to-day by a report to the State Department that the Italian chambers had passed an act appropriating two million lire for participation in the celebration.

This action was taken up on the recommendation of the Minister for Agriculture, Industry and Commerce. A special committee had reported that "for the prestige of our country, for the good of our numerous colonies living and flourishing in the United States, Italy should accept the courteous invitation addressed to her and participate officially in the exposition."

Nothing further has been heard at the State Department from Great Britain or Germany, but department officials believe both countries ultimately will accept the invitation to participate.

BRITAIN MAY RECONSIDER.

Growing Belief That Panama Fair Decision Will Be Reversed.

By Marconi Transatlantic Wireless Telegraph to The New York Times.

LONDON, Wednesday, Aug. 13.—One of the reasons advanced for the apathy of the British commercial and industrial classes in regard to the Panama-Pacific Exhibition is that the exhibition managers have not taken sufficient trouble to place the advantages of participation before the British trading world.

Dr. Skiff, Director General of the exhibition, who is now in Germany, is coming to London shortly, and The Daily Chronicle editorially hopes that he will be able to place before the Government facts which will induce it to reverse its decision. As a rule a British complaint regarding American undertakings is the habit of overdoing advance booming.

Francis Dyke Acland, Under Foreign Secretary, replying to a question in the House of Commons yesterday, followed the same lines as Sir Edward Grey, but nevertheless there is a growing conviction that Great Britain will finally decide to be officially represented.

LONDON, Aug. 12.—William Redmond, Irish Nationalist, raised the question of the Government's decision not to participate in the Panama-Pacific Exposition in the House of Commons to-day. Mr. Redmond said the declination of the Government to exhibit at San Francisco had caused great dissatisfaction among all the English-speaking peoples.

Francis Dyke Acland, Parliamentary Under Secretary to the Foreign Office, replying to Mr. Redmond, repeated in substance Sir Edward Grey's statement in the House last Tuesday, in which the Foreign Secretary said that under present circumstances the Government would not be justified in asking the country to incur the heavy expenditure required for participation in the exposition.

Mr. Acland said the Government was anxious to cultivate in every way the friendliest feelings toward the United States, but that the whole matter resolved itself into the question whether an expansion of trade would be likely to result from participation sufficient to justify the Government in expending $1,250,000 of the taxpayer's money. Turning to Mr. Redmond, Mr. Acland said:

"If we were having an international exhibition here do you think Congress would be anxious to vote $1,250,000 in order that the United States might participate? I believe Congress granted only $500,000 toward the San Francisco Exhibition, while this country is asked to appropriate two and a half times as much."

HULINGS-CARDEN WEDDING.

Ensign Marries Ex-Judge's Daughter—Date First Set for Fall.

The possibility that the United States Dreadnought Utah might be in foreign waters next Fall had a good deal to do with changing to yesterday the date of a wedding for which the bride's mother expected to have lots of time to arrange for the trousseau and other important things, and which was to have taken place in Dallas, Texas. But the cided a week ago that life and chance and the mind of a Secretary of the Navy were too uncertain to be depended on when it comes to fixing a date for a wedding, and that is why Miss Selena Shumard Carden, daughter of ex-Judge and Mrs. George A. Carden of Dallas, was married yesterday afternoon in the Old First Presbyterian Church to Ensign Garnet S. Hulings, U. S. N.

Ensign Hulings is a son of Congressman W. S. Hulings, whose home is at Oil City, Penn. Ex-Judge Carden is a banker. The Cardens always come North for the Summer, or part of it, and their daughter attended a school in New York City. It was here that Ensign Hulings met her.

The date of the wedding had been set for some time next October, but when Congressman Hulings began to make inquiries at the Navy Department he was unable to learn where the Utah was expected to be about that time. She was going in dry dock at the New York Navy Yard—that much was certain. But then, she might go to the Mediterranean, or she might be ordered to some Mexican port. This intelligence, communicated to the young people, prompted immediate action. Mr. and Mrs. Carden happened to be in New York, and they were urged to give their consent to an earlier wedding. Objections were overcome. In New York, it was found, wedding dresses and all arrangements could be made without any hitch, but the final and necessary one. So it was decided upon, and immediately invitations were issued.

The wedding ceremony was a strictly naval affair, the bridegroom, his best man, Lieut. W. B. Sullivan, U. S. M. C., and the ushers, Ensigns E. P. McKim, J. H. Ward, J. M. Foster, G. M. Tisdale, and C. Withers being in full dress uniform, and the bridesmaids, the Misses Isabel and Carrie Carden, Blanche Sheehan, and Geraldine Ryan, having their frocks trimmed in colors to match the brave array.

After the ceremony Mr. and Mrs. Carden gave a reception and dance in the Assembly Rooms at the Waldorf in honor of the newly married couple. Among those present were Gen. and Mrs Hulings, Col. W. H. Simpson, U. S. A.; Mr. and Mrs. Valentine Chappel, Mrs. Mabel Simpson, Miss Florence Hulings, Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Sheehan, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph M. Bettes, William V. Griffin, J. C. Sorrells, Mrs. John O. McReynolds, Mrs. C. C. Slaughter, Miss Nellie Slaughter, Mr. and Mrs. Fry, and Mr. and Mrs. J. K. Ryan.

RICES' GOLDEN WEDDING.

50th Anniversary Celebrated at Their Long Branch Cottage.

Special to The New York Times.

LONG BRANCH, N. J., Aug. 12.—Mr. and Mrs. Henry Rice of New York were to-day the happy principals of the first golden wedding anniversary ever celebrated in the cottage colony at this resort.

All day long the Rice Summer home, at Cedar and Greene Avenues, was filled with well-wishing friends. Early this afternoon the boys' band from the Hebrew Orphan Asylum, a New York charity with which Mr. Rice has long been identified, arrived and gave a concert on the lawn.

To-night a reception and anniversary dinner were held at the West End Shore Club. There were eighty guests, including the three daughters and three sons of the celebrants, their nine grandchildren, and other relatives. Dancing followed the feasting.

Elias Michels, President of the Rice-Stix Company, presented a gold loving-cup to Mr. Rice on behalf of the employes of the concern, while a boy and girl delegated from the Orphan Asylum for that purpose presented a vase of flowers to Mr. and Mrs. Rice.

Louis Stern, President of the asylum, spoke on behalf of the institution, and presented Mr. Rice with a set of resolutions adopted by the Trustees of the United Hebrew Charities, reading in part:

"His philanthropies have been marked by a liberality of offerings, combined with wisdom and personal service, so rarely witnessed, that the name of Henry Rice has long been a synonym for true charity. The story of his life is a veritable history of Jewish philanthropy, and his golden wedding assumes, therefore, the aspect of a public event of joyous congratulation."

Isaac N. Seligman wrote as follows:

"There are but few men in our Jewish community whose private life is more beautiful, or whose continuous and self-sacrificing public service have been more worthy or useful than our Honorary President and Trustee."

Mr. and Mrs. Rice were married in New York City Aug. 12, 1863. The former is a native of Bavaria and senior member of the Rice-Stix Dry Goods Company of New York. Mrs. Rice was the daughter of S. Hermann, and was born in New York. Their children are Mrs. Louis B. Tim, Mrs. Horace Gumbel, Mrs. Milton C. Blum, Arthur, Jerome, and Fred Rice. From 1874 until 1908 Mr. Rice served as President of the United Hebrew Charities. He was then elected Honorary President. He is also a trustee of the Baron de Hirsch Fund and a Honorary Vice President of the Charity Organization Society. He was at one time a Commissioner of the New York Board of Education.

Van Valen-Van Ness Nuptials.

HACKENSACK, N. J., Aug. 12.—Raymond S. Van Valen, a son of the late Judge James N. Valen, of Hackensack, and Miss Elsie Nethersole Van Ness, of 99 State Street, Hackensack, were united in marriage last evening, the Rev. C. R. Kuebler officiating.

WONDERS OF HOTEL ROOF.

Fruits, Vegetables, and Berries, Englishmen Hear, Await Picking.

Whether the responsibility lay with Americans they had met in Europe, or with some of their own countrymen who had visited this country, it was evident that somebody had been telling fairy tales to the three Englishmen who were being conducted to their rooms at the Waldorf-Astoria yesterday.

The conversation began while they were waiting for the elevator.

"I say," said one, "by all means we must take in the roof. By the way," he addressed the bellboy who was struggling under one load of the hand luggage, "does the lift run up there?"

Upon being assured that it did, he continued to his companions: "It must be a wonderful place. I am told that they raise all their vegetables up there."

"Most extraordinary!" commented one of his friends.

"Marvelous!" supplemented the other.

"I am told that they have all sorts of fruit trees, and berry bushes, and that if one wishes, one may go up in the morning and pluck one's own fruit."

"How very remarkable!" observed the second Briton.

"Really marvelous!" breathed the third.

"And I am told—"

But what he had been further told could not be learned, for just then the elevator starter shouted, "Car going up; this way!" and the trio hurried over and started up in the direction of the wonders above.

CANAL READY BY OCT. 15.

Wilson Thinks That Ships of Light Draught May Use It Then.

Lieut. Col. Eugene T. Wilson, Coast Artillery Corps, U. S. A., one of Col. George W. Goethals's assistants on the Panama Canal, arrived from the Isthmus on the steamship Tivives yesterday morning. He said that ships of light draught would probably be running through the canal by Oct. 15 next.

"The work is proceeding speedily and satisfactorily," said Col. Wilson, who comes north on a two months' leave of absence.

ART EXPERT PREYER FALLS TO HIS DEATH

Troubled with Asthma, He Seeks Low-Silled Window for Air and Stumbles Out.

FIRST REPORTED A SUICIDE

Guests in His Home Insist It Was an Accident—Mrs. Preyer Visiting in Canada.

David C. Preyer, 60 years old, an art critic and writer on art, plunged from a window of his apartment on the fifth floor of 378 Central Park West at 5:45 o'clock yesterday morning and was instantly killed.

The frightened screams of a woman in an apartment on the second floor as the falling body struck the awning of her window attracted the attention of the night hall man, who hurried to the basement apartment occupied by Frank Pippig, the janitor, and reported that there was a strange man in the courtyard at the back of the house.

Pippig felt sure the man could not be a burglar, as the house had been well locked up. Hurrying to the yard to investigate he found the body of Mr. Preyer lying close against the wall of the building. Dr. Kergan, who responded to an ambulance call from the Knickerbocker Hospital, said that the art critic's neck was broken and his skull fractured.

The police were at first inclined to believe that it was a case of suicide, and the entry on the police blotter after the dead man's name was made to read "supposed to have jumped from the fifth floor," but further investigation caused them to abandon the suicide theory for one of accidental death. Mr. Preyer had for some time been a sufferer from asthma, and it was assumed that he fell from the window, whose sill is very low, while leaning out to get a breath of fresh air.

In June Mr. and Mrs. Preyer went to Kingston, Ont., for the Summer, leaving the apartment in charge of two young Englishmen, Frank McCreary and Brandt De Farge, who had been living with them for some time. Mr. Preyer returned alone to the city last Saturday, and, according to Mr. McCreary, seemed in good health and spirits, telling them he had had a delightful vacation.

"Mr. Preyer suffered from asthma and sometimes had to go to the window at night for fresh air," McCreary and De Farge told the police. "The window sill is low, and one could easily make a misstep and fall out. We are positive he did not jump out."

Mr. Preyer was born in Holland, and came to this country many years ago, making frequent trips to Europe, however, to pursue his art studies. It was reported at first that he was officially connected with the Metropolitan Museum of Art, but this was denied there yesterday afternoon. He was the author of a number of books on art, including "The Art of the Metropolitan Museum of New York," "The Art of the Netherlands," "The Art of the Berlin Galleries" and "The Art of the Viennese Galleries."

Mrs. Preyer was notified by telegraph at Kingston of her husband's death, and left at once for New York. Coroner Winterbottom is making an investigation into the circumstances surrounding Mr. Preyer's death.

COVETS AUTO, KILLS OWNER.

Son of Wealthy Illinoisan Sought on Murder Charge.

Special to The New York Times.

CHAMPAIGN, Ill., Aug. 12.—The body of Harold A. Shaw, 20 years old, son of William T. Shaw, one of the wealthiest residents of Urbana, who has been missing since last Saturday night, was dug up on the farm of Robert Penman, near Philo, Ill., to-night. That Shaw was murdered by a young man 24 years old, son of one of the richest residents of this section of the State, because he coveted Shaw's speedy yellow racing car is the charge made to-night by the father of the murdered boy and credited by the Sheriff and State's Attorney. The police of Ohio cities, where the youth has fled, are searching for the fugitive, who was the last person known to have been in company with Shaw. A clue to search for a grave resulted from a statement by Newton Wimmer, a farmer, that the missing youth had wakened him at 3 o'clock Sunday morning to borrow a spade, his excuse being that he desired to repair a fence which cattle had broken down.

The body was discovered about four feet under the earth. Previously another place had been found where a grave had been started, but evidently given up because the ground was too hard.

GAYNOR MEETS LUNDY.

They Talk Over Old Times and Have Pictures Taken Together.

Mayor Gaynor took a spin in his automobile to Coney Island early last evening, and the first person he saw there as he left the machine at Surf Avenue and West Fifth Street was Frederick Lundy, Democratic leader of the Fifteenth Assembly District. Lundy knew Mayor Gaynor many years ago, but hadn't seen him for a long time. They shook hands cordially, and sat down on the porch of a near-by hotel to swap stories.

A few minutes later the Mayor and Lundy headed up Surf Avenue followed by a little crowd of curious persons. They paused for a moment in front of a photographer's gallery. A moment later they were seated on a rustic bench, and the camera was leveled at them. When the Mayor went away he was well supplied with post-card pictures of himself. He seemed to enjoy the experience hugely. He left the Island after a short ride along Surf Avenue in his automobile.

SOCIAL NOTES.

Mrs. O. H. P. Belmont, who has a villa at Deauville, is entertaining, among others, during August, Mrs. Ida Husted Harper. Mrs. Harper will probably return late in September.

The Rev. Alfred Duane Pell and Mrs. Pell of 929 Fifth Avenue, who have been spending sometime in Paris, are expected to return soon and will go to their country estate Linlithgow, at Hastings-on-Hudson.

Samuel C. Van Dusen of 132 East Thirty-fifth Street, who sailed some time since, is now in Paris, but will soon return to New York. Mrs. Van Dusen is at her country place, Les Capucines, on Murray Bay.

Mr. and Mrs. W. M. V. Hoffman and two sons, C. Gouverneur and Stoddard Hoffman, with Miss Helen Hutchinson, will go to Newport on Friday to visit Mr. and Mrs. Stuart Duncan.

Mr and Mrs. Carl von Mayhoff, who have ben at Huntington, L. I., left there yesterday for Virginia, to remain until the hunting season.

Mrs. W. B. Cadwalader of Philadelphia is at the Hotel Gotham for a short visit.

Several interesting dances are to be given this week at Southampton, L. I. Mrs. Henry R. Rea will give a dance to-night, Mrs. P. A. Valentine one to-morrow night, and Mrs. De Lancey Nicoll will entertain on Friday night, with a floor for dancing built on the lawn of Windymere. Mrs. Howard Brokaw is giving a large dance on Saturday evening.

NEW HIPPODROME SHOW.

'America' to Open Aug. 30—Real Indians for Pueblo Village.

When the Hippodrome opens for the season on Aug. 30 it is promised that the entertainment offered will be a new form for the playhouse. The new show is in eighteen scenes, all of them laid in this country, and the whole offering is brought under the title "America." The story of the play concerns the adventures of a great number of people concerned in keeping the plans of some American fortifications in Panama from being spirited away after they are stolen by a spy, and in the attempt to discover and punish the spy and his accomplice.

The usual number of Hippodrome thrills are promised, although their nature will not be disclosed until the audience sees them the opening night, according to custom. It is announced that the usual ballet will give place to a carnival of sports.

For a scene in a Pueblo village a tribe of Indians will appear under the leadership of Chief Joe White Eagle. It is said that none of the old chorus has been retained, an entire new set of ballet girls having been engaged, all of them Americans. Arthur Voegtlin has, as usual, invented the effects of the spectacle. The production has been staged by William J. Wilson. The music and lyrics are by Manuel Klein, and the book by John P. Wilson. William G. Stewart will be the resident stage director.

GOODWIN BOOK OUT SOON.

Actor Writes of 2,000 Persons—Expects Some to "Squirm."

Nat C. Goodwin, the actor, sailed for Rotterdam on the Holland-American liner Rotterdam yesterday morning. He was accompanied by Mrs. Goodwin, who is the fifth to bear the actor's name, and announced just before he sailed that his book entitled "I Wonder," in the writing of which he has been engaged for more than seventeen years, is soon to be published. Mr. Goodwin said some 2,000 persons are referred to in the book, and that as most of them are still living, he expected a few of them to "squirm" a little when they saw what was written about them.

"However, I do not spare myself," said Mr. Goodwin, "and so the men and women with whom I have a little fun won't have anything on me along that particular line. Yes, it is quite true that the book will contain references to one or more of the Mrs. Goodwins. But wait until you see it. It will tell its own story better than I can in the limited time at my disposal."

Mr. Goodwin said he was going to Baden Baden for the cure.

Alice Brady Rehearses Two Roles.

Alice Brady, daughter of the theatrical manager, William A. Brady, who has been rehearsing a leading part in a musical comedy soon to be produced, was drafted on short notice yesterday by her father to take a small part in "The Family Cupboard," which he will produce shortly. This necessitates her attending two sets of rehearsals every day. She will appear in the opening performances of "The Family Cupboard," leaving it when the musical comedy opens.

Riverside Yacht Club Show.

The Riverside Yacht Club will give the third of its amateur dramatic entertainments this evening. The programme announces, among other things, "a very bad performance of that timeworn clasic, 'Ten Nights in a Barroom,' given under the auspices of the rocking-chair squadron." The play has been produced under the direction of Theodore Liebler, Jr., of the Liebler Company, a member of the club.

Royalty Enjoys the Switchbacks.

By Marconi Transatlantic Wireless Telegraph to The New York Times.

LONDON, Aug. 12.—Princess Mary and Prince Albert had a good time at the Earl's Court Exhibition to-day, spending fully three hours on the various switchback railways.

ROB BORDEN MILK STORE.

Two Men Lock Clerk in a Closet and Empty the Cash Drawer.

Two men entered the Borden Condensed Milk Company's store at 207 East Broadway last night and asked Charles Marino, 18 years old, of 15 Webster Avenue, the Bronx, who was in charge at the time, for some buttermilk. They were told that only sweet milk was to be procured, and after a moment's consultation asked for two glasses of that.

Marino walked to the rear of the store to get the milk, and as he did the two men followed, grabbed him by the throat, and, threatened to kill him if he made any outcry, pushed him into a closet and locked the door. Marino kicked on the door and shouted until twenty minutes later his cries were heard by a passerby on the street, who released him.

Then he found that the cash drawer, containing $4 in change, had been rifled and that a safe behind the counter had been tampered with, but not opened. The police of the Madison Street Station were notified. Marino says that when the two men entered the store two other men stood outside, evidently on guard.

HOW TO WRITE BASEBALL.

Owner Likes It "Straight," Professor Prefers the Vernacular.

CHICAGO, Aug. 12.—Charles A. Comiskey, owner of the Chicago Americans, likes baseball reports best when they are written in plain English, while professors at the University of Chicago deplore the possibility of the elimination of slang from the accounts of games. These unexpected attitudes were learned to-day in a vote being taken by a local newspaper to determine just how the followers of the national pastime want the games described.

"I am in favor of a clean, plain English story of a baseball game," said Comiskey, who has just returned from the woods of Northern Wisconsin. "What readers want to know is who won the game and how it was won. When these facts are covered up with a lot of useless words the reader is apt to grow tired."

"I think it would be pretty tame to report baseball in plain, ordinary English," said Prof. Nathaniel Butler. "There is a species of humor on the sporting page which is enjoyable. We want the picturesque in the reports, but the writer shows a defect when it is impossible for the layman to understand him."

Several other professors at the university declared their preference for stories sprinkled with slang.

William Calbert Dies of Heart Disease in a Yonkers Saloon.

William Colbert, an employe of a Yonkers carpet factory, died of heart disease yesterday afternoon as the result of a practical joke played upon him. Colbert went to a saloon in New Main Street after his work was done, and fell asleep in a chair. Some young men obtained some charcoal and blackened his face with it under the eyes. He looked as if he had been in a fight and received a sound beating. Then one of them nudged Colbert to awaken him, while another held a mirror in front of his face.

When Colbert got a glimpse of himself in the mirror he groaned and felt tenderly of his eyes. Then as he regained full possession of his senses he realised that he had been made the victim of a joke and began to laugh hysterically. The young men darted away, thinking that Colbert would follow them. Instead he toppled over dead.

Coroner Dunn said that heart disease had caused Colbert's death. An investigation was started, and detectives were sent to look for the jokers. Colbert was 34 years old and lived at 18 Orchard Street, Yonkers.

HUNT FOR NURSE'S BODY.

Miss Wagner's Family Believe Now She Was Drowned Off Coney Island.

A search was begun yesterday to recover the body of Miss Ruth V. Wagoner, a graduate nurse who, it is believed, lost her life on Monday while swimming at Coney Island. The girl's clothing was found in a room at the Kensington Baths and was taken to the Coney Island Police Station by Magnus Kojan, the manager. He remembered, he said, that the girl had obtained the room on Monday morning. Henry Wagoner, a paper manufacturer of 112 Bay Twenty-ninth Street, Brooklyn, identified ths clothing.

According to Wagoner, his daughter was a strong swimmer, and he said he feared that she had ventured a long distance from shore and been seized with cramps. She was a nurse at the Methodist Episcopal Hospital in Brooklyn. Two weeks ago the family went to spend a vacation on a houseboat near Sandy Hook and Miss Wagoner accompanied them.

Miss Wagoner returned to the hospital on Sunday last and remained there for the night, going to Coney Island on Monday morning. That was the last seen of her. In the room with her clothing was a book, the title of which was "The Valley of the Missing." At first much significance was laid on the title, but Wagoner explained that the book had been loaned to his daughter by a friend from Chicago who was visiting her.

Miss Wagoner, her father said, often scoffed at his fears. She had competed in several swimming contests, he said, and three years ago swam from Brighton Beach to Ambrose Channel, a distance of eight miles.

P. PALACE CARR A GOOD MAN

So Secretary Daniels Expedites His Discharge from Navy.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 12.—Secretary Daniels received a letter to-day from Senator Bradley of Kentucky which he read twice before he laughed. He then directed that the Bureau of Navigation expedite the discharge of a certain enlisted man. The letter is as follows:

> United States Senate,
> Committee on Revolutionary Claims.
> Hon. Josephus Daniels, Secretary of the Navy.
> Dear Sir: I would like to know the status of my recent request that a discharge might be purchased for an enlisted man from Kentucky. His name is Pullmann Palace Carr, and I understand he is a good man with a very creditable record.
> Very cordially yours,
> W. O. BRADLEY.

LETTER 11 YEARS ON WAY.

Surrogate Wrote About an Estate Long Since Settled.

MINEOLA, L. I., Aug. 12.—Samuel T. Wright, Clerk of the Nassau County Surrogate's Court, is looking into the curious circumstances surrounding a letter written on March 13, 1902, by Robert Seabury, at that time Surrogate, to the law firm of Howland, Murray & Prentice, informing the lawyers that a copy of the will of August Roesler, disposing of an estate of about $1,000,000, would cost $3.

Wright has just received a letter from the lawyers saying that they have just received the communication from the Surrogate.

The cancellation stamp on the letter was dated Aug. 4, 1913. The Roesler estate was settled long since.

Fourth Passenger Fatally Injured When Machine Plunges from Bridge

COLUMBUS, Ohio, Aug. 12.—Three persons were burned to death and a fourth, a child of 6, was fatally injured to-night when a large automobile crashed through the railing of a bridge and fell 30 feet to the bank of a creek on the outskirts of the city. The dead are:

BORDERS, J. B., aged 32, an automobile agent.

BORDERS, Mrs. J. B., aged 28, his wife.

PAUL, ABE, aged 26, a tailor.

Isabel Borders, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Borders, by heroic work of rescuers was pulled from beneath the wrecked car and hurried to a hospital where, it is said, she cannot live. She was terribly burned.

AMUSEMENT NOTES.

Owing to the fact that the name, "The Victim," has been found to have been used before, the new play of that title which is to open Maxine Elliott's Theatre to-morrow night will be presented as "The Lure."

R. H. Burnside has been engaged to stage Cohan & Harris's forthcoming musical piece, "The Beauty Shop," in which Raymond Hitchcock will be seen.

Martha Hedman, leading woman for John Mason last season, will sail for London next week for the commencement of her rehearsals in the star's new play, "Indian Summer," by Augustus Thomas.

Dates were decided on yesterday by Oliver Morosco for the openings of the two road companies he will send out in "Peg o' My Heart." The company headed by Elsa Ryan begins its tour on Sept. 1 in Long Branch, and that in which Blanche Hall has the title part will be seen first at Paterson on Sept. 8.

Bessie Abott, who is to appear in the operetta, "Rob Roy," at the Liberty Theatre, next month, has sailed on the St. Paul, due to arrive here on Saturday.

Ellen Beach Yaw, the soprano, will appear in vaudeville over the Keith and Orpheum circuits during the coming season. She will make her first appearance in October.

"UNCLE" STOPPED THE MAIL

Special to The New York Times.

PRINCETON, Ind., Aug. 12.—What is said by Federal officers to be one of the shrewdest schemes for mulcting bachelors ever called to their notice was uncovered by the arrest of Miss Ora Mabel Farris, 35 years old; her father, Martin W. Farris, 62, and her mother, Emma. They are charged, technically, with using the mails to defraud, but really with getting money from more than a score of young men in a dozen States, from New York almost to the Pacific Coast.

The arrest of the Farris family, which has been prominent socially and politically here, has caused a sensation. The seizures were made by Deputy United States Marshal Felthause. The three were taken to Vincennes for arraignment.

The scheme, by which the officers say more than 200 men of all ages were caught, was for the young woman to insert matrimonial advertisements in newspapers in widely scattered parts of the United States under the name Susie Meyers. When an answer was received she would engage in correspondence with the man, and after a while it would reach the point where he proposed matrimony. The young woman then would suggest that he send her money to come to him. Often gifts of jewelry also were received.

At that point an "uncle" would appear. He would write to the young man saying he had opened one of his "niece's" letters "by mistake," and on learning what was going on had decided it must stop. He would threaten to prosecute the man on a charge of enticing a young girl away from home, but on the consideration that the correspondence should cease, he would not act. That scared the suitor away.

States from which complaints have been received include Illinois, North Dakota, Pennsylvania, New York, Ohio, and Mississippi.

TAKE MRS. LAIMBEER HOME.

Special to The New York Times.

LONG BEACH, L. I., Aug. 12.—Mrs. William J. Laimbeer, who had been lying dangerously injured at the Hotel Nassau here since the night of Aug. 3, when she was carried from the railroad crossing after her husband and S. Osgood Pell and his chauffeur were killed in their automobile by a Long Island train was removed to her home in Westbury this morning.

A hospital automobile ambulance conveyed Mrs. Laimbeer from the hotel to her home, and, though the distance was ten miles, it took some three hours to make the journey, so careful were the three nurses and Dr. Johnson, who accompanied the patient, lest she should suffer the slightest jar.

A pathetic feature of the trip was Mrs. Laimbeer's desire to get home so that she might recover speedily to help nurse her husband, who, she believes, is still alive. She had not been told of his death for fear the shock would affect her seriously.

On her arrival at her home Mrs. Laimbeer saw her baby for the first time since her accident. It was said after her arrival that the doctors would tell her of her husband's death in a day or so.

LUSTIG LEAVES HOSPITAL.

One of Gangsters' Bullets Removed, Other Still in Him.

William Lustig, who was shot down in front of "Humpty" Jackson's Third Avenue coffee house on Monday night of last week by gangsters who suspected him of being a spy for the District Attorney, had recovered sufficiently yesterday to leave Bellevue Hospital for his mother's home. The men who tried to kill him lodged two bullets in his body. One in the back, near the spine, was removed on Monday. Lustig will return to Bellevue on Friday to have the other bullet, which is under the collarbone, taken out.

The men who shot him rode in a touring car close to "Humpty" Jackson's that night and made their "get-away" in the machine. Their identity has not yet been established by the police. It is guessed that both Jackson and Lustig could clear up the mystery if they chose. When Jackson was questioned as to the course to be pursued in the event of the gunmen being found, he said:

"Leave that to me."

Nostrand Left $1,000,000 to Brother

By the will of ex-Magistrate J. Lott Nostrand, which was filed for probate yesterday in the office of Surrogate Ketcham, Brooklyn, his entire estate, estimated in value at more than $1,000,000, was left to his brother, George E. Nostrand. The beneficiary is named as executor of the will. He will not be required to furnish any security, and, according to the provisions of the will, he has full authority to dispose of the property of his brother as he sees fit. Ex-Magistrate Nostrand died on Aug. 3.

History Teaches
That following a long period of declining prices for investments those first to recover in market are the higher grade issues. Therefore, during a time such as the present, when good bonds are selling at the lowest level in years, those who buy at prices now ruling are almost certain to realize a profit on their investment. This is entirely apart from the strong security afforded the principal, and the prompt payment of interest on the first day of every semi-annual coupon date.

FINANCIAL MARKETS

Advance Carried Forward Vigorously—Success of Union Pacific Underwriting.

Prices continued to rise yesterday. In fact, they gained ground so fast as to suggest caution to the less enthusiastic of those who have been folowing the fortunes of the market during the last few days of rapid forward movement. One way in which this feeling of caution found practical expression was in the profit-taking sales which made their appearance in the afternoon after quotations had been carried vigorously forward for several hours. The set-back which this selling caused was not so great, however, as to suggest that there was any abandonment by the great majority of those whose purchases have accounted for the market record of the last few days, of the optimism with which they have come to regard the immediate future of the market. Doubtless the fact that there was a good deal of short covering under way helped to minimize the effect of this profit taking, but even after taking due count of that factor the net results of the day's trading upon prices were entitled to be regarded as noteworthy.

Trading expanded considerably, and this helped to give practical importance to the question how long such a movement as has been under way the last few days can be continued without bringing about an undesired hardening of the money position by increasing the credits required for Stock Exchange purposes. But no such effect as that was in evidence yesterday. It is even being assumed in some quarters that no such sequel to an advancing stock market is to be expected in view of the fact that $50,000,000 which is now idle in the Treasury is to be placed at the disposal of the country's banking system. There is no reason to doubt that this prospective increase in the country's supply of cash has been an important factor in advancing prices. One effect of the Treasury's offer of additional cash is being seen in the decline in the applicatoin of interior banks for loans from banks here. Until the Secretary of the Treasury's announcement was made banks throughout the country, particularly in the South and West, were seeking accommodation here on an unusually large scale. It was recognized that much of this borrowing was being done, not to fill immediate requirements, but by way of protection against future needs. It is surmised that the banks are now disposed to a large extent to depend on the cash which the Treasury is about to distribute, and that they feel, therefore, less need of obtaining loans from their New York correspondents. In connection with the demand for money which has come this Summer from the interior banks it was noted here with interest yesterday that the Controller of the Currency is calling for detailed information from the national banks throughout the country of moneys borrowed or loaned to other banks. It is known that banks in the interior have in many instances sought to obscure the fact that they were borrowing from other banks. The changes made in the form of report to be made to the Controller on the occasion of the periodical calls for condition commend themselves as serving to obtain more accurate information regarding loans made between banks in whatever form they may be arranged.

The inferences which were being drawn on Monday from the news regarding the Union Pacific's offer of Southern Pacific certificates became a still more definite market factor yesterday when it became known that the applications for participation in the underwriting syndicate were so large that in all probability the amounts applied for would have to be reduced. Count was also taken of the fact that European markets were showing a keen desire to participate in this underwriting. These facts caused a somewhat new point of view to be assumed regarding the market's ability to absorb security issues, and some similarly favorable conclusions were suggested by the course of events at the London fortnightly settlement. These considerations had considerable effect upon the state of the market as a whole, although they did not prevent a slight decline in Southern Pacific, which was accounted for, of course, by the near-at-hand release of a large amount of Southern Pacific stock which has been long off the market. More was heard yesterday of the possibility of a large cash distribution to the Union Pacific shareholders, although nowhere was it intimated that this matter had taken any definite shape. It is plain that several important questions regarding the advisability of making such a distribution would have to be considered by the management of the company before any such payment to the stockholders could be decided upon.

If yesterday's had been a record of declining prices no doubt market opinion would have laid much stress on the further rise in grain prices which was accompanied by new estimates of the amount of damage which has been done to the corn crop, particularly in the States which suffered much during July and which have not yet been blessed with rainfall. But that matter was entirely ignored by the stock market yesterday. Still further damage to the corn crop might compel the stock market to pay more attention to that factor, but at present it is plainly the disposition to count upon the result of the harvest as a whole as satisfactory, thanks to the excellent position of some of the other crops which, in part at least, makes up for what the corn crop has been losing.

THE TREASURY STATEMENT.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 12.—The Treasury statement issued to-day gives the receipts and expenditures for the present month and fiscal year as follows:

	Month.	Fiscal Yr.
Customs	$10,205,958	$38,012,612
Int. revenue, ordinary	8,782,460	34,503,308
Corporation tax	85,693	1,938,991
Miscellaneous	1,390,846	6,241,589
Total receipts	$20,464,957	$80,696,488
Expenditures	21,785,897	91,700,168

TOPICS IN WALL STREET.

An Unpopular Bank Call.

Either by accident or design the latest call of the Acting Controller of the Currency asks for the condition of the national banks as of Aug. 9. That was Saturday. Bankers say that the condition as reported on a Saturday cannot be compared with the condition on any other day without putting the institutions at the principal centres in an unfavorable light. Owing to the half-holiday, the Clearing house sheets are made up at noon, which means that a very large amount of remittances cannot be credited until the Monday following.

In the case of the National City Bank alone the amount of these checks received too late to be credited to the gross deposits runs from $10,000,000 to $40,000,000, and for all the banks in this city a minimum estimate of $100,000,000 is considered conservative. The result is to create an impression that the banks have lost heavily in their deposits by comparison with the previous statement, whereas they actually may have gained. Controller Murray once issued a bank call for Saturday, and some of the big institutions were busy for several days after explaining to inquirers why their gross deposits made such a bad exhibit. Mr. Murray explained that the call had been dated inadvertently, and promised that in future he would pick one of the other five business days for calls.

Union Pacific's Syndicate.

From the responses received yesterday to the invitation to join in the syndicate for underwriting the offering of $88,357,000 of Southern Pacific stock, Union Pacific Directors said there was every reason to believe that the underwriters would in most cases get a smaller participation than they desired. It is expected that fully 600 names will be on the list. In their letter to other houses asking them to join in the underwriting, Kuhn, Loeb & Co. say that the 2½ per cent. commission allowed by the railroad will be net to the participants, as the syndicate managers are to be compensated by the railroad company.

Interest on S. P. Dividends.

Some of the Union Pacific shareholders were making inquiries yesterday as to the disposition of the interest which will accumulate on the $2,650,000 of unpaid dividends held by the Central Trust Company. The court took care of this matter in its decree by providing that the interest should be paid into the Union Pacific's treasury.

Frisco's Reduced Train Service.

In explanation of the announcement by the receivers of the St. Louis & San Francisco of their decision to take off a number of passenger trains now running through Oklahoma, Arkansas, and Missouri, it was said yesterday that the new management had proved by actual cost figures that the company could not afford to give such frequent train service where the maximum passenger rate was fixed by State laws at 2 cents a mile. Other roads have threatened to take this step in retaliation for arbitrary reductions in rates, but usually they have been deterred by fear of a storm of public wrath. Being only the instruments of the Federal Court, the receivers of the Frisco apparently have no fears of this sort.

The Difference of a Year.

Steel closed yesterday 15⅝ points above its lowest price for the year, but was still 7⅝ points under its final quotation in the corresponding market session a year ago. In this table some of the favorite trading issues are given, with final prices compared with last prices on the same day in 1912:

Stock.	Last Yr.	Yes'd'y.
Atchison	109⅝	98¼
Baltimore & Ohio	108⅛	97
Brooklyn Rapid Transit	92⅜	89⅝
New York Central	119	99⅝
Erie	36	29⅝
Great Northern pf.	142⅝	129⅛
Lehigh Valley	173	152¼
St. Paul	107¾	108⅝
Northern Pacific	131¼	118
Reading	172⅛	161¼
Southern Pacific	113	91⅞
Union Pacific	173⅝	155⅛
Smelters	85⅝	67¼
Copper	83⅝	74⅜
Consolidated Gas	148½	133⅛
Steel	72⅝	65⅛

Of the list St. Paul was the only one to sell at a higher price than on Tuesday a year ago.

A Good Day For Visitors.

Visitors to the Stock Exchange had opportunity at times yesterday to see what business in stocks is like when a real market is under way. As Steel swung upward from 64 to a fraction above 65 in the movement of the second hour there was plenty of activity around the Steel post on the south side of the room. Brokers at the Steel post rub elbows with those in the Union Pacific crowd, and when orders come in at the rate they did yesterday morning for both of these issues it looks from the gallery as though half the members on the board had congregated in one corner. After Steel had been pushed up to 65⅛ there was a lull for a few minutes and a hush perceptible in New and Broad Streets came over the Exchange. Then followed another flood of buying and an accompanying roar from the gesticulating mass of brokers. Steel advanced by eighths, with scarcely a setback, to 65⅝ under transactions involving from 400 to 2,500 shares each.

Figuring Westinghouse Income.

Preliminary estimates of earnings of the Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing Company, indicate a record income for the year. It was reported from Pittsburgh yesterday that net revenue in July was close to $500,000 and the net for the first four months of the company's fiscal year about $2,400,000. On this basis profits for the full twelve months are figured in advance at $7,000,000 or better, against the previous high record of $4,900,000 in 1911. The foreign branches of the Westinghouse Company are reported to be doing a substantially greater business than last year.

To Wind Up Walsh's Old Bank.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, Aug. 12.—Stockholders of the Chicago National Bank, the old John R. Walsh institution, to-day decided to place the concern in liquidation. It is said that the available assets will pay between 15 and 20 per cent., distribution of which will be made in about a month. The charter of the Chicago National Bank has been kept alive since the institution's collapse in December, 1905, along with that of its affiliated savings bank and trust company, but the Controller's office has insisted that it affairs be settled.

OUTSIDE SECURITIES

The strength of United Cigar Stores, with a 3 point advance, was the feature of trading in the outside market yesterday. Tobacco Products, also, was in good demand. Trading generally was light, and price changes of no significance. New Haven debentures continued to gain ground.

Transactions reported yesterday were:

To Liquidate Walsh Bank.

CHICAGO, Aug. 12.—Stockholders of the Chicago National Bank, one of the closed Walsh institutions, to-day voted to place the remaining assets, about $200,000, in liquidation. The capital stock was $1,000,000, and the stockholders expect to receive a dividend of about 20 per cent.

BOURSES OF EUROPE

Good Undertone in London—Prices Steady in Paris, Firm in Berlin.

By Marconi Transatlantic Wireless Telegraph to The New York Times.

LONDON, (Wednesday,) Aug. 13.—The Times in its City article to-day will say:

"The money supply being larger, owing to recent gold arrivals, the rate for daily money fell slightly, but that for fixtures remained unaltered. Discount quotations gave way a little, but bills were offered freely at the decline. Sovereigns were withdrawn from the Bank, nominally for France, but really for Turkey. It is suggested that the Brazilian Government is endeavoring to prevent further shipments of gold from Brazil to Europe.

"The Stock Exchange general carry-over was a very easy matter. Money was cheap and abundant, and, as the banks charged ¼ of 1 per cent. less for loans than at the last settlement, the rates for continuation were lighter. A firm tone characterized all the markets, and in several directions there were welcome signs of broadening business. The chief features were the buoyancy of Canadian Pacific and American shares, the general advance in home railway stocks, and the appreciable rise in Mexican Railway and Peruvian Corporation stocks. Continental operators were buyers of their specialties, and in the late dealings Wall Street lent vigorous support to the American market."

PARIS, Aug. 12.—Prices were steady on the Bourse to-day.

Three per cent. rentes, 88 francs 5 centimes for the account.

BERLIN, Aug. 12.—Trading was quiet, but prices were firm on the Boerse to-day.

Canadian Pacific advanced 2 points.

Safe and Saleable and 7%
Very rarely can obligations of America's great railroad systems be obtained at a price to yield 7%. CHICAGO, ROCK ISLAND & PACIFIC DEBENTURES, DUE 1932, furnish this opportunity.
They are selling on the New York Stock Exchange at about 80 and interest, yielding over 7%, and the decline from the original offering price of 97½ in 1912 is due exclusively to general liquidation.
Further details on request.

Care Must Be Exercised When investigating the merits and the possibilities of Public Utility Securities. The investor should not be anxious for too large a yield, at the sacrifice of safety and marketability. There are many other features surrounding securities of this class. As Engineers and Bankers of a large number of successful Public Service Corporations, our experience and knowledge is valuable to you. Advise with us on your next investment of surplus funds.

CONSOLIDATED EXCHANGE.

Sales on the consolidated Stock Exchange totaled 74,583 shares, representing the most active day on the Exchange since June 13 last. Prices were rising for the greater part of the day, although in the late afternoon realizing sales in volume imparted irregularity, with some of the prominent stocks reacting sharply from their best. On the advance the market broadened out. Fifty different stocks were represented in the transactions. United States Steel was the early leader in the upward movement, with commission houses handling some large orders in that stock.

OLD RAILROAD AUCTIONED.

Pennsylvania Holding Company Opposed Newtown & Flushing Sale.

Thomas Adams acting for Sheriff George Emener sold to satisfy an execution for $37,678, at the Queens County Court House yesterday, all rights in the old Newtown & Flushing Railroad Company, which passed out of active life many years ago. The sale was to satisfy a judgment obtained by L. Bradford Prince, for many years territorial Governor of New Mexico, and his sister, Mrs. Charlotte G. Henry, as executors of the estate of Charlotte G. Prince.

Mortimer S. Brown, counsel for Mr. Prince and Mrs. Henry, was the only bidder. He acquired the entire property, which was divided into three parcels, for $500. Just before the sale opened an agent for Joseph F. Kenney, counsel for the Stuyvesant Realty Company, which is a holding concern for the Long Island and Pennsylvania Railroads, protested against the sale. Part of the North Shore of the Long Island Railroad runs over the old right of way of the Newtown & Flushing road. The Stuyvesant Realty Company asserted that it owned the land to be sold.

PAR VALUE OF STOCK OF THE

REPRESENTED BY CERTIFICATES OF INTEREST ISSUED BY THE CENTRAL TRUST COMPANY OF NEW YORK, TRUSTEE, UNDER THE FINAL DECREE, DATED JUNE 30, 1913, OF THE DISTRICT COURT OF THE UNITED STATES FOR THE DISTRICT OF UTAH IN THE SUIT OF UNITED STATES OF AMERICA vs. UNION PACIFIC R. R. CO., et al.

To Stockholders (Common and Preferred) of the UNION PACIFIC RAILROAD COMPANY:

Supplementing the circular of the undersigned Companies dated July 11, 1913, offering to stockholders registered on the books of the Union Pacific Railroad Company at the close of business on August 7, 1913, the right to subscribe (to the extent of twenty-seven per cent. of their holdings of Union Pacific stock, preferred or common) to Certificates of Interest in 883,576 shares of the capital stock of the Southern Pacific Company, notice is hereby given as follows:

The date on which the right of subscription will terminate (hereinafter called the "subscription date") is September 2, 1913.

The price of subscription is $92. for each share represented by such Certificates of Interest, payable in full on or before the subscription date, or, at the option of the subscriber, in two instalments, viz.: $25 per share on or before the subscription date, and the balance (i. e., $67.), with interest thereon at the rate of 6 per cent. per annum to the date of payment, on or before the second day of September, 1914.

The said price of subscription is equivalent, as of the subscription date, to $88. per share and accrued dividends, since the Certificates of Interest offered for subscription will represent, as of the subscription date, in addition to the stock, the two quarterly dividends thereon payable April 1, and July 1, 1913, of 1½ per cent. each, which have been collected and are now held by the Trustee, as well as the portion of the dividend for the current quarter which will have accrued on the subscription date.

The Subscription Warrants issued by the undersigned Companies, evidencing the subscription right, must be surrendered by the stockholders or by the persons to whom the Warrants have been assigned, with the subscription form endorsed thereon duly executed, on or before the subscription date, either in New York at the office of the Trustee, the Central Trust Company of New York, 54 Wall Street, or in London at the office of Messrs. Baring Bros. & Co., Ltd., 8 Bishopsgate, E. C., accompanied in either case by payment of the first instalment, or of the full amount, of the subscription price, as the subscriber shall elect, and all Subscription Warrants not so surrendered with such payment on or before the subscription date shall be void and of no value. Checks or drafts in payment of subscriptions must be drawn either in favor of the Central Trust Company of New York in New York funds, or in favor of Messrs. Baring Bros. & Co., Ltd., in London funds at the rate of exchange as fixed by them.

Said Trustee, directly or through Messrs. Baring Bros. & Co., Ltd., as its agents in London, will, on surrender of the Warrants and on payment of the first instalment, issue Subscription Receipts which will be transferable by assignment, and will also, upon full payment and surrender of the Warrants or Subscription Receipts, as the case may be, issue Certificates of Interest registered in the names of the purchasers. To those making full payment in London, Messrs. Baring Bros. & Co., Ltd., as agents for the Trustee, will in the first instance deliver temporary receipts, exchangeable, free of expense to the holder, for Certificates of Interest as and when received from the Trustee. Subscription Receipts and Certificates of Interest delivered in London will bear the English stamp. The Certificates of Interest and Subscription Receipts will be in the form appended to the above mentioned Final Decree of June 30, 1913.

No affidavit is required to be signed as a condition of subscribing. There is no restraint upon the acquisition or subsequent holding of Certificates of Interest by stockholders of the Union Pacific Railroad Company. The affidavit as to non-ownership of Union Pacific stock is not required to be filed until Certificates of Interest are presented for exchange into shares of stock of the Southern Pacific Company deposited with the Trustee, and as a condition to such exchange, or as a condition to obtaining a proxy to vote at stockholders' meetings of the Southern Pacific Company.

Dated August 11, 1913.

STATE OF NEW YORK.
OFFICE OF SUPERINTENDENT OF PUBLIC WORKS.
Albany, July 25th, 1913.

NOTICE TO CONTRACTORS:

Sealed proposals will be received by the undersigned at his office in the Capitol, at Albany, N. Y., until twelve o'clock noon of Tuesday, August 26th, 1913, at which place and hour they will be publicly opened and read, for the construction of Barge canal terminals pursuant to the provisions of Chapter 746 of the Laws of 1911, and of the acts supplementary thereto, as follows:

For constructing a dockwall at Port Henry.

TERMINAL CONTRACT NO. 27.

Contract plans, Sheets 1-3.

Plans may be seen and detailed specifications, engineer's estimate of quantities, proposal blanks, form of contract and bonds required and other information for proposers may be had at the office of the Superintendent of Public Works at Albany, N. Y., and at the office of the Assistant Superintendent of Public Works for the Middle Division at Syracuse, N. Y., at the office of the Assistant Superintendent of Public Works for the Western Division at Rochester, N. Y., and at the canal office, Spaulding's Exchange, Buffalo, N. Y.

Copies of detailed plans or drawings may be obtained from the State Engineer and Surveyor at Albany, N. Y., upon payment to him of the cost of producing them.

Monthly estimates will be paid of ninety per centum (90 per cent.) of the work done at the contract price. Every proposal for said work must be accompanied by a money deposit in the form of a draft or certified check upon some good banking institution in the city of Albany or the city of New York, issued by a national or state bank or trust company, in good credit within the State and payable at sight to the Superintendent of Public Works for five per centum (5 per cent.) of the amount of the proposal.

The person whose proposal shall be accepted will be required to execute a contract and furnish bonds within ten days from the date of notice of award delivered to him or them in person or mailed to the address given in the proposal.

Upon execution of the contract and approval of bonds, the certified check or draft will be returned to the proposer unless the same shall have been presented for collection prior to such time, in which case the amount of the deposit will be refunded by the Superintendent of Public Works.

The deposits of bidders other than the one to whom the award of contract shall be made will be returned immediately after the award has been made.

The amount of bond required for faithful performance will be ten per centum (10 per cent.) of the amount of the estimated cost of the work according to the contract price, and an additional bond, known as the labor bond, in the sum of ten per centum (10 per cent.) of the amount of the estimated cost of the work according to the contract price, will be required as security that the contractor will pay in full at least once in each month all laborers employed by him upon the work specified to be done in the contract.

In the event that more than one surety company is offered as surety on said bonds, co-insurance only will be accepted.

Each proposal must be addressed to the Superintendent of Public Works, Albany, N. Y., and must be endorsed on the envelope with the name of the construction for which the proposal is made.

Award, if made, will be made to the person or persons whose proposal shall be lowest in cost to the State for doing the work, and which shall comply with all provisions required to render it formal. Before any award shall be made the lowest bidder will be required to satisfy the Superintendent of Public Works of his ability to provide suitable equipment and materials for the proper performance of the work.

The right is reserved to reject all proposals and readvertise and award the contract in the regular manner if, in the judgment of the undersigned, the interests of the State will be enhanced thereby.

DUNCAN W. PECK,
Superintendent of Public Works.

OHIO FIRST TO USE FEDERAL ROAD AID

Part of Recent Appropriation for Old National Pike—Motor Happenings.

It has been decided that the National Pike in Ohio, between Columbus and Zanesville, a famous bit of roadway about 50 miles long, will be rebuilt by the Federal Government and the State, according to Good Roads. The cost of this work will be approximately $360,000, of which the National Government will pay $120,000 and the counties through which the road runs will pay the balance. The money contributed by the National Government for this purpose represents Ohio's share of the $500,000 recently appropriated by Congress for the improvement of post roads in the States on condition that each State appropriates twice the Federal allotment. It is said that only four States have decided to accept these conditions.

Of the portion of the old pike which is to be improved, 30 miles are in Licking County, 10.5 miles in Muskingum County, and the remainder in Franklin County. The pike is part of the original Cumberland road, which was built by the Federal Government between 1836 and 1837 as a military post road. It extends from Cumberland, Md., through Wheeling, W. Va., Cambridge, Zanesville, Columbus and Springfield, Ohio, and Richmond, Ind., terminating near the western border of Illinois. Brick may be the material used in the work in Ohio, but this point has not yet been determined finally.

Three attorneys have been named by C. C. Janes, President of the Ohio State Automobile Association, to test the constitutionality of the new Warnes Automobile law. It is held by many that the law is unconstitutional in that it provides for double taxation of motor cars.

Illinois has a new highway law, passed at the recent session of the Legislature and approved by Gov. Dunne. It provides for the establishment of a State Highway Department composed of three members of the Highway Commission, the Chief State Highway Engineer, his assistant and various subordinates. The commission is to have general supervision of roads and bridges constructed or maintained by the aid of the State Aid Fund and is to advise county officials in matters of grades, drainage, maps, &cs.

According to present plans, St. Paul, Minn., will soon construct an automobile driveway along the line of Summit Avenue, between Lexington and River Boulevard. The plans provide for a 36-foot way on a concrete base.

New York's Highway Commission has advertised for bids for repair work on no less than 118 sections of road in 27 counties. Many of the sections are to be entirely resurfaced.

Queens Borough is preparing maps for the extension of Thirteenth Street, College Point, to Jackson Avenue. It is believed that the improvement will shorten the distance between College Point and the boroughs of Manhattan and Brooklyn by approximately one mile. The original plan, as submitted to the Board of Estimate, called for a highway 100 feet wide through the meadows at a cost of about $1,000,000, but this plan has now been altered so as to make the highway 80 feet wide. Its estimated cost will be about $800,000.

Fifth Avenue is to be repaved in several sections. Contracts already have been awarded for the sections from Washington Square to Twenty-third Street and from Thirty-fourth Street to Forty-second Street. Bids will be asked for the middle section, from Twenty-third to Thirty-fourth Street, as soon as the Board of Water Supply announces its course of action in the matter of laying high pressure mains. The condition of the Avenue in many places at present has caused loud protest by automobile users.

COMMODITIES MARKETS

Grain prices advanced in yesterday's trading, wheat gaining from ¼ to ½ cent a bushel, corn from ⅝ to 1 cent, and oats a smaller fraction. Corn fluctuated broadly at times, although strength predominated in the latter half on the session. Cotton declined on better weather news at first, but the covering of short contracts stiffened quotations late, and the close was firm. Provisions sagged rather easily and cottonsed oil again was weak.

WHEAT.

The wheat market was again influenced largely by the strength in corn, and, while the news of the day was largely of a bearish character, prices, after a moderate early decline, ruled firm, closing at a net advance of ¼@½c. There were reports that black rust had appeared in portions of North Dakota and in Manitoba, but while this was used as a bullish factor, the trade at large seemed little disposed to consider rust as a menace to the crop, and the Winnipeg market was relatively easier than the American markets.

Prices abroad were lower under continued liberal offerings of native wheat, including increased pressure from Russia and the Danube, where receipts were said to be large as a result of more favorable weather for harvesting operations. The European visible supply increased 1,344,000 bushels for the week, compared with a decrease of 6,706,000 last year. A prominent English authority estimated the world's crop of wheat this year at 4,089,600,000 bushels, compared with 3,989,808,000 last year, but while there appeared to be every reason to expect liberal supplies during the present season, the trade is inclined to consider prices as cheap, compared with the coarse grains, and is anticipating an increased consumption.

Receipts at interior points were somewhat smaller than last week, but continue to run ahead of a year ago. Clearances from seaboard ports were liberal, but the export demand has fallen off, and no new business was reported. In the local market No. 2 red Winter wheat was quoted at 93½c, cost, insurance, and freight, New York export basis, and 95c free on board afloat; No. 1 Northern Spring, 97¾c, free on board afloat.

CORN.

The corn market experienced a moderate decline at the start, owing to further rains in Illinois, Nebraska, Iowa, and Missouri, but during the day developed decided strength, closing at ¼ to ½c below the high but at a net advance of ⅝ to 1c. There was no rain in Kansas, and the trade appears to have given up hope of more than a very light yield in that State.

B. W. Snow issued a special report on the crop situation, in which he said: "My returns already cover almost one-third of the important corn counties, and if the latter reports are in line with those already received, it is quite possible that the loss since Aug. 1 may reach 300,000,000 bushels." In the local market export corn was quoted at 80½c nominal, free on board, afloat.

OATS.

The oats market was moderately active and firmer, in sympathy with corn, although late in the day prices lost part of the advance, owing to liberal receipts at interior points, closing at a net gain of ⅛c to ⅜c. The local cash market was steady. Standard white quoted at 47@47½c; No. 2, 48c; No. 3, 46@46½c; No. 4, 45½@46c; ordinary clipped white, 46@47½c; fancy clipped white, 45@49c, all elevator.

COTTON.

Reports of rain at Houston and Galveston and of a moderate shower at Ardmore, Okla., were followed by quite a sharp break in the cotton market late yesterday. Earlier prices had been firm on continued deterioration reports from the Southwest, and the failure of weather advices to indicate any immediate relief from droughty conditions. Demand became less active, however, after an early spurt of covering, and closing prices were within a point or two of the lowest, with the tone steady, net unchanged to 3 points lower.

The action of the market, consequently, was regarded by local bears as indicating a greater willingness to decline on any reasonable prospect for improved weather in the Southwest than to advance on deterioration reports, and there were many predictions of ultimately lower prices, owing to the failure of conditions so far announced in the western belt to inspire a more general demand, and to a feeling that the early marketing season must be accompanied by more or less depression.

The market opened steady at unchanged prices to an advance of 1 point, and sold about 10 to 11 points higher during the middle of the day. Scattering shorts seemed to be disappointed with the weather map, while deterioration reports from that section and expectations of a bullish weekly Weather Bureau added to the disposition to cover. There also appeared to be some scattering trade demand, but this was just about offset by a little Southern selling against prospective crops, and after the covering movement had run its course the market was without any important support. Reports from New Orleans suggesting that the firmer tone in the Cotton Exchange memberships there reflected increased confidence in the defeat of the Clark amendment to the tariff bill attracted some attention during the afternoon, and helped to steady the market preceding the reported showers in the Southwest.

Southern spot markets as officially reported were generally unchanged, Norfolk being ⅛c lower. Exporters were reported to be buying cotton for August, September, and October shipment in Texas at 25 points on October.

The range of contract prices in the local market to-day was as follows:

COTTONSEED OIL.

The cottonseed oil market was feverish and weak under active liquidation in the near positions which sent the market down rapidly and uncovered stop-loss orders. The selling appeared to be largely the result of recent speculative operations when sentiment was bullish and apparently attracted overenthusiasm on the buying side. Values recently have lost about a cent a pound under unloading and in absence of the active demand which characterized the market during the recent excitement. There were also moderate hedging operations, against sales of new crop oil and sentiment has been influenced by the sharp decline which has occurred in the lard market. At the close the late months were steady and prices ranged from unchanged to 32 points net lower.

PROVISIONS.

The market for hog products was again easier under quite active liquidation prompted by lower hog markets and fairly liberal receipts at Western points. Receipts of hogs at Chicago were 15,000; estimated for Wednesday, 27,000; Kansas City received 12,000, and Omaha 12,000.

COFFEE.

Opening prices were steady 4@12 points up, and were about the highest of the day. The close was 17@25 points lower, making a net loss of 7@12 points on total sales of 83,750 bags. Havre showed a net advance of ¼f, while Hamburg was ¾@1¾ pfennigs net higher. Rio was steady at a decline of 50 reis, while Santos was firm, with spots 150 reis higher and futures 150@200 reis up. The cost-and-freight market was firm at 5@20 points higher.

Spot coffee unchanged.

MISCELLANEOUS MARKETS.

BEEF.—There were no changes yesterday in prices for Western beef cuts.

SUGAR.—The refined sugar market was steady and unchanged yesterday. The London beet sugar market was quiet, being quoted at 9s 3d for August, 9s 3½d for September, and 9s 3¾d for October-December. The local raw sugar market was steady, with prices as last quoted.

MOLASSES AND SYRUPS.—There was a seasonable demand for grocery grades of molasses. Syrups were steady, but quiet.

RICE.—Operators continued to show a waiting attitude, and covered only immediate requirements. Prices ruled about steady and unchanged.

FLOUR AND MEAL.—There was only a moderate jobbing business in flour, as buyers were not inclined to pay prices asked by mills. City bran advanced to $22.65 for bulk and $24.25 for sacks. Otherwise prices were as last quoted.

OILS.—Linseed oil was firmer yesterday, prices for the American variety being a cent higher. Petroleum was unchanged.

NAVAL STORES.—The market remained generally unchanged, with only a moderate business reported.

We Make Clear To The Public

That investment opportunity such as has been available to savers in the depressed price levels of this Summer has never continued indefinitely.

If you invest money in standard stocks at current prices, current dividend rates will yield you an income remarkable for the high class of the securities.

YOU CAN INVEST

The Partial Payment Plan makes it possible for you to invest while you save.

If you can save a portion of your salary you may buy standard stock or bonds at once.

For $20 initial deposit we will buy for you one share of any standard stock selling below par ($100).

For $30 initial deposit we will buy you one share of any standard stock selling between 100 and 150.

You agree to make succeeding deposits of $5 a share a month until you acquire full title.

In the meantime you receive the dividends from your stock.

You may settle your balance of indebtedness at any time—if you desire to settle.

You pay the same price as the man who buys outright.

You may buy 5 shares, 49 shares or 101 shares—any amount to suit your individual income.

You can buy Bonds, too, on the Partial Payment Plan.

Send for Booklet 18—"Partial Payment Plan."

NEW YORK FLEET AT MARBLEHEAD

MARBLEHEAD, Mass., Aug. 12.—Light and contrary winds made the run of the New York Yacht Club fleet across Massachusetts Bay to this port to-day a long and tedious affair from a sailing standpoint, but the remarkably clear weather gave the power boat division a grand day at sea. The racers were all day in making the run, and the fifty-footer Grayling, owned by Rear Commodore J. P. Morgan, and sailed by his son, Junius S. Morgan, did not reach the finish line until nearly sunset. The cups, contributed by Commodore Dallas B. Pratt, were won by the Grayling in the first division of sloops; the Irolita, owned and sailed by E. W. Clark of Philadelphia, in the first division of schooners, and Venona, owned and sailed by Edgar Palmer of New York, in the second division of two-stickers. No prizes were awarded in the second division of sloops.

The power division led the racers into the harbor by several hours. At sunset more than 150 boats set anchor lights and by morning it is expected that the harbor will float a record-breaking fleet.

The New York yachts will run to Gloucester to-morrow, the racers having a twenty-four-mile contest in Massachussetts Bay for the navy challenge cups. The course for this race will be from Halfway Rock around Boston Lightship and a finish off Eastern Point.

The wind was light from the northeast, and the yachts all crossed the line with booms well off to port and with ballooners set. The Avenger came up from behind and blanketed the Shimna just before the start, so that five minutes after the signal was sounded the flagship of the Eastern Yacht Club was 200 yards astern of the Maxwell boat.

The fifty-footers came crowding up to the line and were all well bunched when the signal was blown at 10:20. The Acushla had the best place, but the Grayling came up very rapidly and was soon on even terms. The Spartan was third, the Sumari fourth, Iroquois fifth, and then came Carolina, Barbara, and Pleione. The stern boats had hard luck, for not only were they cut off by the approach of small schooners, but the wind dropped soon after they crossed the line, leaving them almost becalmed.

The Muriel led the Taormina and Katrina over the line, while in the larger schooner class the Irolita showed the way to the Corona. The last boat to start was the little auxiliary Venona, which had a big time allowance from the other schooners in the second division, and sailed a remarkable race.

At noon the fleet split up into three divisions. The 50-footers Iroquois, Sumari, Carolina, Barbara, Spartan, and Pleione, followed by the Irolita, all held across the bay toward Nanomet. The Windward, Grayling, Acushla, Taormina, Muriel, and Venona worked along the beach from Wood End to Race Point, while the Avenger and Corona held a middle course. Later the Avenger went off to the eastward after the Grayling.

The eastward course proved the best, for while the wind held very light until mid-afternoon, when it did shift to the southward it struck those yachts first. The Grayling cleverly sailed by young Morgan, worked past the Acushla, and when Marblehead Neck was sighted she had a lead over the Heckscher yacht of nearly three miles. All the yachts made the last ten miles under balloon jibs and moved very slowly. The Grayling slipped across the line at 6:10:31, followed at 6:43:26 by the Acushla, and ten minutes after that by the Windward and Avenger. The Irolita finished at 7:04, with the Katrina less than a minute behind. It breezed up during the early evening, and the Venona, coming up fast, won the second division schooners over Katrina on her time allowance.

The New York yachtsmen were given a reception to-night by the members of the Eastern Yacht Club and a buffet supper was served.

Gymkhana at Narragansett.

Special to The New York Times.

NARRAGANSETT PIER, R. I., Aug. 12.—A men's gymkhana with three events on the card at the Point Judith Polo Club to-day attracted a large gathering of society folk, who thoroughly enjoyed a day's rest from the long polo tournament. Polo players of the various teams competed with enthusiasm. A surprise was the way Master Thomas Hitchcock, Jr., turned the trick on the seasoned veteran C. P. Beadleston in the final heat of the polo ball race through seven goals, in which he made the complete round of the course before Beadleston was through the second goal post.

J. B. Thomas was kept on the jump in the final for the second event, and won by a close margin from J. C. Rathborne. The Army came to the fore when Lieut. Quekemeyer won the final for the single polo tournament event from Beadleston after twelve minutes of hard play and terrific drives. Later Lieut. Quekemeyer was slightly injured in a practice game by falling underneath his pony, which rolled over him twice.

Newport Tennis Reaches Semi-Finals.

Special to The New York Times.

BAR HARBOR, Me., Aug. 12.—Some fast tennis on the Swimming Club courts to-day left Blair and Gardner, Scott and Pyne, Henderson and Landreth, and Rogers and Campbell to contest in the semi-finals to-morrow for the doubles championship. None of the matches took more than two sets, but several went extra games. The results:

Second Round—McCormick Blair and Paul E. Gardner, Chicago, beat F. W. Beekman and Dr. J. Frazier, Philadelphia, 6—4, 6—2; Edgar Scott, Philadelphia, and Taylor Pyne, New York, beat E. H. Denby and Townsend, New York, 6—1, 7—5; S. J. Henderson and L. R. Landreth, Philadelphia, beat Howland Auchincloss and Merrill Griswold, New York, 6—1, 8—6; John S. Rogers and Douglass Campbell, New York, beat M. Fremont Smith and W. W. Phelps, New York, 6—1, 6—0.

75-Mile Race at Brighton.

A seventy-five-mile race, composed of seven of the strongest teams, will be carded to-night at the Brighton Motordrome. The combinations drawn for the big event are Davis and St. Yves, Chapple and Grapperon, Cox and Ohne, Costello and Mercier, Sperl and Sayer, Veditz and Kessler, and Hagan and Cronin.

IN THE BUSINESS WORLD

Soft Coal Demand Heavier.

Despite the fact that anthracite trade conditions are about as dull as usual for this time of year, several large companies being compelled to restrict their activities to three or four days a week and dealers generally doing but little business, there is a foundation that is unusually good for the prevailing conditions. The Coal Trade Journal to-day will say that prices are held steady and firm, and the available quantity of coal in nearly all sizes is but sufficient to suply what business is offered. The supply of broken coal is short, deliveries are considerably behind, and virtually all of this size is being forwarded on accounts made early in the Spring. The soft coal situation is most satisfactory to all shippers and operators. The demand appears to be getting heavier as the season advances, and it is not difficult to sell any kind or any grade of coal at a price above the cost of production, which is unusual for the month of August.

Greater Demand for Tan Shoes.

The selling outlook for white shoes for another season is good. The season now ending has been one of the best that manufacturers have ever had. A smaller demand for tan shoes for men and women was predicted, but instead there has been an increase in sales in most instances. Although the Spring outlook for tan shoes is no broader than for the last season, it is generally conceded that men's goods will hold up well. The demand for women's glazed kid shoes has increased, and it is also thought that women's patent leather goods will be strong for early next year. While the styles of men's Spring shoes will probably show some change, it will not be a marked one.

Last Week's Exports Show Decline.

Wheat exports from this port last week totaled 1,073,571 bushels. Exports of beef gained slightly, 615 barrels and 126 tierces having been shipped, against 260 and 412, respectively, for the previous week. According to figures issued yesterday at the Custom House, exports, exclusive of specie, for the week ended August 9 totaled $13,515,717, a drop of $2,827,855 from last weeek, and $2,957,154 from the corresponding week last year. The total valuation of this year's exports to date amounts to $553,647,415, or a gain of $49,448,833 over the corresponding period of last year.

Cotton Quiz with $1,000 Prize.

Following the recent protest to Congress on the part of one hundred large manufacturers and commission houses against the cotton schedule in the Underwood-Simmons Tariff bill, there appeared yesterday in The Daily Trade Record over the signature "Curious" a letter in which the writer offers to give $1,000 to any charity designated by the member of the majority in the Senate or House who will correctly answer ten questions pertinent to Schedule 1, these queries to be submitted by a recognized expert.

July's Raw Silk Receipts.

Receipts of raw silk in the United States last month amounted to 1,337,037 pounds, which was 163,078 pounds less than for July, 1912. Imports of Japan fell from 1,067,040 pounds to 856,440 pounds, while China silks were represented by only 18,360 pounds in last month's receipts as against 126,485 pounds in the corresponding month last year. Other varieties showed gains, notably Cantons, which rose from 92,260 pounds in July, 1912, to 174,922 pounds last month.

Prices Steady at Rubber Auction.

Cable advices received in the local market reported the trading fairly active at the London rubber auction held yesterday. There were 680 tons offered, and up to noon 140 had been taken. Smoked sheets moved at 2s. 10½d. and pale crepe at 2s. 9½d. The price tendency of the auction was steady.

FRENCH CYCLIST VICTOR.

Grapperon Defeats Davis in World Series Race at Brighton Beach.

Andre Grapperon, champion motor cyclist of Europe, signalized his American début last night at the Brighton Beach stadium by a straight heat victory over Charlie Davis, the speedy Brooklynite, in the first of a series of races to decide the world's motor cycle championship.

Davis was picked as the most formidable opponent for the foreigner by virtue of his recent showing against Arthur Chapple, but by tricky and clever handling of the speedy two-wheeled vehicle, Grapperon took the honors handily. The race was at a distance of two miles, the winner of the first two heats to be the victor.

Paul Ohne as added starter in the opening event, a four-mile professional race, took the honors according to the French point system with a total of 12 points. He rode in fifth, fourth, and third places in the three heats. George Sperl was a close contender, taking second place with a tally of 11 points.

The two-mile invitation race, with four starters, went to Franz Krebs of Newark, who took first place in all three heats. The summaries:

Four-mile Professional.—First Heat—Won by Paul Ohne, Brooklyn; George Sperl, New York, second; Ray Vedetz, Philadelphia, third. Time—3:05.

Second Heat—Won by M. Kessler, Newark; Ohne, second; Sperl, third. Time—2:59 3-5.

Third Heat—Won by Kessler; Sperl, second; Ohne, third. Time—3:00 2-5.

Two-mile Invitation.—First Heat—Won by Franz Krebs, Brooklyn; Chester Hagan, Brooklyn, second; George Mercier, New York, third. Time—1:31 1-5.

Second Heat—Won by Krebs; Hagan, second; Mercier, third. Time—1:31 4-5.

Third Heat—Won by Krebs; Mercier, second; Jack Krug, Brooklyn, third. Time—1:32 4-5.

Two-mile Special Match Race between Andre Grapperon, Paris, France, and Charlie Davis, Brooklyn.—First Heat—Won by Grapperon. Time 1:34. Second Heat—Won by Grapperon. Time—1:34 4-5.

Five-mile Free-for-All Handicap.—Won by Mike Costello, (2¼ laps,) New Rochelle; Ray Veditz, Philadelphia, (2¼ laps,) second; Paul Ohne, Brooklyn, (2¼ laps,) third. Time—3:32.

DO NOT POSTPONE APARTMENT HOUSE HUNTING

"We have been called on the telephone a dozen times to-day and had numerous callers besides, all inquiring about the one and six room apartments listed in The New York Times Apartment House Directory," wrote an apartment house manager Sunday.

If you want a wide choice of the best offerings, secure a copy of The New York Times Apartment House Directory and act at once.

SKIRT MAKERS TO STRIKE.

Some 7,000 Object to the System of Sub-Manufacture.

It was stated yesterday evening by a representative of the joint board of the branches of the Cloak and Skirt Makers' Union, which has a membership of some 50,000 in New York, that a strike of 7,000 members of the union had been sanctioned by the joint board and would be called this week. The calling of the strike, which will be for the abolition of the sub-manufacturing system, has been left in the hands of a special committee.

The sub-manufacturers make contracts at a fixed price with regular manufacturers to do work for them and employ their own cloakmakers. The 7,000 who are to strike are employed by sub-manufacturers and the sub-manufacturing system, which is a recent institution in the trade, tends to reduce wages, according to he union.

BUSINESS TROUBLES.

SIMON H. BLAIR.—A petition in bankruptcy has been filed against Simon H. Blair, manufacturer of ostrich feathers at 1,562 Madison Avenue. The liabilities are said to be $25,000 and assets more than $3,000. Judge Mayer appointed Milton M. Sittenfeld receiver. It was stated that the stock on hand was worth about $1,000. He has some real estate in Sullivan County, N. Y.; some property in Chicago, and some outstanding accounts.

ADOLPH SANDERS.—Judge Mayer has appointed I. D. Morrison receiver for Adolph Sanders, dealer in men's furnishing goods at 1,565 Third Avenue.

FRIED & CO., Inc.—Judge Mayer has dismissed the petition in bankruptcy filed on April 18 against Fried & Co., a corporation, wholesale dealers in cotton goods at 84 Fifth Avenue, on consent of creditors.

M. RATNER & SON.—Schedules in bankruptcy of M. Ratner & Son, dealers in butter and eggs at 84 Pitt Street, show liabilities $7,200 and assets $2,521.

SIDELIGHTS ON SELLING.

Draped linen coats are the latest developments in dusters for touring purposes. These are draped similarly to the silk coats and have removable buttons, collars, and silk tassels at the back, making for greater convenience in laundering.

A hat of white silk beaver, with an uncurled white ostrich feather encircling the crown, is a late model shown in the city. The hat also has a belt of white kid, with an oblong buckle in front, which holds the feather close to the crown.

The range of patterns in moires will be considerably augmented for the Fall season. Floral patterns and figured effects of various designs will be brought out in addition to the regular style.

A cable from Vienna says that seasonable colors in silks worn in that metropolis are mahogany, brick, mustard, leather, and emerald. The statement verifies the colors that local manufacturers are exploiting as leading shades in their lines this season, as these colors have met with remarkable success here so far.

CONSULAR TRADE NOTES.

An Italian Government decree grants to the communal authorities of Pavia the privilege of constructing and working an electric tramway from Pavia railway station to the Piazza Municipio. Another decree ratifies a concession granted collectively to the communal authorities of Saluzzo, Revello, Envie, and Barge for construction and working a steam tramway from Revello to Barge via Envie.

The Department of Fomento, Mexico City, has approved of the purchase of boring machines for the National Institute of Geology. They will be used for boring for water in the extensive deserts in the north of the republic. A commission of the National Geological Institute, which has been studying the water supply of the republic, has reported the existence of subterranean water in the neighborhood of Viesca, Coahuila. The water will be used for irrigation. It is probable a pumping plant will be installed in the near future.

Some interesting experiments have been carried out in Glasgow with the Ostermann system of "metalizing" all kinds of materials. During the experiments a considerable number and variety of articles in metal, glass, paper, wood, and stone were coated with metal, so that when the articles were bent or hammered the coating showed no signs of bursting or peeling. Zinc, lead, tin, aluminum, copper, bronze, nickel, or alloys of any of them are forced in an atomized condition from the nozzle of the machine employed upon the surface under treatment.

THE REAL ESTATE FIELD

Deal Pending for Eighty-sixth Street Residence—Madison Avenue Corner Resold—$500 for Five-Inch Strip at Auction—Bronx and Brooklyn Transactions—Good Suburban Market.

It was learned yesterday that negotiations are pending for the purchase of a residence in West Eighty-sixth Street, between West End Avenue and Riverside Drive, which may be a forerunner of another large building operation in that part of the city. The dwelling is the four-story private house, at 314 West Eighty-sixth Street, occupying a plot 21.6 by 100, and of which Julia G. Innes is the owner of record. While the deal is not yet closed, it is understood that Franklin Pettit is the prospective buyer. He owns the two houses to the east, respectively 310 and 312 West Eighty-sixth Street, and with the addition of 314 he would have a plot fronting 60 feet on the south side of the street.

Resale of Madison Avenue Corner.

The seven-story apartment house on the northeast corner of Madison Avenue and Ninetieth Street has been resold by Daniel J. Riordan to Gilbert C. Brown for investment.

The structure which covers a plot 100.8 on the avenue and 62.2 feet on the street, was sold subject to a mortgage of $190,000.

Sale in West Harlem.

The five-story flat house, 306 West 114th Street, has been sold to an investor. The structure occupies a plot 26 by 78 by 100.11, between Eighth and Manhattan Avenues.

Title to the property stands in the name of John H. Grabau.

$500 For a Five-inch Strip of Land.

A strip of land five inches wide and 57 feet long, adjoining on the west the holdings of Rees & Rees, at 237 to 241 East Thirty-ninth Street, was sold at auction yesterday in the Vesey Street salesroom. The sale was the result of a partition suit, in which Rees & Rees were the plaintiffs against S. A. F. Ash and others. The former secured the strip for a bid of $500.

Recent Buyers.

Julia Moore is the buyer of the five-story flat on the west side of Forest Avenue, sold recently by the Benenson Realty Company. In exchange Mrs. Moore gave the plot 55 by 106, at the southwest corner of Jefferson and Bushwick Avenues, Brooklyn.

John Emmerich is the buyer of the one-story taxpayer on the southeast corner of 166th Street and Grant Avenue.

Bronx Borough.

George Lodes sold for the Streeter Construction Company, the five-story flat, 813 and 815 Elton Avenue, on a plot 50 by 100, to a client for investment; also, for John Baradies, the five-story flat, 3,909 Third Avenue, on a lot 25 by 88, to a client.

Frank Willet bought from the Benenson Realty Company, a plot 58 by 145 feet on the west side of Vyse Avenue, 72 feet north of Boston Road.

A builder is reported to have purchased the plot of about seven lots, on the west side of Southern Boulevard, located 125 feet north of 183d Street. The property stands in the name of Joseph F. Ismay.

It has a frontage of 75.9 feet on Southern Boulevard, facing Bronx Park, and extends back 232.6 feet to within 100 feet of Prospect Avenue.

Brooklyn.

Several sales in the Bedford section have been made recently by J. Howard Ashfield, among them being the four-family apartment house at 80 Kingston Street, for John R. Ryan; the three-story brownstone dwellings, at 119 to 123 McDonough Street, for Freeling Smith to an operator, and the sale of 125 to a Mrs. Kirby, who is using it as a residence; the three-story dwelling at 116 Macon Street, for a Mr. Keogh to W. Johnson for a residence, and 368 Putnam Avenue, for the Palmer estate to a Mr. Best.

Malcolm McKinnon, Jr., sold to an investor, 712 and 718 Fifty-third Street, two-family brick dwellings, each on a lot 20 by 100.2.

Prince Estate at Flushing Sold.

Realty owned by the estate of Charlotte C. Prince was sold at public auction yesterday at the Long Island City Court House by the executors.

The sale was ordered by the Supreme Court, and embraced three parcels of land in Flushing, some of them formerly the property of the Newtown and Flushing Railroad.

The first parcel of 1.16 acres, near Flushing Creek, sold for $200; the second, in a similar locality, consisting of 1 acre, sold for $200, while the third, consisting of 4-5 acre, sold for $100. All three parcels were purchased by C. Bradford Prince, who is an ex-Governor of New Mexico.

Sale at College Point.

John Francis Smith has sold for Margaret Crean to an investor a lot 50 by 120, being the northwest corner of Avenue F and Thirteenth Street, at College Point, L. I.

Investor Buys in Astoria.

A plot of ground 25 by 85, on which was recently built by William H. McWhirter a four-story brick apartment house, with stores, and located on Trowbridge and Willow Streets, Astoria, was sold to a Manhattan investor yesterday for $22,000. Soon after its improvement the property was sold to Clonin & Messenger, who have now resold it. In this vicinity Henry C. Johnson, Jr., will sell to-morrow at auction a number of plots.

$60,000 Sale at Irvington.

The estate of Alice O. L. Sand has sold to Carl Victor property at Irvington-on-Hudson, consisting of about eight acres, with brick residence, stable, outbuildings, &c., on Clinton Avenue and Hudson River, in the immediate neighborhood of the country residences of David Dows, Philip Schuyler, William G. McAdoo, Robert Hewitt, &c. The Sand estate held the property at $60,000. Kenneth Ives & Co. negotiated the transaction.

Commercial Leases.

Albert B. Ashforth, Inc., has leased the store and basement in the building at 54 West Thirty-ninth Street for a term of years to Leon P. Bailly.

Contract for Broadway Theatre.

Cramp & Co. of Philadelphia have been awarded contracts for the theatre and office building to be erected on the site of the old Brewster carriage factory, Broadway, Forty-seventh to Forty-eighth Streets.

The structure is estimated to cost $700,000, and will have a Broadway frontage of 155 feet, being 277 feet on Forty-seventh Street and 72 feet on Forty-eighth Street.

It is to be put up for the Mitchell H. Mark Realty Company of Buffalo, which leased the site last December from the Sutphen estate.

THE WEATHER.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 12.—The weather is generally unsettled in the Middle States, without any well defined storm areas. Showers occurred Tuesday in the Middle Atlantic States, the Ohio Valley, and at scattered places throughout the East Gulf States. Fair weather prevailed in the lake region and the North Atlantic States.

Temperatures were unseasonably low on Tuesday in the Atlantic States, as far south as the Carolinas. In the great central valleys they rose slowly, and are now near normal.

The weather will be unsettled, with showers on Wednesday, in the Middle Atlantic States, the Ohio and upper Mississippi Valleys. The cloudiness will increase on Wednesday in the northeastern districts and be followed Thursday by showers scattered from the lake region to the Atlantic Coast. Occasional showers will occur Wednesday and Thursday in the South Atlantic and East Gulf States. The weather will be mostly fair in the West. LATEST CUSTOMS RULINGS.

Duty Cut on Metal Polish—Protest on Cotton and Flax Fabric Fails.

The Board of United States General Appraisers yesterday overruled a protest by Marshall Field & Co. regarding the classification under the Tariff act of 1909, of union glass cloth made of cotton and flax. The goods were assessed by the Collector at Chicago at 45 per cent. ad valorem under Paragraph 332, as cloth in chief value of cotton. It was asserted by the importers that flax predominated in the fabrics, and that they were accordingly dutiable at 30 per cent. under Paragraph 357, as manufactures of flax. An analysis by the Government's chemist disproved this.

Protests by the Buhring Water Purifying Company against Collector Mitchel's assessment of 35 per cent. on filter tubes under Paragraph 96, were also thrown out. The merchandise was invoiced as carbon blocks. The importers asked to pay 10 per cent. under Paragraph 480, Act of 1909, on unenumerated unmanufactured articles.

Hensel, Bruckmann & Lorbacher won a reduction on metal polish, which had been taxed 35 per cent. ad valorem under Paragraph 95 of the present law, as an earthy or mineral substance. The importers established it dutiable at ¼ of 1 cent a pound under Paragraph 54, by similitude to whiting.

FOREIGN TRADE OPPORTUNITIES

The Daily Consular and Trade Report notes the following foreign trade opportunities. Further information regarding them may be obtained by addressing the Bureau of Foreign and Domestic Commerce, care of the Department of Commerce, Washington, D. C., giving the number of the item referred to:

11,438. RAILWAY WORKSHOPS.—The Minister of Chile has forwarded a copy of the Diario Oficial de Chile, which publishes an official decree of the Chilean Ministry of Railroads calling for a public competition in plans and bids for the construction of a standard workshop and for repairing workshops. Copy of the publication may be obtained from the Bureau of Foreign and Domestic Commerce.

11,439. COTTON BLANKETS AND UMBRELLAS.—An American Consul reports that a foreign business firm desires to be put in touch with American manufacturers of cheapest quality of cotton blankets and umbrellas, in which it states that it can always do a good business. The firm is prepared to buy on terms of sixty days' sight drafts, documents delivered upon payment. Prices should be cost, insurance, and freight and cost and insurance city of destination, less 3 per cent.

11,440. HABERDASHERY AND NOVELTIES.—A merchant in Germany, doing both a retail and wholesale business in articles of haberdashery, desires to secure the representation of American manufacturers in this line, especially those offering novelties. An American Consular officer writes that he now represents certain English and French houses, but wishes to extend his connections. He has a force of traveling salesmen covering most of Germany. References will be furnished, and correspondence may be in English.

11,441. PHOTOGRAPHIC APPARATUS.—A report from an American Consul states that a firm which sells American photographic goods desires to be placed in communication with some firm that manufactures an automatic photographic apparatus—a machine which, upon the dropping of a coin in the slot, photographs the person who stands before it, and from twenty to thirty seconds later automatically delivers the finished picture. Correspondence is solicited in German.

11,442. LAUNDRY PLANT, BOILERS, AND COOKING POTS.—The American Consulate General at Cape Town has forwarded a notice stating that tenders will be received until Sept. 10 by the Chairman of the Tender Board, Provincial Auditor's Office, Cape Town, South Africa, for the supply, delivery, and fixing in position (where necessary) certain laundry plant, boilers, and cooking pots for the hospital at Port Elizabeth.

11,443. OFFICE FURNITURE.—A business man has made application to an American Consul in Germany to be placed in communication with manufacturers of office furniture in the United States. He has been favorably impressed with the furniture in the office of the Consulate. Correspondence should be in German.

11,444. CANAL LOCKS AND GATES.—An American Consul reports that a business firm in his district desires to obtain the names of the firms manufacturing the machinery, locks, and gates for the Panama Canal locks. The firm desires to obtain this information at the earliest possible moment.

11,445. BOOTS AND SHOES.—A report from an American Consul states that a foreign business firm, English and Indian boot and shoe merchants, would like to see samples and catalogues of different American boot and shoe firms. If such goods are found suitable for local trade, orders will be given for their purchase. Terms, sixty days D-A, and allowing 2 per cent. commission.

11,446. GALVANIZED IRON SHEETS AND KETTLES.—The junior member and traveling representative of a European firm makes annual trips to foreign countries, and informs an American Consulate that he desires to receive catalogues and prices of galvanized iron sheets and small kettles, which he believes he can place to good advantage. The kettles should be of common cast iron, with three legs, a top, and two ears, with wire or iron handle attached, to hold from three to six quarts each. This firm also handles all classes of fabrics, hardware, soaps, and foodstuffs.

11,447. HAND-MADE LACE.—A merchant in Madagascar informs an American Consulate that he desires to get in touch with American importers of hand-made lace. Prices, samples, and full particulars will be furnished upon application to the merchant in question.

OFFICE OF SUPERINTENDENT OF PUBLIC WORKS.
Albany, August 4th, 1913.

Notice to Contractors:

Sealed proposals will be received by the undersigned at his office in the Capitol, at Albany, N. Y., until twelve o'clock noon of Wednesday, September 3rd, 1913, at which place and hour they will be publicly opened and read, for improving the New York State canals, pursuant to the provisions of Chapter 147 of the Laws of 1903, and of the amendments thereto, as follows:

I.
Erie Canal. Section 1.

For constructing a guard gate and a sluice gate at Station 280+00, Erie Canal, between Lock 6 and the present guard gate.

CONTRACT NO. 100.
Erie and Oswego Canals. Sections 6 and 1.

For constructing highway bridges at Hinmansville, Belgium and Long Branch, on the sites of Contracts 39, 12 and 57.

Sheets 1 to 22 inclusive.

Plans may be seen and detailed specifications, engineer's estimate of quantities, proposal blanks, form of contract and bonds required and other information for proposers may be had at the office of the Superintendent of Public Works at Albany, N. Y.; at the office of the Assistant Superintendent of Public Works for the Middle Division at Syracuse, N. Y.; at the office of the Assistant Superintendent of Public Works for the Western Division at Rochester, N. Y., and at the canal office, Spaulding's Exchange, Buffalo, N. Y.

Copies of detailed plans or drawings may be obtained from the State Engineer and Surveyor at Albany, N. Y., upon payment to him of the cost of producing them.

Monthly estimates will be paid of ninety per centum (90 per cent.) of the work done at the contract price. Every proposal for said work must be accompanied by a money deposit in the form of a draft or certified check upon some good banking institution in the city of Albany or New York, issued by a national or state bank in good credit within the State and payable at sight to the Superintendent of Public Works for five per centum (5 per cent.) of the amount of the proposal.

The person whose proposal shall be accepted will be required to execute a contract and furnish bonds within ten days from the date of notice of award delivered to him or them in person or mailed to the address given in the proposal.

Upon execution of the contract and approval of bonds, the certified check or draft will be returned to the proposer unless the same shall have been presented for collection prior to such time, in which case the amount of the deposit will be refunded by the Superintendent of Public Works.

The deposits of bidders other than the one to whom the award of contract shall be made will be returned immediately after the award has been made.

The amount of bond required for faithful performance will be ten per centum (10 per cent.) of the amount of the estimated cost of the work according to the contract price, and an additional bond, known as the labor bond, in the sum of ten per centum (10 per cent.) of the amount of the estimated cost of the work according to the contract price, will be required as security that the contractor will pay in full at least once in each month all laborers employed by him upon the work specified to be done in the contract.

In the event that more than one surety company is offered as surety on said bonds, co-insurance only will be accepted.

Each proposal must be addressed to the Superintendent of Public Works, Albany, N. Y., and must be endorsed on the envelope with the name of the construction for which the proposal is made.

Award, if made, will be made to the person or persons whose proposal shall be lowest in cost to the State for doing the work, and which shall comply with all provisions required to render it formal. Before any award shall be made the lowest bidder will be required to satisfy the Superintendent of Public Works of his ability to provide suitable equipment and materials for the proper performance of the work.

The right is reserved to reject all proposals and readvertise and award the contract in the regular manner if, in the judgment of the undersigned, the interests of the State will be enhanced thereby.

DUNCAN W. PECK,
Superintendent of Public Works.

OCEAN, BAY & DEPOT

Edgemere is the station between Arverne and Far Rockaway, and is reached via the Long Island R. R. by numerous express trains in about 30 minutes from either Manhattan or Brooklyn.

Edgemere is a seashore suburb of both summer and all the year round homes and has all city improvements and conveniences. The lots are fully developed, and most of them are of extra depth.

The restrictions are adequate, but very moderate. With a few exceptions one detached dwelling house to cost at least $2,500 is permitted to every 40 feet.

BUNGALOWS MAY BE ERECTED

Terms: 10% and auction fees down. Balance may be paid in all cash, or in

MONTHLY INSTALMENTS

Or 60% of the purchase price may remain on mortgage. All titles are insured to purchasers by the Title Guarantee and Trust Company.

On the day of sale a SPECIAL TRAIN will leave Flatbush Avenue, Brooklyn, at 1:30 P. M. for Edgemere, returning after the sale.

PUBLIC NOTICE OF HEARINGS BY THE INDUSTRIAL BOARD, NEW YORK STATE DEPARTMENT OF LABOR.

A public hearing will be held on Wednesday, August 20, 1913, at 9:30 A. M., in the Hearing Room of the Industrial Board, 381 Fourth Avenue, in the City of New York, on the adoption of proposed rules and regulations, pursuant to the provisions of Sections 51, 79a, 79b, 79c, and 79f of the labor law, formulating standards for the enclosure and construction of stairways, partitions, doors, openings and exits, and such additional requirements or exemptions as may accomplish the safety and adequacy of exit from factory buildings, and on Friday, August 22, 1913, 9:30 A. M., in the same place, on the adoption of proposed rules and regulations, pursuant to the provisions of Section 81a of the Labor law, relative to the installation, number, and location of fire alarm signals.

INDUSTRIAL BOARD, NEW YORK STATE DEPARTMENT OF LABOR, by JOHN R. SHILLADY, Secretary.

The Modern Way

Situation seekers formerly went from store to store, not knowing whether or not their services were needed. There is a way to save this time and annoyance. Want advertising in The New York Times puts a man in immediate communication with employers in need of help, and eliminates communication with those not interested.

Let The New York Times help you to a desirable position.

IDEAS ON TAXI COSTS AT WIDE VARIANCE

WILL RUN ANOTHER CAR

Says Business at Low Rate Is Paying Good Profit, and Gives All the Figures.

The ordinance which was intended to abolish private cab stands and cheapen taxicab rates has now been held up by injunction for twelve days beyond the date when it was to have become a law, and much discussion is heard about town as to the justice or injustice of the measure. The green signs which were intended to designate the new public stands have been much admired, but they have not attracted the "five cabs" or the "three cabs" or the one lone vehicle that was supposed to find refuge in or over their shadow, and conditions are about the same, except for the display of the new badges on the coats of drivers, as they have been for a long time. If one finds a cab with a rate of 30 cents for the first half mile, well and good. If he does not, he still pays his half dollar when the taximeter informs him it has whirled around for a distance covering some 880 feet.

For several days a TIMES reporter has been endeavoring to get some accurate information on a subject in which the public has expressed considerable interest, and upon which guesses have covered a wide range, namely, the sum that a well-regulated taxicab will earn, and what it costs to make that taxi do its work. The inquiry has covered parts of four days. As a result, two sets of figures on earnings and cost are submitted for the information of the public, and they vary almost as much as guesses made by laymen could vary.

Company and Individual.

One is from the experience of the management of one of the biggest and best regulated taxicab companies in New York. The other set is furnished by a man who owns and operates his own taxicab. The company computes its earnings and expenses on the mileage basis; the individual owner by the day and year.

The individual owner went into figures very fully. The company declined to enter into details as to various items of cost and upkeep, on the ground that this would be giving away business secrets of which rivals might take advantage.

The Yellow Taxicab Company has something like seventy-five stations in New York City, of which more than forty are at hotels and clubs. It owns and operates 448 taxicabs, of which the average cost, according to affidavit, ranged from $2,075 to $2,600. It has a big central station at Eighth Avenue and Forty-ninth Street, up-to-date in every respect, and its cars have a reputation for being clean and well-kept. Here is what H. R. Schwarz, Vice President of the company, said yesterday about the earnings of taxicabs and the cost:

"We have been getting this last year an average of $1.1506 per call on an average mileage of 1¾. Under the present rates there is still a loss in operation. We run 45 per cent. 'dead' to 55 per cent. 'live.' That is to say, our taxicabs are earning money 55 per cent. of the time that they are running. The rest of the time they are on their way to answer calls, or returning to a station. If we did not have a system of stations, whereby each cab when it delivers a passenger goes to our nearest station, our dead mileage would run up to at least 50 per cent. Some companies used to run as much as 60 to 70 per cent. dead.

"In the operation of taxicabs a great many items of expense figure. Some of the more important of these are the rent of building, the wages of drivers, starters and dispatchers, the cost of gasoline and lubricating oil, tires, drivers' uniforms, garage expenses, fire insurance, taximeter rent, licenses, taxes, and office expenses, the maintenance of cabs, telephones and depreciation charges. These items we have had worked out by certified public accountants, and they are not guesswork.

"An idea has got about that exorbitant salaries are paid officials. I will say frankly that my own arrangement with the company is a minimum salary and a percentage on profits. I have never got beyond the minimum sum. I believe that if we were given an opportunity ot work out this business without hindrance it would be possible to make a profit. So far as the taxicab business goes, there has been none.

Tells of Loss For Each Mile.

"Our earnings last year per mile were 41.13 cents and our expenses were 41.29 cents, without counting the interest on our bonded debt or a sufficient accident reserve. I cannot tell you, for business reasons, how these expenses were distributed, but there are fully fifty items that enter into consideration, including those I named just now.

"I would like to say, in respect to the subject of commissions, which has aroused such discussion, that the value of the lost property found in our cabs last year was greater than the commissions paid for the same period. We consider this sort of insurance of tremendous value to the public."

The Independent Taxicab Owners' Association is an organization of men who own and operate their own vehicles. According to Charles Armand, its Secretary, it numbers 140 men, who own from one to three vehicles each. For about fifteen months the association has been operating under a 30-cent rate. Its members are to be distinguished from the "buckers," who are apt to charge 50 cents the first half mile or any rate they can get. The I. T. O. A., as it is known, has plainly furnished offices in the Globe Theatre Building, and it has had a few stations in different parts of the city, where it pays for a telephone and hires a boy to answer calls. Here is a summary of the experience of Mr. Armand as related by himself:

"I have been driving my own car for almost five years. My investment at the start, in a low-priced American car, was a little more than including the rent of the clock (taximeter). Of course, I operated until the last fifteen months under the old rate. The earnings of my car, since I began to drive, have averaged $17 a day, or $5,100 for a year of 300 working days. Under the low rate I have made as much money as under the higher, because I have done a great deal more business. I operate my car myself until 5 o'clock in the afternoon, when I put on a man to whom I pay $3 for driving it at night. I do not know what time he finishes in the morning. He, of course, gets his tips, and I may tell you that with a low rate the tips have been a great deal more generous and general. I have taken in as much as $40 a day with the car, though not more than once or twice.

Car Has Paid for Itself.

"The actual cost of the car was $980. I have regularly charged off $1.75 a day to depreciation, and at that rate even, the car paid for itself before the end of the second year. I pay $20 a month for garage. I use on an average 60 cents' worth of gasoline a day. Once a week I have to buy a gallon of oil, which costs 30 cents. My bill for the year for this item will run to between $15 and $20. I pay myself $4 a day for my work. I figure out the earnings and expenses of my car per year of 300 days as follows:

Depreciation	$500
Garage	240
Gasoline	180
Oil, say	20
Fire insurance	20
Tires	150
Inner tubes	30
Clock rent	60
Painting and repairing	150
Pay for self	1,200
Wages of man	900
Total expense account	$3,450

"That makes a profit for myself as owner of $1,550. But as the car paid for itself in the first two years, the 'depreciation' item is really one merely of bookkeeping, and it might as well be added to my profit. So you see that in addition to my $1,200 wages, I am drawing over $2,000 a year on an investment, which was long since so well covered that my taxicab to-day stands me nothing for its cost. I am going to buy another."

CHAUFFEURS IN COURT.

Inspector Higgins Trying to Push Question of New Licenses.

Fourteen chauffeurs and owners of motor vehicles, operated for hire, were arraigned yesterday before Magistrate Breen, in the Yorkville Police Court by Chief Inspector Joseph F. Higgins of the Bureau of Licenses, charged with having failed to procure new licenses.

One of the defendants was Peter J. Walker, who received a summons on Monday night in front of the Metropolitan Opera House, while soliciting passengers for a "sight-seeing" automobile bound for Coney Island. The serving of the summons, however, did not interfere with last night's trip.

Nine of the defendants were represented by Attorney Elias G. Levy, who said that his clients were entitled to operate their machines without a new license, as are the machines of the Yellow Taxicab Company and the Mason-Seaman Transportation Company, the concerns which secured injunctions, restraining action in their cases, pending the threshing out of the matter. On motion by Attorney Levy, hearing in the cases of his clients was adjourned until Tuesday next, despite the protest of Chief Inspector Higgins.

The evidence against the other five defendants warranted the imposition of a fine of $3 in each case. Since Aug. 1, according to the Chief Inspector, but 1,500 new licenses have been issued.

"The reason more of the hackmen have not applied for new licenses," he said, "is because their machines will not come up to the sanitary and other standards required."

KILLED BY A SPIDER'S BITE.

Paterson Man Crushed Insect on His Face While Sleeping in Hay.

PATERSON, N. J., Aug. 12.—Bitten by a venomous spider on Thursday last at Ferndale in Sullivan County, N. Y., Abraham Snyder of 95 Market Street in this city died on the operating table at the General Hospital last evening.

Snyder was spending his vacation at Ferndale, and on Thursday for a lark he and some companions slept in a haymow. In the night Snyder crushed a spider that was crawling on his face, and early on Friday morning when he awoke his lower lip was much swollen. It pained him so that he could neither eat nor talk. Local physicians were called in, but they could give no relief, and he decided to return home for treatment.

On Saturday Dr. Jacob J. Greengrass was called in and ice was applied to reduce the swelling. Snyder gradually became weakened through his inability to eat, and Dr. George J. Koch was called in consultation. He advised an operation, but Snyder died before it could be performed.

FIGHTS HORNETS IN THE AIR.

Painter's Battle with Yellow Jackets 275 Feet Up.

LANSING, Mich., Aug. 12.—Clinging with one hand to a slender steel rod and battling with the other against a swarm of yellow jackets, De Forest N. Tickner narrowly escaped death yesterday, when he disturbed the nest of the insects in the dome of the State Capitol, 275 feet in the air.

Tickner was engaged to paint the dome. After climbing to the top of the spiral stairway, he stepped through a little window and started to scale the outside of the steel shell. As he ascended, hundreds of yellow jackets attacked him. Although stung repeatedly the painter fought his way back to the window.

Disguised as Brakeman, Steals Gems

CLEVELAND, Aug. 12.—A thief disguised as a brakeman entered a Pullman car in the Union Station here today, and, grabbing a chamois bag containing jewels worth $1,000 belonging to Mr. and Mrs. W. F. Beckham of Shelbyville, Ky., ran out. Mr. Beckham's little daughter gave the alarm. A score of passengers chased the robber, but he escaped. Mr. Beckham, a banker and attorney, is a cousin of ex-Gov. Beckham of Kentucky.

Siberian Refugee Ordered Deported.

BOSTON, Aug. 12.—Ernest Jaumsem, aged 30, a Russian newspaper man, who arrived here from Hamburg last Friday on the Cincinnati, has been ordered deported as "highly undesirable and unquestionably inimicable to the best interests of the United States." Jaumsem, who has appealed to Washington, is said to have admitted escaping from prison in Siberia, where he was serving a five-year term for writing in favor of a democratic form of Government for Russia.

GO TO WORKHOUSE FOR INVADING FLAT

Husband and Divorce Sleuths Who Attacked the de Sapresis to Spend a Month in Jail.

KNOW HOW TIGERS FIGHT

Artist Bitten and Clawed and Wife Bruised in Fight with Men Who Entered Wrong Apartment.

While Mrs. Elemer de Sapresi, wife of an artist employed by the Butterick Publishing Company, was lying asleep early yestedray morning on a box couch in the front room of her apartment at 149 West Twelfth Street, she dreamed a big frog came in at the window and was jumping toward her. In her fright she woke up and called to her husband and, as both sat up in bed they made out the form of a man, crouched before the bed, with something in his hand that resembled a revolver. A light flashed out and Sapresi was struck over the head.

The next instant fingers closed around the neck of Mrs. Sapresi, and she heard an oath applied to her. Mrs. Sapresi and her husband are both young and athletic, although of slight build, and they fought the intruders. Sapresi seized a bayonet which hung on the wall, and, as he did so, a large man who had assailed him sunk his teeth in Sapresi's neck. Mrs. Sapresi grabbed a glass vase, and broke it over the head of a man of much slighter build than the one who had attacked her husband, and then used pieces of the broken glass to scratch furrows down her assailant's cheeks. Both Mr. and Mrs. Sapresi thought they were dealing with desperate burglars.

The fight lasted for six minutes, and wrecked the flat. It ended when some one in the next apartment blew a police whistle, which brought patrolmen from the Charles Street Station.

When it was all over and there had been a session in the Jeffersan Market Court, at which James B. Zaring, a traveling salesman, living at 238 Greene Avenue, Brooklyn, was sntenced to thirty days in jail along with four companions who had accompanied him on a search for evidence on which he sought to sue his wife for a divorce, Zaring learned something which upset him much more than the jail sentence imposed upon him for his intrusion.

This was that the man who had blown the polic whistle which brought the officers was the man he was looking for, and that this man had escaped down the same fire escape up which Zaring had climbed only to enter the wrong apartment after getting to the right floor. The four men sentenced to thirty days in the workhouse with Zaring said they were Melville S. Forrester of 307 East Thirty-third Street, David Willard of 75 East 109th Street, William O'Connor of 349 Lexington Avenue, and Henry Fresch of 20 East Forty-eighth Street. Willard and O'Connor told the Magistrate they were private detectives, but refused to tell by what agency they were employd. The other men who had accompanied Baring said they were lawyers' clerks.

Mr. Sapresi, who was badly injured in the fight in his flat, employed lawyers last night to sue the detective concern or lawyer who sent the men out. He said he wished to have them all severely punished except Mr. Zaring, for whom he had much sympathy.

From the tangled versions of motives and miscarried plans as they were outlined before Magistrate Corrigan in the Jefferson Market Court, it appeared that Zaring trailed his wife several days ago to the West Twelfth Street address, which his raiding party visited. They noticed which bell she rang and learned where the flat it belonged to stood.

Where Zaring miscalculated was in not figuring on the small apartments in the house. He and Willard, one of his four companions, climbed the fire escape in front of the West Twelfth Street apartment house, and on the second floor they saw, as Zaring asserted, his wife in a room which could be entered from the fire escape. Another window opening on the same fire escape was open, and Zaring decided to enter this window. He insisted in court that he thought it led into the same apartment.

His three companions, who stayed behind, did not enter by way of the fire escape, but after the police whistle had been blown, they entered through the front door, which was opened for them on the supposition that they were policemen. They were trying to get their two companions out of the Sapresi flat when they were arrested.

As Mr. and Mrs. Sapresi entered their apartment on returning from court the woman from the flat next door was waiting to see them. "Oh, my dear lady," she sobbed, "that horrible husband of mine. Why didn't you finish him, kill him altogether, instead of just gouging his cheeks with glass?"

"Indeed," Mrs. Sapresi answered, "I am sorry for your husband. I would have interceded with the Judge to let him off altogether if I could have done so. I would not have harmed him at all, only I thought he was a burglar. And I am sorry he had to go to jail in spite of the fact that he wrecked my apartment."

The woman from the next flat returned to her own rooms, drew the front blinds, and began to pack up. It was announced that she would move away at once. She had resided there for some time under an assumed name.

"I want it understood," said Mr. Sapresi, "that every mark upon my assailant was made by my clenched fist, or the bayonet with which I cut him over the head, while every mark upon me comes from teeth or clawing finger nails. I have often wondered how a tiger fights, but now I know. This man tore the muscles of my left arm open with his finger nails and bit the back of my neck. That was the only way of fighting he seemed to know.

"He was a big brute of the gorilla type. I felt his paws on me, and I knew it was to be a fight in which brains must be matched against brute strength. The first thing that occurred to me as I stepped out of bed to grapple with him was that I must husband my force, and that if I called for help I would use up strength. I had spoken of that to my wife before when we had talked of the possibility of burglars. I had told her to let me do the fighting and for her to scream.

"She tried that, but Zaring had her by the throat. She forced Zaring to the telephone and pulled the receiver, but the hall boy was asleep. Zaring got the receiver back on again. Later in the fight I and my assailant scuffled to the telephone, and I knocked the receiver off with my shoulder. We heard the buzzer at the switchboard, but the boy was still asleep.

"As I struck out at my man the first time, he smashed the globe of an electric light, and the broken glass splintered over the floor. I had to wade around in that in my bare feet, while he had the advantage of having his shoes on. I had practiced with a rifle in Hungary before coming to this country—in a military academy. We had been taught that our bayonets were to finish off cavalrymen after disabling their horses as they charged us. But when I came to use this bayonet I was in the position of an unhorsed man, for I was down on the bed and the man I was striking at was on top of me. That is why I did not kill him instead of merely giving him three scalp wounds."

Among the things broken in the Sapresi apartment were several antique vases, which had been in the family for several generations and were highly prized as heirlooms.

HEARST MINES ATTACKED.

Catholic Federation Says They Impede Religious Work.

MILWAUKEE, Aug. 12.—Delegates representing the 3,000,000 Catholic members of the American Federation of Catholic Societies to-day voted unanimously to telegraph Mrs. Phoebe A. Hearst of Pleasanton, Cal., mother of William Randolph Hearst, as chief owner of certain mining properties in Lead; to wire J. B. Haggin of New York, as President of the same, and to F. J. Guer of Lead, Superintendent, emphatically protesting against conditions in Lead, which, the Federation alleges, impede the work of religion and have caused Bishop Joseph F. Busch to be exiled from the See city of his diocese.

The Convention decided to ask the President and Congress to make a vigorous protest against the spoliation of church properties in Portugal, a subject which was brought to the attention of the convention by the Rev. Joseph Husslein, S. J., of New York City.

The report of the social section of the Resolutions Committee was made by Chairman F. W. Immekus of Pittsburgh, and went on record as favoring the labor unions so long as they did not mix in politics and exerted their influence only toward the betterment of the workingmen from a labor standpoint.

An appeal for State aid of Catholic schools was voiced in the resolutions, as was the admission of Catholic books and literature to public libraries. Eugenics and the teaching of sex hygiene were discouraged.

The report of the National Committee on Public Morals, read by Chairman Edward Feeney of Brooklyn, dealt entirely with anti-Catholic publications. Mr. Feeney told of the work of the committee in its attempts to suppress the publication and distribution of American publications which belittled Catholicism, and the exclusion of an Italian publication from the United States mail. The report was referred to a committee, and will no doubt be included in the list of resolutions which will come before the convention tomorrow.

OTTO H. KAHN'S NEW HOME.

C. P. H. Gilbert Drawing Plans for Residence Opposite Carnegie's

C. P. H. Gilbert, the architect, of Twenty-fifth Street and Broadway, is preparing plans for the new house which is to be erected on the northeast corner of Fifth Avenue and Ninety-first Street, opposite the home of Andrew Carnegie, for Otto H. Kahn of the banking firm of Kuhn, Loeb & Co. Mr. Kann bought the property from Mr. Carnegie last May. It is one of the choicest plots in the Carnegie Hill section of Fifth Avenue, and embraces half a block front, 100 feet on the avenue by 145 feet on Ninety-first Street, adjoining on that street Mrs. James S. Burden's residence.

Mr. Kahn took title to the property through the Lawyers' Realty Company last June, giving back a mortgage of $675,000 to Mr. Carnegie. A few days ago workmen began excavating for the foundations of the house, which will be one of the largest and finest residences on upper Fifth Avenue. Mr. Gilbert admitted yesterday that he was preparing plans for the house to be built there, but he declined to go into any particulars.

Several years ago Mr. Kahn purchased a large plot in the old Lenox Library block, directly in the rear of the old library site, on which Henry C. Frick is now erecting a large residence. A year ago Mr. Kahn abandoned his plan of building on this plot, which ran through from Seventieth to Seventy-first Street, and sold the property. His new house, it is understood, will cost close to $1,000,000, and will probably be ready for accupancy within a year.

More than a year ago there was a rumor that Mr. Kahn was going to live in England. He denied that he intended to forsake America as his residential place, and this is now verified in the definite plans which have been made for his new home in this city.

V. H. BROWN LEFT $500,000.

Bulk of Estate Is Left in a Life Trust to the Widow.

Vernon Howland Brown, the transatlantic shipping agent, who died on Aug. 5 at his home, 145 West Fifty-eighth Street, bequeathed the bulk of his estate in a life trust for the benefit of his wife, Mrs. Emma S. Brown, according to the will filed for probate yesterday in the Surrogates' Court. In addition to this life income Mrs. Brown receives under the will all of her husband's furniture and personal effects. The petition did not give the value of the estate, but it is said to exceed $500,000.

Upon the death of his wife the property from which she derives the income is to be divided in equal shares among the six children—Mrs. Marie Louisa Brown Morice and Vernon C., Edward W., Stephen H., William S., and Gardner W. Brown. It is also provided that any indebtedness of his son, Gardner Willard Brown, to the estate up to $5,000 is to be canceled. Mrs. Kate S. Brown, a sister-in-law, under the will receives a life interest in a trust fund of $10,000 and $5,000 is left outright to a grandson, Vernon H. Brown 2d.

Mr. Brown enjoined his wife and children to surrender to the estate all insurance moneys and membership funds in the exchanges of which he was a member which were made payable to them. In case any one should refuse to carry out these instructions he directed that this person's legacy under the will should lapse and become a part of that distributed among the other heirs. The executors of the estate and the trustees of the residuary estate are the sons and his widow.

Won't Let Schrank Come Here.

OSHKOSH, Wis., Aug. 12.—Dr. Adin Sherman, Superintendent of the Northern Hospital for the Insane, said today that John Schrank, who attempted to assassinate Theodore Roosevelt in Milwaukee, will not be removed from the hospital except upon order of the municipal court from which he was committed. Schrank is involved in bankruptcy proceedings in New York City, and the question was whether he would be permitted to return there to protect his property interests.

LETTER 'E' GOVERNS POISON PEN CASE

Typewriter Expert Is Put on Stand to Testify Against Mrs. Nelson L. Pollard.

HE POINTS OUT DEFECTS

Letter in Writing Machine Same as in the Letters Which Caused the Arrest.

ELIZABETH, N. J., Aug. 12.—After ten postponements, Judge Owen P. Mahon held a hearing to-day on the charges by Mrs. Charles F. Jones against her neighbor, Mrs. Nelson L. Pollard, in the now famous "poisoned pen" case.

Mrs. Jones, who charged that Mrs. Pollard had sent her objectionable anonymous letters, was the first to take the stand and testified that she had received the letters complained of as far back as last November, some of them being typewritten, while the balance were in long hand.

Mrs. Jones also testified that she had noticed a defect in the letter "e" of the typewritten letters, and that she had subsequently learned that a typewriter which Mrs. Pollard owned had a defective "e." The witness added that the letters in script which she had received had been compared with letters sent by Mrs. Pollard, and that there was a close resemblance in the handwriting.

Frank J. Hayes of Paterson, a typewriter expert, testified that he had called at Mrs. Pollard's home on April 29 last to obtain a specimen of the work done by her typewriting machine, representing himself as a typewriter salesman.

Mrs. Pollard was in court heavily veiled, and when Lawyer A. J. David, representing Mrs. Jones, asked Judge Mahon to order Mrs. Pollard to remove her veil, so that Hayes might identify her, Mrs. Pollard's attorney, Samuel Schleimer, was on his feet in an instant, protesting:

Judge Mahon gently suggested that Hayes might identify Mrs. Pollard by peering through her veil close range, and this the typewriter expert did, saying:

"This is the woman," as he returned to the witness box.

He added that she had told him the make of her machine, which was the same kind as the one on which the alleged "poisoned pen" letters were written.

Lawyer David then urged that enough evidence had been presented to warrant holding Mrs. Pollard for the Grand Jury, while Lawyer Schleimer was just as fervent in his belief that no evidence whatever had been presented, and urged that the complaint be dismissed. Judge Mahon reserved his decision.

A second charge against Mrs. Pollard, having nothing to do with Mrs. Jones's complaint, is to be heard before United States Commissioner Stockton in Newark on Thursday. In the Federal case, Mrs. Pollard is charged with improper use of the mails, it being asserted that she sent an improper letter to Dr. Charles H. Schlichter of this city.

WESTON FREED OF BLAME.

U. S. Authorities Decide He Did Not Write Offensive Letters.

Special to The New York Times.

NEW BRUNSWICK, N. J., Aug. 12.—A. George Weston, formerly employed here as the gardener and overseer of the Parker estate, returned to New Brunswick to-day, after having been discharged in Philadelphia by United States Commissioner Edmonds on the charge of having sent improper letters to Dorothy Parker.

Miss Parker is the daughter of Mrs. Gustave Stromberg of 160 West Fifty-ninth Street, New York. Mrs. Parker married Mr. Stromberg a few months ago, and Miss Parker is with her on a visit to her husband's relatives in Sweden.

The postal authorities arrested Weston after several letters of the most offensive nature had been received by Miss Parker. The handwriting experts were doubtful as to much of the evidence, and Commissioner Edmonds was sure it was insufficient to justify further prosecution of Weston. Weston's family describes his arrest as outrageous, and talks of prosecution for false arrest.

TRAIN HITS WOMAN'S CAR.

Mrs. John Stilwell and Her Chauffeur Hurt Near Long Branch.

LONG BRANCH, N. J., Aug. 12.—An automobile occupied by Mrs. John Stilwell of Norwood Avenue, Long Branch, N. J., and driven by her chauffeur, Leroy Hurley, was run down to-night at the North Long Branch crossing of the Central Railroad of New Jersey by a train made up of an engine and one car. Mrs. Stilwell was thrown out into the road, sustaining many bruises. She was also suffering from shock, and was removed to the Long Branch Hospital in a serious condition. She told the physicians there that she was unable to remember any of the details of the accident. Hurley also was thrown out, but not seriously hurt.

The automobile, a big five-passenger touring car, was badly wrecked. Mrs. Stilwell was on her way home from North Long Branch when the accident occurred. An investigation was at once started to determine whether the engineer of the locomotive blew the danger signal as he approached the crossing.

WISE WORDS

A Physician on Food.

A physician of Portland, Oregon, has views about food. He says:

"I have always believed that the duty of the physician does not cease with treating the sick, but that we owe it to humanity to teach them how to protect their health especially by hygienic and dietetic laws.

"With such a feeling as to my duty I take great pleasure in saying to the public that in my own experience and also from personal observation I have found no food to equal Grape-Nuts and that I find there is almost no limit to the great benefit this food will bring when used in all cases of sickness and convalescence.

"It is my experience that no physical condition forbids the use of Grape-Nuts. To persons in health there is nothing so nourishing and acceptable to the stomach, especially at breakfast, to start the machinery of the human system on the day's work. In cases of indigestion I know that a complete breakfast can be made of Grape-Nuts and cream, and I think it is necessary not to overload the stomach at the morning meal. I also know the great value of Grape-Nuts when the stomach is too weak to digest other food.

"This is written after an experience of more than 20 years treating all manner of chronic and acute diseases, and the letter is written voluntarily on my part without any request for it." Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich.
